The following Saturday, November 3, will be challenge day, and the general election will be held Tuesday, November 6.

SORE Could Not Rest

Mrs. J. H. Nichols, who lives at 513 Elm Tree Lane, Lexington, Ky., says:

"Some few years ago, my health was bad. I had very severe pains in my sides. My nerves were in a terrible condition. I could not rest.

"The lower part of my body was very sore. I did not feel like eating, and did not sleep well at all at nights.

"A friend of mine recommended Cardui. I began taking it and saw quite an improvement in my condition. I kept it up until I felt strong and well."

About a year ago, Mrs. Nichols says, she found herself in a nervous, run-down condition. "I took Cardui again," she adds, "and it helped me wonderfully. It is a splendid tonic."

Cardui is a mild, medicinal tonic, made from purely vegetable ingredients.

PROGRESS BEING MADE IN TOWNSHIP SCHOOL SYSTEM

Bostic Heads List of Schools in Average Daily Attendance—Others Make Good Records

The schools of Cool Springs Township made a better record in attendance last month than any month since the schools were consolidated. In order for pupils to attend regularly they must like school. The work must be made interesting for them to choose to go to school instead of staying at home or playing hooky. The school work in the schools is not perfect by any means but the quality of work being done is better than any session which the school have had.

The schools made the following percentage of average daily attendance: Bostic, 99.67; Alex'der, 96.10; Cool Springs High, 94.3; Pleasant Grove, 93.7; Forest City, 91.5.

Bostic headed the list with 112 pupils enrolled, no pupils tardy and 109 of the 112 did not miss a day. This record shows that the pupils have been attending school very good this session.

In order for a room to get a half holiday at the end of the month, pupils in the room must have made an average daily attendance of 95 per cent and have no tardies during the month.

Several people in Forest City have asked about a course in commercial work for boys and girls who are not in school. It has been decided to give this course provided as many as ten want this course. All who want to take this course are requested to see Miss Gertrude Prince this week. The class will begin Monday October 15th if enough students want to take it.

The parent-teacher association will meet at the Forest City Grammar School, Wednesday, October 17th. Next Wednesday the report cards will be given out. On Tuesday before the P.-T. A. meeting, mimeographed letters will be sent to parents who have pupils failing in as many as two subjects. These parents are especially requested to be at the P.-T. A. meeting and talk to the teachers about your child. In many instances a conference with the teacher will cause a pupil to do better work. In most cases students are passing their work. If you get a letter next week about your boy or girl please be at the P.-T. A. meeting and see the teachers for they will be glad to talk to you about the progress of your boys and girls.

KILL COTTON STALKS BEFORE EARLY FROSTS

Raleigh, Oct. 8.—A boll weevil control method that always pays good returns where it is possible to use it, is the killing or plowing under of cotton stalks before frost.

"There will be fewer boll weevil to live through the winter if the cotton stalks can be destroyed before the weevils go into hibernation quarters which is at the time of frosts," says C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State College. "Unless the weevil obtains plenty of food just before entering winter quarters, the pest will not live through the winter months. For that reason, it is imperative that every cotton grower should promptly destroy the stalks as soon as the cotton has been picked."

The earlier this can be done, the better. If the cotton stalks cannot be plowed under before frost, sow a green cover crop such as Abruzzi rye, oats, barley or some legume in the rows and later cut or knock down the standing cotton stalks.

But this is not an individual matter, cautions Mr. Brannon. To make the system of control most effective, growers should cooperate by communities and whole counties. It is probably useless for one grower to kill or plow under his stalks and his neighbor across the road to leave his standing until frost kills the leaves and immature bolls. The field so left becomes a fattening ground for all the weevils in the section. They will then go into winter quarters well fed and be able to survive the severe weathers with a lower percent of destruction.

Mr. Brannon states that following this method of weevil control, probably not so much poisoning will be needed next season and the cotton will be freer from the attacks of the pests early in the year. The method is doubly important this fall because the past season has been the most ideal for the weevil since he came into the State in 1919.

POULTRY SHORT COURSE OFFERED NEXT MONTH

Raleigh, October 8.—How to raise chickens and market them profitably will be the subject of a short course offered by the poultry department of State College during the week of November 19 to 24 inclusive.

The course will be free to citizens give a week of intensive training in all subjects relating to the profitable handling and marketing of poultry and poultry products. Each morning, Dr. B. F. Kaupp and his corps of associates in the poultry department will give a series of lectures that will give all late information developed at the college in recent years. The lectures will include such subjects as the selection and mating of breeding birds; feeding baby chicks, laying hens and breeders; housing and managing the birds; incubation and shipment of baby chicks; disease and parasite control and the marketing of poultry and eggs.

Each afternoon the poultry department will give demonstrations and practical exercises in the poultry yards of the poultry laboratories. The State Division of Markets will have an expert on hand to help with the marketing work.

Dr. Kaupp extends an invitation to all poultry growers in the State attend at least part of this course. Women as well as men are invited and expected to be present. While the college cannot supply room these can be obtained at reasonable rates in private homes near the campus.

Last year, there were 85 students enrolled for the entire week. This year, Dr. Kaupp expects a larger enrollment, especially as the North Carolina State Poultry Association will hold its annual meeting at the college during the same week.
