EDITORIAL

It seems that at least a few here missed the Cliffside Page in this paper last week. We quote here from a letter received from The Courier which explains the matter.

"You will notice that The Cliffside News Page is omitted from The Courier this week.

"Your news letter arrived today, (Wednesday) at 2:30 just as we were preparing to close the last form. The letter was postmarked Cliffside, July 23, 8 A. M., showing that it left there yesterday morning. We are unable to account for it being delayed so long.

"We took the principal items of the letter and combined them into one general news letter.

"Very sorry indeed that the letter did not arrive sooner. This letter is to explain the situation and I feel sure you will understand."

BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES

Last Sunday was a good day with us, especially were the preaching services well attended. There were 360 in Sunday School with 20 visitors and 9 new members enrolled in the Sunday School.

For the Scripture lesson the pastor, Rev. R. C. Smith read Ex. 19: 24 and 25 and Ex. 20:1-26. The subject was "Present Day Idols."

We were glad to have with us Miss Jane Campbell who sang a solo. Miss Campbell is now nurse at Rosemont Camp for children at Harris and is well known here, having served here quite a while as community nurse.

We failed to state that the text for the morning sermon was 1 Cor. 10: 14. "Wherefore, my dearly beloved, flee from idolatry." In this message the pastor showed how that it is not necessary to bow down to gaven images in order to be an idolator, but that anything that comes between us and God is our idol.

At the close of the service Mrs. D. B. Tate was received into the membership of the church by letter. We extend to her a cordial welcome.

Continuing the series of Sunday night messages on the subject "What is coming" the pastor read Ephesians 3:1-12 and the subject for the evening was "This present age."

We were delighted to have Mr. Charles Metcalf of the Methodist church sing for us. As there was no preaching service at the Methodist Church Sunday many of their congregation worshipped with us at both services Sunday.

Beginning next Monday night there is to be a study course held at the church each night of the week for the W. M. S. and its auxiliaries.

Local Happenings

The Cliffside Theatre was filled to capacity Saturday night to see the picture "The Port of Missing Girls." There were quite a few from out of town here to see the picture.

Lawrence "Jack" Blanton was the victor over his opponent at the boxing bout in Shelby last Saturday night. "Jack" knocked K. O. Stone of McAdenville, out in the second round. Several from here were present.

Master Henry Hughes is spending a few days at Chestnut Hills with Mr. Walter Haynes.

Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Boye of Durham visited friends here Sunday.

Miss Aileen McKinney and Master Charles Hicks of Chesnee, S. C., are visiting Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Blanton.

BLOOMER GIRLS TO PLAY BALL AT CLIFFSIDE

A large crowd is expected here Thursday afternoon of next week, August 8th when the New York Bloomers play the Cliffside Ball team. The game is expected to start at 4:30 p. m. This team of girls have a reputation of playing real baseball and the public will get a thrill when they see them in action.

OLD FIDDLERS CONVENTION

The Old Time Fiddlers Convention held here in the Hall last Saturday night was a success and well attended. There were musicians here from several points including South Carolina.

The first prize for the best string music went to the Wilson String Band of Ellenboro. First prize for best violinist was awarded to Miss Laura L. Wilson of Ellenboro. First prize for guitar went to Mr. Dean Goode of Converse, S. C. There was a prize for banjo playing, awarded to Mr. Solon Butler of Ellenboro.

The event was sponsored by the McDaniel String Band, a local organization which also took part in the program, but was not considered for prizes. Mr. Dewey McDaniel is the leader and this organization will play at the Cliffside Hall Thursday night of this week when the annual event of awarding prizes for best yards and premises will be held.

The local Troop of Boy Scouts are planning an over night hike for Friday night of this week. They hope to give a public campfire program some time in the near future.
