

FATHER AND SON BANQUET HELD AT ELLENBORO

Young Tar Heel Farmers Are Hosts to Fathers at Enjoyable Dinner

Ellenboro, April 1.—Despite the inclement weather fifty were present for the second annual father and son banquet held in the agricultural room of the Ellenboro school building last Wednesday evening when the boys of the Ellenboro chapter of Young Tar Heel Farmers with their "dads" heard addresses made by the following: Roy H. Thomas, state supervisor for vocational agricultural education, from Raleigh; superintendent of Schools, Clyde A. Erwin; J. M. Osteen, district agricultural supervisor of Troy, N. C., and Professor T. A. Jones of the Ellenboro school. The home economics girls of the school directed by Miss Myrtle Nesbitt prepared and served the meal as one of their school projects. Music was furnished by a five piece string band.

Mr. Thomas who was introduced by Superintendent Erwin told the group that he was proud of the work being done by the Ellenboro department of agriculture, and urged parents to cooperate with the teacher to make the boys project work still better. In telling about vocational work in the state Mr. Thomas stated that there were 10,000 boys and farmers enrolled in vocational agriculture last year and that this group produced nearly a million dollars worth of agricultural products. "For each dollar spent in teachers' salary last year there was a project return of $4.10," said Mr. Thomas in connection with a statement that vocational education pays. During his address he related the success of a Sampson county vocational agricultural student who grew on his project 132 bushels of corn per acre and won first place in the corn growing contest for Southern States. Then, he told what was being done to improve our crops and animals by reciting a poem, but finally concluded by asking, "What is the Worth of Children of Men?"

Professor Clyde A. Erwin, County Superintendent of Schools, who introduced Mr. Thomas said that he brought greetings from the County Board of Education and from all of Rutherford county. Within his talk which was filled with humor and wit he stated that he was anxious to have a type of education in each school which functions to the needs of the community and which will assist in the development of the community. "I want to see training in our schools which will keep the boys and girls in the community after they have completed their education rather than drive them away," was another of Mr. Erwin's sentences. He expressed himself as a believer in vocational education for our schools.

Professor T. A. Jones of the local school paid tribute to Mr. Erwin in introducing him but stated that he believed that the County Superintendent did not need an introduction to the parents and the boys present. Mr. Osteen who was the first speaker told of the rapid development of vocational agriculture within the county and said that he believed that the Ellenboro department has done as much to influence this development as any other one thing. He told the group that he knew what it cost to grow cotton after summarizing hundreds of records but that he would like to know more about the cost of producing sweet potatoes. In this connection he urged local farmers present to keep records for the department on sweet potato growing.

At the very beginning of the banquet George Bland, president of the Ellenboro chapter of Young Tar Heel Farmers, welcomed the fathers and special guests at the request from A. B. Bushong who acted as toast master. When the meal was served the meeting was turned over to the president of the agricultural club who called on the students to tell about the work of the Ellenboro department of agriculture. George Helton told of the activities of the club last year, Otto Owens followed him with a report of last year's project work. Wyman Barnett then explained the results of the cotton fertilizer test conducted by the department last year and Carl McKinney was next with a report on the corn fertilizer test. Glenn McKinney was then asked to tell how he won the second prize in the state cotton growing contest. Before the president turned the meeting back to the agricultural teacher he had J. D. McKinney, an Evening student of the department tell how he grew 50 bushels of corn per acre on his project and won the cash prize and silver cup for exhibiting the ten best ears of corn at the Rutherford County Fair last year. His ten winning ears with cup were on display at the banquet.

It is believed that the banquet given by the boys in honor of their fathers for the last two years are helping to build up a stronger relationship between father and son which seems to be one of the needs of the day.

MOORESBORO R-1

SPINDALE SCOUTS BUILD LOG CABIN

Mr. J. H. Hill's Troop of Scouts Erects Cabin on Lands of Mr. L. C. Ellington

Spindale, April 1.—The Spindale Boy Scouts have just completed a handsome log cabin on the lands of Mr. L. C. Ellington, two miles west of Spindale, on Stonecutter creek. The cabin is built of logs which were donated by Mr. Ellington, and is of ample size to comfortably accommodate twenty or more scouts. The Town of Spindale aided in the construction of the cabin. The Spindale Scouts also had a full share of the work in building, as they spent a number of afternoons after school at work on the building. The structure is about sixteen by twenty feet, with an earthen floor. The roof is of tin, which was bought by the scouts from the money derived from dues, and from donation of interested friends.

This week the scouts are placing wall bunks in the building, and are filling the "cracks" with a liberal supply of mud. It is planned to have a chimney built at one end of the cabin, so that it may be used in winter.

An ideal location was picked for the cabin, which is located on the Stonecutter Creek, and in a heavily wooded forest. The short distance from Spindale makes the cabin easily accessible to the scouts for week end and over night trips.

Mr. J. H. Hill, scout master of the Spindale troop, is fast making his troop one of the outstanding organizations in the council. He is ably assisted in this work by his assistant, Russell Northy.

Mr. L. C. Ellington is a prominent farmer and truck grower and deserves the thanks of the people for the interest he has shown in the scout work, by donating the logs for the cabin and giving permission for its erection on his lands.

Last Friday night eighteen members of the troop spent the night at the new cabin. They were accompanied by scoutmaster J. H. Hill and assistant scoutmaster Russell Northy. The troop is planning a number of similar over night trips to the cabin during the summer.

WHEY USED AS A CALF RATION VERY VALUABLE

Wisconsin Experiment Station Makes Interesting Test

For a long time whey has not been given its rightful place as a supplement feed, but tests recently made at the University of Wisconsin Experiment Station by Professors Morrison, Humphries, and Hulce predict that whey will soon come into its own as a gainful part of a calf ration.

Farmers have always known that whey is not very high in protein content but the experiments have shown that what protein is contained in whey is of an exceptionally high grade.

Eight calves were used in the experiment. When they were about three weeks old, their food was gradually changed from whole milk to separate whey. Ten days were taken to make the change. Together with the whey, the calves were fed a protein-rich concentrate mixture consisting of 30 parts ground corn, 30 parts standard middlings, 40 parts linseed meal, with legume hay for a roughage.

The allowance of whey was gradually increased until the calves were fed 14 pounds each daily of the whey at the age of six weeks.

During the course of the experiment which extended over six months, the calves made a daily gain of 1.48 pounds per head, and in addition were a vigorous and thrifty lot.

The calves that were given a liberal allowance of skim-milk made slightly higher gains of 1.68 pounds per head daily.

Whey that is soured in clean containers is just as valuable as sweet whey the results of experiments showed.

Very satisfactory gains through the use of whey in the ration have also been reported by the University of Kansas Experiment Station.

Got Up In The Morning Feeling DIZZY

"I BEGAN to suffer with headache and biliousness," says Mr. John C. Malone, of Buena Vista, Ohio. "I had a hurting through the middle part of my body which seemed to come from indigestion. I would get constipated, and then feel all out of sorts. I would get up in the morning feeling dizzy, and everything I ate would disagree with me."

"Someone asked me why I did not try Black-Draught. I found it to be just the medicine I needed. When I feel a spell coming on, I begin by taking a dose of Black-Draught, dry, at night. I continue to take it for several days, and in a short while I am feeling fine. It is all the medicine I need."

Costs only 1 cent a dose.
