What Will you do

When your Children Cry for It

There is hardly a household that hasn't heard of Castoria! At least five million homes are never without it. If there are children in your family, there's almost daily need of its comfort. And any night you find your very thankful there's a bottle in the house. Just a few drops, and that colic or constipation is relieved; or diarrhea checked. A vegetable product: a baby remedy meant for young folks. Castoria is about the only thing you have ever heard doctors advise giving to infants. Stronger medicines are dangerous to a tiny baby, however harmless they may be to grown-ups. Good old Castoria! Remember the name, and remember to buy it. It may spare you a sleepless, anxious night. It is always ready, always safe to use; in emergencies, or for everyday ailments. Any hour of the day or night that baby becomes fretful, or restless, Castoria was never more popular with mothers than it is today. Every druggist has it.

Nurse Tells How CARDUI Helped Her

Mrs. W. A. Cox, a well-known professional nurse, of Burnside, Ky., writes: "I was in very bad health, and only weighed 110 pounds. I read in the papers about Cardui, and thought I would give it a try-out. After I had taken one bottle, I could see that I was improving. After I had taken it a month or two, I began to gain, and I weigh at present 168, and have weighed that for some time. I am now 55 years old, and can do as much work as the average middle-aged woman can. "I would advise any woman, who is weakly and in a rundown condition, to try Cardui, but not to expect one bottle to make her well. I take two or three bottles a year, now, and I feel fine."

Let Trees Grow To Beautify Roads

The highways of North Carolina might be made more beautiful and attractive by formal tree plantings in rows or by allowing the natural growth to be selected in proper arrangement.

"One of the wisest and most valuable moves in the direction of highway beautification was the order put into effect two or three years ago instructing the highway maintenance forces to leave existing trees along the right-of-ways," says J. P. Pillsbury, landscape architect at State college. "The natural arrangement of the vegetation is far superior to formal plantings. The highway commission could well afford to employ some one qualified by training in landscape architecture and with a knowledge of native woody plant material to select and mark the native growth found along the right-of-ways throughout the State. What should be left for growth could be indicated and all other growth except the grass and vines could be cut away. All the bare spots and cuts or fills should be smoothed and surfaced with topsoil and then planted with vines or grass."

The only expense in this case would be the services of the qualified technician and this would be but a trifle compared to the cost of buying and placing new plants.

This method of beautifying the highways by using natural material would be more effective, says Mr. Pillsbury, if for a year or two in advance of the actual selection, all the vegetation were allowed to grow. Then the selection could include all worthy and dependable species. The few trees now saved are too stilted and regular in kind, appearance and spacing for best results in beautification.

Most North Carolina roads are beautiful as they are, but throughout great areas where the country itself is beautiful, the highways are not so, except from the utilitarian standpoint.

E. N. Davis of Bladen county sold 65 hogs on the Richmond market for 11 1-2 cents a pound and got nearly $1,500 out of the shipment. He told County Agent J. R. Powell that corn and hogs pay more profit than cotton and he would grow no cotton this year.

MR. AVERAGE FARMER BROADCASTS

"Howdy, folks, howdy; Say, for months I've wondered just how I could reach you all, when suddenly, like the first snow-drop, up springs this opportunity to broadcast from Station YFBL—YOURS FOR BETTER LIVESTOCK. They tell me that these air waves radiate to all your homes, and are easy to tune in; in fact, they are all clamoring for admittance as they realize the importance of these messages for you and "yours" out in the barn and hen-house.

"From time to time I'm going to talk about this business of feeds and feeding. You all know who I am—just a Mr. Average Farmer. For years I've been disappointed with the little profits which I received from my livestock. Something was wrong. What was I to do?"

"Well, I took short 'ag' course ordered a lot of good 'ag' bulletins, and then proceeded to carry out some of this information. My neighbors thought my policy of breeding, weeding, and feeding was a joke at first, and maybe it did look strange and different from the methods carried on by our great grandfathers. Despite a lot of laughs I kept on and in a few years the results of my new methods were noticeable. My neighbors came over, looked at my cows, hogs and sheep, and before they left, congratulated me. I was happy; success was achieved after the trial period.

"I became the most popular man in the neighborhood. 'How did I accomplish all this?' 'What was this stuff about balanced ration?' 'What made my cows produce so well?' 'What made my hogs grow so fast?' These were only a few of the many questions asked of me.

"I couldn't tell all these good neighbors my methods and it worried me too, for why, so I figured, should I keep this knowledge to myself, when they might also benefit by it, and so when this chance came to let you in on some good feeding hints, I pounced upon it as my Biddy does after these Spring worms.

"Well,—all that's just to introduce me to you folks, and I'm just what my name says—a Mr. Average Farmer. I hope you are going to like me, and I shall try my best to keep you with some of these pesky feed problems. I have a lot of good hints for spring feeding, and wish that I might tell you about them now but they tell me my time is up. Will tell you about them in the next two weeks, when I broadcast again. Anyhow, I've introduced myself to you all, and that's that. Goodbye friends, and don't forget the next talk, Station WFBL—YOURS FOR BETTER LIVESTOCK."

OFFICERS GET WHISKEY AND ARREST MEN

Deputies R. O. Cobb of Cliffside and T. H. Earley of Henrietta, captured a Whippet touring car Sunday afternoon, March 23, near the South Carolina line with some whiskey in it. They chased the car for several miles and after it ran into a telephone pole and wrecked it they captured two negroes, Monroe Surratt and Joe Proctor. Three negroes got away. During the chase the occupants of the car threw out whiskey and about one gallon was taken by the officers after they got possession of the car. All the negroes appeared to be under the influence of whiskey, according to the officers.

Rural Policeman C. R. Dalton of Chimney Rock Township captured a new still on Broad River in Green Hill Township Friday, March 21. It was a 60-gallon capacity sheet iron still and was ready to be operated. Messrs. Mark West and Walter Amos were captured as they approached the plant with a load of meal. They gave bond and were tried Friday.

Mr. Dalton recently assisted Federal officers in capturing four stills within two days in Polk county.

HARRILL AND SON BUY OUT MERCANTILE BUSINESS

Ellenboro, Mar. 24.—A. S. Harrill and Son, leading merchants of Ellenboro, have bought out the mercantile business of A. C. Wilson and Company and will run the two separate stores.

Harrill and Son have been successful merchants in Ellenboro for the past 40 years.

Aside from his mercantile business Mr. Harrill is owner of the Sandy Run Poultry Farm, situated in Ellenboro, and has been successful in the poultry business, raising prize-winning birds. He is considered an expert in judging poultry, and has been selected as judge for the leading poultry fairs of the country. He has exhibited and won prizes in poultry shows at Hagerstown, Md.; Madison Square Garden, N. Y.; Richmond and Jamestown, Va.; Atlanta, and Augusta, Ga.; Charleston, Columbia, and Spartanburg, S. C.; Knoxville and Nashville, Tenn.; Hamlet, Charlotte, Monroe and Wilson, N. C., and other Southern cities.

Look After Birds In Spring Months

Because eggs are low in price during April, May, June and July, some North Carolina poultrymen fail to care for their flocks as they should at this season and therefore lose an income which should be received.

"With the coming of warm weather, poultrymen are inclined to let their hens care for themselves. Some growers feel that the birds can pick up their own living and others are too busy with other farm work to give the flock the attention it deserves," says C. F. Parrish, poultry extension specialist. "This is poor economy. Our demonstrators show that it takes about 11 pounds of starch feed and 14 pounds of mash feed for each bird during the four months of April, May, June and July. The average feed consumption a bird for each month should be 2.7 pounds of starch feed and 3.3 pounds of mash feed."

Given such amounts of feed, Mr. Parrish says the hens will lay 18 eggs each in April, 19 eggs each in May, 16 eggs a hen in June and 15 eggs a hen in July. This is 68 eggs a hen for the four months. If each egg is valued at only two cents, every hen in the flock will return $1.36. The feed cost to produce the eggs is 30 cents for scratch and 50 cents for mash or 80 cents for all feed given during the four months. This leaves a profit per hen above feed cost of 56 cents a bird. A flock of 100 birds will thus bring in $56 during the four months.

These facts disprove the theory that there is no money in 25-cent eggs, claims Mr. Parrish. If one does not wish to sell at this price, he might select the best and freshest eggs and place them in cold storage for sale next fall. A number of poultrymen cooperating to do this in a community could reap a right nice little profit next fall.
