Independence Day

On July 4th we again celebrate the birthday of our country.

A century and a half is miraculous time for an infant country to develop into a gigantic, respected power among nations.

The character of a nation is but the reflection of its people. And the love of liberty and independence, and the faithful observance of thrift, which solved the problems of our growing nation, can do equally as much for you.

This institution will be closed all day July 4th
