

SOUTHERN ENGINES IN COLOR SET NEW STYLE

Handsome New Passenger Locomotive of Southern Railway System, Painted Green and Gold.

Atlanta, Ga.—Much attention has been attracted by the brightly painted locomotives which the Southern Railway System is putting in service to pull its fast through passenger trains. Displacing the sombre black which has been the universal garb for locomotives on American railways in recent years, the Southern has adopted a color scheme of Virginia green and gold for its passenger engines and twenty-three of the heavy Pacific type are now coming from the Richmond plant of the American Locomotive Company, dressed in the new colors. They are a part of an order for 113 locomotives which was given by the Southern in March.

The new engines have tenders, cabs and other projections above the boiler jackets; drivers and truck wheels painted a rich Virginia green with gold leaf striping. The boiler jackets, driving rods and other running parts are highly polished, adding greatly to the attractive appearance of the locomotives. The photograph shows No. 1393, the first of the new engines to reach Atlanta, ready to pull No. 33, the "Crescent Limited," from Atlanta to Spencer, N. C.

Four of the engines which will handle Nos. 37 and 38 between Atlanta and Washington have their tenders lettered "Crescent Limited" and three to run between Chattanooga, Birmingham and Meridian have their tenders lettered "Queen and Crescent Limited."

A distinctive feature of these new locomotives is the size of the tenders which have capacity for 14,000 gallons of water and 16 tons of coal. The tenders have twelve wheels, being mounted on two six-wheel trucks, and were designed to eliminate stops for water. They run through between Atlanta and Greenville without stopping for either coal or water. Likewise no coal or water is taken between Greenville and Spencer, N. C., where engines are changed. The engine put on at Spencer runs to Monroe, Va., without taking on coal or water, and then runs to Washington, D. C. Two engines thus make the run of 637 miles between Atlanta and Washington, each of them stopping only once for coal and water.

Like other heavy Pacific type engines now in service on the Southern, the new engines have 73-inch driving wheels, cylinders of 27-inch diameter and 28-inch stroke, and such modern improvements as mechanical stokers, power reverse gears, feed water heaters, superheaters and brick arches. The engines alone weigh 400,000 pounds and the tenders, when loaded 256,000 pounds.

FARMERS ALLIANCE ENDORSE WEAVER

North Central States Agricultural Conference Says Good Word for Present Congressman.

The following letter, addressed to Hon. Zebulon Weaver, representative of the Tenth Congressional District, is self explanatory. The North Central States Agricultural conference is composed of representative farmers' organizations of the eleven north central states:

Chicago, Aug. 23, 1926

Hon. Zebulon Weaver, Asheville, North Carolina. Dear Congressman:

At the meeting of the Corn Belt committee of farm organizations at Des Moines on July 20, the following expression was included in the platform, and was subsequently adopted by the Executive Committee of the North Central States Agricultural Conference:

"We commend those members of Congress who faithfully supported the farm relief bill in the recent session and hereby ask farmers throughout the United States to give to them their loyal support without respect to party, for in these premises the hour has arrived when we must place the well-being of agriculture above petty lines of party division."

"The Congress of the United States has been controlled since the formation of our government through bi-partisan combinations within Congress, whose members held loyalty to an economic interest above party ties. This nation has accepted and grown accustomed to financial blocs, commercial blocs, industrial blocs, and other groups formed to control legislative action. We resent therefore the implication that agriculture introduced a new element in legislation when senators and representatives from farm districts in both parties began to work together to protect the interests of their states. Furthermore, we believe that such organization among senators and representatives in agricultural states and districts has never been as effective or as thorough-going as it should have been, and we urge them at once to organize themselves into an aggressive and effective unit, regardless of party, to express and work for the economic interest of agriculture."

In carrying out the spirit of the foregoing, we wish to take this occasion to express our appreciation of your vote on the legislation in the last session aimed to secure agricultural equality.

We sincerely trust that you will realize that our motive in writing you is not political. The farm problem is important enough to demand the best thought and effort of the nation's leaders regardless of party.—Very truly yours,

North Central States Agricultural Conference —George N. Peek.—Adv. 3-1t.

WELLS BROS. SALE A COMPLETE SUCCESS

Wells Bros., North Henrietta, placed an ad exclusively in The Courier last week, which proved so profitable. Mr. Wells called at this office Tuesday and ordered another ad of same size. He says he was greatly pleased with the results of his sale, which shows that advertising goods at a right price always pays. Wells Bros. are advertising that they wish to help the farmer in the time of low-priced cotton, and price their goods accordingly. See their ad in today's Courier for full particulars.

P.-T. A. MEETING

The Parent-Teachers Association held its first meeting of the year in the High school building Thursday afternoon, October 14. The meeting was called to order by the president, Mrs. R. E. Biggerstaff. Prayer by Prof. Erwin. Roll called and Mrs. O. C. Turner's room was awarded a book for having the largest number of mothers present. Our P.-T. A. state convention meets in Burlington, November 9, 10 and 11. A delegate will be appointed to represent this Association by the president. How good it looked to see all the teachers back in their places again and a very hearty welcome was extended also to the new ones. Parents come to the P.-T. A. meetings and let's stand by these teachers and cooperate with them in every way we can so that this will be our very best year's work.
