

SCHOOL STUDENTS BUILD MODEL POULTRY HOUSE

Chicken House Erected as Part of Class Room Work in Agricultural Course

Ellenboro, June 4.—Recently the students of agriculture at Ellenboro built a model poultry house, 18x24 feet, for Charles Walker, a student, as a part of their school work in agriculture. The building was put up during their regular 90-minute class period.

The project served to make school work more practical and interesting to the boys. In putting down the concrete foundation problems in determining the number of cubic feet of sand, cement and gravel were worked with a check on the actual amounts of each needed to finish that part of the building. There were also problems in ascertaining the amount of lumber and roofing needed. Then, the boys got actual practice in construction work. Knowledge is obtained easier, retained longer and is worth more when experienced and put to practice.

This is the second model poultry house built by the Ellenboro agricultural students as a part of their school work within the last two years: Both have proved their worth in helping to get more eggs in cold weather when eggs are high in price, in addition to serving as models for poultry house construction within the community.

Greater gas mileage

It may surprise motorists and mechanics who know most about oil to read this proof of how a different oil

"STANDARD" MOTOR OIL

"Standard" Greases, Transmission Oil and Gear Compound are made with the same care as "Standard" motor fuels and motor oils.

ACTUALLY INCREASES GASOLINE MILEAGE

Tests were made by a motor car manufacturer by driving cars for two thousand miles cross country, comparing "Standard" Motor Oil with other well-known brands. The same gasoline was used in all cars. The use of "Standard" Motor Oil showed increases of from 7 to 11% in the number of miles per gallon of gasoline.

This is because "Standard" Motor Oil forms the best seal between piston and cylinder wall, thus insuring a more perfect combustion and a more powerful piston stroke. More power means more miles per gallon of gasoline.
