MAKE YOUR HOBBY COMMUNITY AFFAIRS.

The Editor heard of a successful business man recently who spends his spare time collecting old hinges. What looks like nothing more than an old piece of scrap iron to most of us is a priceless treasure to him. In his den one may see an enormous collection of old hammered bronze and iron hinges, some from old cathedrals and castles others from historic dwellings, and other that have nothing more to commend them than mere age.

"A ridiculous hobby," one may say, but is any hobby ridiculous? Doesn't a hobby keep one interested in life, alert to one's surroundings, and prevents leisure from becoming a source of boredom? We feel that it does, and for this reason we are recommending to our readers a hobby that we feel to be worthy of consideration.

This hobby should take the form of an active interest in community affairs. Make the promotion of the best interests of Forest City a matter that absorbs the spare time that now hangs heavy on your hands. Be ever on the alert for new ideas and plans that may well be put into practice locally for the improvement of our city. Develop a pride in the city as it is and a belief in the future possibilities that may become realities.

Here is a hobby that will enable you to have a lot more fun out of life. Here is one that will make your home surroundings seem more pleasant, your business and social contacts more interesting, that will give life greater zest and significance and convince you that you are living in one of the finest little cities on the face of the globe.
