THE COURIER WILL PUBLISH CAPTAIN HARRILL'S MEMOIRS

Reminiscences of Commander of Forest City Company in War of 1861-65 Will Begin Next Week

The Courier's serial story, "Red Hair and Blue Sea," is concluded in this issue. Judging from the many comments heard this serial has proved of much interest to many of our readers. Beginning next week we will begin the publication of Captain L. Harrill's memoirs. Captain Harrill was commander of Company I, 56th Regiment. He enlisted in Company D, 16th Regiment, which was formed in Burnt Chimney (Forest City) and immediate vicinity, and was the first company to leave the county. Later he assisted in recruiting Company I, which was composed largely of Forest City men, and was commander of that company until his capture near the close of the war. Captain Harrill's reminiscences mention by name every man in the company. Since a large portion of these men were drawn from Forest City territory this series of articles should be of compelling interest to every resident of Forest City and Ellenboro, and of general interest to Rutherford county.

Captain Lawson Harrill's reminiscences cover every detail of the companies with which he was connected from the day Company D left Burnt Chimney to the close of the war.

The first chapter of this interesting historical material will be published next week.
