Checkerboard Sandwich

Checkerboard sandwiches for the bridge luncheon is the dernier cri of fashionable society. Dainty morsels of white and whole wheat bread, made to look like mosaic work, appeal not only to the palate but the eye.

Spread them with any filling you like, or simply serve them in their pristine innocence with clear tea and a portion of lemon. Either method is quite correct. And then there's cheese and parsley, rolls and layer loaf sandwiches, both companion favorites of the hostess with a taste for the individual.

Here are some suggestions on the easiest and most artistic method of making all three:

Checkerboard Sandwiches.

Make three-layer sandwiches of alternating one-half inch slices of whole wheat and white bread; spread generously with margarine or butter. Slice the three-decker down in one-half-inch slices. Combine three of these slices to make cubes, using first a slice with the whole wheat bread in the center, then the white, then the whole wheat. Spread each layer with margarine or butter, press, and slice thin. These sandwiches are picturesque as well as delicious.

Cheese-Parsley Roll.

Cut away the crust from a sandwich loaf and slice lengthwise of the loaf in thin sections. Spread the whole slice with butter or margarine, then with a filling made from cream cheese, softened with cream or salad dressing and mixed with lots of chopped parsley. Roll each long slice up like a jelly roll, let stand a few minutes, and slice thin.

Layer Loaf Sandwiches.

Remove crust from a sandwich loaf as before and cut in five lengthwise slices. Spread with margarine or butter. Put bread together like a layer cake, then cover the entire loaf with softened cheese after the manner of frosting a cake. Decorate the top. Make twelve hours before using and press before covering with cheese. The first layer may be filled with chopped sweet pickles and parsley, moistened with dressing; the second with hard-cooked egg yolk mixed with margarine or butter; the third with hard-cooked egg whites chopped, mixed with cream cheese and dressing; and the fourth with finely chopped boiled ham or tongue with dressing.

HIGH HONOR FOR MISS FLOY JACKSON

Graduate of County Teachers' Training Course Wins Scholarship For Best All-Round Student

Miss Floy Jackson of Inman, S. C., who was president of the Rutherford County Teacher Training class the past year, conducted at Central High school, also honor student of that class has been announced winner of the Mabelle Johnston Scholarship for the best all-round teacher training student in the state. The award is a scholarship of $100 to be used for professional training in some teacher training institution in the state.

Miss Jackson will also be granted a loan scholarship of $150, if she desires to accept it. This loan scholarship has also been extended to Miss Annie Hodge of Rutherfordton, on the recommendation of Mrs. T. E. Johnston, supervisor of teacher training in standard high school of the state.

The first factor in the work of a student of teacher training is the scholastic record made for the entire year. Miss Jackson lead in this. This is a high honor and Miss Jackson is receiving congratulations of her many friends.

Misses Jackson, Hodge and Nell McBrayer, the latter of the Shiloh section are attending the summer session of the Appalachian State Normal at Boone. The two former, who graduated last May will remain through the entire session at Boone, doing work toward graduation.

Miss Jackson had to stand four professional examinations, which were very exhaustive. She made an excellent grade on all these. This also shows that the work being done here by the instructor, Miss C. Frances Whitney is thorough and satisfactory. It reflects much credit on the County Teacher Training Department and Miss Whitney.

family, of Avondale, also Mr. and Mrs. George Matheny and family, of Alexander, visited their grandmother Sunday afternoon, Mrs. J. L. Harrill.

Several from here visited the Flat Rock park Sunday to hear the band. Mr. and Mrs. Henry Brandle, of Henrietta, visited Mr. Brandle's uncle Sunday, Mr. A. Brandle.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Bradley and family spent Monday afternoon at Mr. and Mrs. A. Brandle.

DEATH CLAIMS MRS. JOHN EDWARDS

Passed at Home of Daughter at Chimney Rock—Funeral at Mt. Creek

Chimney Rock, June 18.—Mrs. Louisa Edwards, widow of the late John F. Edwards died at the home of her daughter at Chimney Rock last Wednesday, June 13th. Funeral services and interment were held at Mt. Creek Baptist church Thursday afternoon with Revs. E. B. Jenkins, M. L. Buchanan and M. L. Lennon in charge. A large crowd of sorrowing friends and relatives attended. The various speakers paid a true tribute to her noble life. The floral offering was large and beautiful. The male quartet of the Rutherfordton Baptist church composed of Messrs. C. W. Keeter, W. W. Nanney, J. F. Orders and N. L. Hampton sang, to the delight of all.

Pallbearers were Thos. J. and Thos. H. Edwards, Wade Geer, Judson and Carl Koone and Herbert Wilson.

Flower girls were: Misses Elizabeth and Maude Rucker, Clara and Emma Koone, Dorothy and Ruth Edwards, Catherine Keeter, Hope and Fay Erwin, Gertrude McMahan, Dortha Stewart, Lela Morris and Alma Geer.

Mrs. Edwards was 76 years, four months and twenty-seven days old. She was converted at the age of 16 and joined the Baptist church and lived a devoted member for 60 years. She married John F. Edwards in 1870. Two children survive, Dr. A. M. Edwards of Taylorsville and Mrs. Hattie Williams, Chimney Rock. Mr. Edwards preceded her to the grave some years ago.

Mrs. Edwards was a kind mother, a devoted Christian and a good neighbor. She made friends everywhere she went.

A blind man in Kansas City is involved in a divorce suit. Probably as a result of not keeping an eye on his wife.
