TWO NEGRO YOUTHS DROWNED IN LAKE LURE LAST WEEK

Bodies Come to Surface of Lake Monday After Being Under Water Since Friday

Lake Lure, July 16.—Mystery surrounding a canoe, found Sunday, on Lake Lure turned upside down between the boat landing and the old bed of the river, was solved Monday morning when the bodies of two negro youths were seen floating on the lake.

The negro youths were Thomas Parker, of Lake Lure, and Lee Pearl Lewis, of Rutherfordton.

It is supposed that the boys took out a boat late at night for a ride when it capsized with them. A watch was found in Lewis' pockets which had stopped at 12:35 a. m.

Lewis' body was taken to Rutherfordton and buried Monday and Parker was buried at Chimney Rock.

One of the life guards stationed at Lake Lure found a canoe capsized in the lake Sunday afternoon, and nearby a cap bearing the initials "K. L." The guard, assisted by the boat house manager, dived several times near the spot in an attempt to learn if anyone had been drowned, but without avail.

The bodies came to the surface of the lake Monday. It is thought that they were drowned last Friday night, as about three days is required for the gases to form in the body and make it float.
