RED CROSS NURSES AID IN HURRICANE DISASTER

In addition to their year around work in the Public Health field, the Public Health nurses of the American Red Cross have answered a number of calls to combat epidemics, and in disaster work during the year just ending, the Red Cross states.

Their greatest task was in the relief following the West Indies hurricane when 20 nurses were despatched to Florida and 32 to Porto Rico, to assume charge of the health work there. Epidemic conditions were especially grave in both places, and inoculation of several hundred thousand persons had to be arranged in order to prevent spread of contagious. Nursing the injured, the sick, aged and young and caring for the newborn were heavy tasks in both areas.

The Red Cross nurses also were called upon for work in epidemics in communities, including the serious septic sore throat epidemic in New England and a typhoid epidemic in New York state.

More than 530 Red Cross Chapters throughout the nation operate nursing services which they support altogether or in part.

A CHARMING TEA GIVEN WEDNESDAY

Mrs. R. E. Biggerstaff and Miss Robbie Biggerstaff Are Hostesses at Delightful Social Function

One of the most charming social functions of the month was the tea given by Mrs. R. E. Biggerstaff and Miss Robbie Biggerstaff on Wednesday afternoon, October 31st from 3:30 to 6 o'clock at their home on West Main street. Mrs. R. R. Blanton greeted the guests at the door of the reception hall. Miss Mayme Martin stood at the arch entering the living room introducing the guests to the receiving line. In the receiving line were: Mrs. R. E. Biggerstaff, Mesdames W. C. Bostic, Jr., and Frances Little, two recent brides who were honor guests, Misses Margaret Bostic, Robbie Biggerstaff, Sara Bailey, Grace Rogers and Johnnie King, and Mesdames Blanton, Biggerstaff and J. S. Dorton, of Shelby. Mrs. R. C. Alexander and Miss Margaret Sloan stood at door leading to the sun-parlor where Mesdames Thomas Vernon and Cowan Blanton presided at the register.

Mrs. Spurgeon Moss and Miss Viola Randall stood at the door leading from the back living room into the reception hall, directing the guests to the entrance to the dining room, where they were greeted by Mrs. T. R. Padgett and Miss Nell Young.

Misses Ruth Moore and Margaret Young received the guests in the two dining rooms. The center table with its handsome Irish lace cover and lovely silver basket filled with beautiful bronze chrysanthemums was presiding over by Mesdames B. B. Doggett and W. A. Ayers who poured coffee. A profusion of handsome bronze and yellow chrysanthemums in baskets and silver vases, and floor lamps with attractive Halloween shades were used as decoration, made a very charming and attractive setting.

The guests were served on individual tables, each of which held a black vase in the shape of a cat, and filled with bronze chrysanthemums. A most delectable salad course was served which carried out the color scheme of yellow and black suitable to Halloween season. The plates were most artistic, being covered with a white lace mat over red, on which was served chicken salad arranged on a beautiful autumn leaf, wafers, a sweet sandwich in the shape of a cat, cheese pumpkin, ice box cookies and black coffee. Martha Washington candy was passed by the following young ladies who assisted in serving: Misses Madge Moore, Connie Frye, Cathrine McBrayer, Annabelle Ware, Meriam Padgett and Marie Hughes. Mrs. L. C. Edington, of Forest City and Miss Kathrine Goggans, of Boiling Spring gave a most delightful instrumental program. One hundred and seventy-five called during the afternoon.

SHOWER FOR MISS LUNA PHILBECK

The Y. W. A. met with Miss Mary Ayers at the parsonage, Monday evening, November 5th, at 8:00 o'clock, with a large membership present.

A missionary program was given. Miss Emily Camp sang, "I Gave My Life for Thee," as a solo.

After the program, Miss Jennie Beachboard told us that since there is a bride-to-be in our midst, she will give her some useful advice.

The bride was then told to look about the room where she will find some necessary articles for a voyage on the stormy sea of matrimony. She found rubber shoes, raincoat and umbrella. The umbrella was filled with gifts from the Y. W. A. girls to Luna Philbeck, who is to be married to Mr. Lolan Kanipe, at an earl date.

She received many pretty and useful gifts of linen and glassware, which she acknowledged with timidity and grace.

At this time, the hostess, Miss Mary Ayers and Mrs. Ayers, served a delicious salad course.

The house was beautifully decorated with yellow and white chrysanthemums.
