

Telephone Employees Sign A Safety-Driving Pledge

Care and Courtesy Are the Keynotes of a Voluntary Movement Started at Detroit.

NEARLY 1,000 telephone men and women residing in the city of Detroit have united in a safe-driving crusade to which they are to lend their combined and individual active and moral support, in an effort to solve the very serious traffic problem in the city.

This safe-driving campaign which was inaugurated in March of this year by the drivers of the Michigan Bell Telephone Company's motor vehicles in Detroit, not only is attracting wide attention, but is gaining momentum constantly. Scores of telephone people who drive personal cars only have added impetus to the effort by voluntarily signing the pledge to drive safely. This pledge was drawn up by the various drivers at the beginning of the campaign and came at a time when Detroit's traffic situation had reached a crucial stage. The pledge has been signed by 454 drivers whose duties in connection with telephone work requires them, either regularly or occasionally, to drive motor vehicles through the streets of Detroit. The pledge covers the following points:

1. To observe traffic regulations.
2. To drive carefully.
3. To let those pass who wish to do so.
4. To give pedestrians, particularly children and elderly persons, opportunity to cross the street in safety.
5. To render assistance and first aid in emergencies.

A signed card is posted before the driver's seat as a constant reminder of his responsibility in promoting safety on Detroit streets.

60 PER CENT OF WORLD'S PEOPLE EAT NO BUTTER

American Table Delicacy Unknown to More Than Billion in Other Nations.

Chicago.—Sixty per cent of the population of the earth, or 1,032,000,000 people, do not use butter and a considerable per cent have never heard of it.

This doubtless will astonish persons unfamiliar with the history of foods and accustomed to butter on the home table since infancy. Similar popular myths prevail regarding the length of time coffee, tea, and tobacco have been numbered among civilized luxuries. The addition of European people and their descendants on this side of the Atlantic to these pleasant stimulants dates back only a few hundred years. All the conquests and great exploits of the ancient and medieval world were achieved without them.

Butter as a spread for bread is used only in a comparatively small area of the earth, chiefly in northern Europe and America. In other parts of the world, olive oil, tallow drippings and coconut oil take the place of butter in cooking and as a table dish. In China, Japan, India and other nations of southeastern Asia, where rice is the staple food, no butter is used and various fats and oils are added to the cereal to give it flavor and nutritive value.

Margarine has been an established article of diet in Europe and America since the reign of Napoleon III in France when Hippolyte Mege-Mouries developed the method of manufacturing it. It was at first considered a substitute for butter but now in several European countries butter is a substitute for margarine. In Denmark, notably, one of the leading dairying countries of Europe, it is almost a universal custom among the farmers to export their butter to England and use margarine on their family tables.

No prejudice exists in Europe against margarine and the inimical sentiment against it which developed a decade or so ago in America and which, from an economic view is difficult to understand, is gradually disappearing. Margarine is a wholesome food made under thoroughly sanitary conditions and government inspection. It is made only from the finest oils, vegetable or animal or both combined, milk, and salt and, its manufacture is a source of immense profit to American farmers. As far as taste goes, it is difficult for even a connoisseur to distinguish between the best quality of margarine and the best quality of butter. As a spread for bread, both butter and margarine are considered by dietitians merely as delicacies or what are known technically as accessory foods.

"Given an ordinary, every-day reasonably well-balanced diet for the average man, or child," says Dr. William D. Richardson, internationally famous scientist and dietitian, "it does not make any difference from the dietary standpoint whether the individual eats margarine or butter and the one he chooses is entirely a matter of taste, preference, or economy. He may choose to eat one or the other or neither without any appreciable influence on his growth, health, strength or physical or mental energy. His diet usually is, and should be, so balanced and varied that he is not dependent on the small quantity of fat which is spread on bread to make it palatable."
