

BROAD RIVER FARMERS MAY GET DAMAGES

Property Owners Get Permission to Sue Carolina Mountain Power Co., for Opening Flood Gates Last Year.

The property owners along Broad River below Lake Lure dam, who suffered much damages to crops and land as a result of opening the flood gates at the dam, may now proceed to file suits in the Superior Court of Rutherford county. Permission to do this was given in an order signed by Federal District Judge E. Y. Webb, at Charlotte Tuesday. However, the order provides that these suits must be instituted on or before June 1, 1930.

The Carolina Mountain Power Company, the owner of Lake Lure, the dam property and power plant have been in the hands of Federal receivers for some time. F. G.

Pierce of Charlotte and N. C. Harris of Rutherfordton, are the receivers appointed by the court in a foreclosure proceeding instituted in the early part of 1929, by the bondholders under the first mortgage; and by the terms of the order appointing receivers, all persons were enjoined from instituting any suits without first obtaining leave of the court. Consequently before the property owners below the dam could proceed, it becomes necessary to petition the Federal court for permission. This petition was filed in January of this year. Attorneys representing the receivers and bondholders vigorously resisted the granting of the order, until the attorney representing property owners claiming damages pointed out that under the law of North Carolina a mortgage on the property of a public service corporation does not exempt such property from execution under a judgment for damages of this kind, and this being true the receivers could not well afford to ignore these claims.

Attorney Stover Poe Dunagan, who filed the petition in behalf of Mr. John R. Washburn and others, and who represents about fifteen of the property owners sustaining damages, states that while the time limit was fixed as of June 1st, he expects to have the suits filed within two or three weeks, and hopes to get some of the cases disposed of at the August civil term of court. He also stated that The Duke Power Company, lessee, alleged to have been operating the dam at the time of opening the flood gates, would be included as a defendant in the suits.

It will be recalled that in 1928 there was much concern about the possibility of the dam at Lake Lure breaking. It appears that in an effort to save the dam the flood gates were opened and the lake drained. The dam was saved. However, the great volume of water released from the lake destroyed the crops on bottom lands along the river for more than fifteen miles below the dam, and thousands upon thousands of dollars worth of corn and other farm produce destroyed, as well as damaging some of the land. There was a similar damage in 1929, but the loss was not as great apparently as the previous year.

"NEW WAYS FOR OLD."

A Film that Tells the Story of Three Generations.—At Romina This Week.

"New Ways for Old", a new one-reel historical health film is being shown at the Romina this week. This film, which has been shown to 5,000,000 people, tells a dramatic story about a real family. It might easily be the history of a family in Forest City. It shows three generations in the struggle against diphtheria and the final victory which science has won for the child today. The message which the modern Betty Adams' mother hears over the radio will interest every parent in Forest City.

The haircloth trunk, an heirloom for generations in a New England family, the doctor's buggy used during the Civil War, the original first bottle of antitoxin which saved the lives of children in Providence—these are a few of the properties which contributed to the unusual background for this film.

This film is shown as part of the program which is being carried on all over the country to save the children of this generation from diphtheria.

Pamphlets on this subject are obtainable at the Metropolitan office at Forest City.

Ellenboro Wins From Cliffside

Ellenboro, Apr. 18.—"The Country Gentlemen" of the Ellenboro high school defeated Cliffside high school here last Tuesday 6 to 4. Owens pitched masterful baseball for the home club for four innings but lost complete control of himself in the fifth inning and was relieved by Hamrick who performed the miraculous task of fanning eight of the ten hitters who faced him in the three innings which he worked.

Metcalf secured two doubles for the visiting team while Greene secured a home run and double out of two official times to the plate for the local team. Both teams performed well in the field. This was the fifth straight victory for the home team.

Of making books there is no end—otherwise there would be fewer race tracks.

NOT NECESSARY TO LIST MONEY IN DEFUNCT BANKS

County Auditor M. R. Reed Advises Depositors To Make No Return For Taxation.

County Auditor M. R. Reed is of the opinion that any money that was on deposit in the six defunct banks in Rutherford County need not be listed for taxation purposes this year, and in a letter written as of April 14, 1930, the concluding paragraph reads as follows: "As a matter of justice it is my suggestion that the amount of money on deposit in the closed banks be omitted from the tax list this year."

The reason for the change of opinion on the part of County Auditor

Reed is based upon several factors which are contained in the body of his letter to all tax listers. Mr. Reed feels the length of time that it will probably take, from two to three years, to wind up the affairs of the financial institutions, is one reason and the uncertainty at present of how much the defunct banks will return to their creditors is another cause which should be taken under consideration in arriving at a fair and just conclusion. Also if the amount of money that had been deposited was listed it might involve legal proceedings for refunds if the amount paid by the defunct banks was less than expected, or the basis of taxation, twenty-five percent of the deposits, as had been suggested first to the tax listers.

When some men do you favors they never let you forget it.

The heiress may be homely, but if she waits for some young man to tell her so she will never find it out.

The SUN pours fragrance into these tobaccos

LONG BEFORE the choice leaves of golden Turkish and velvety brown Domestic tobacco are selected for Camel Cigarettes, nature's own alchemy has worked a miracle in them that no effort of man can hope to duplicate.

Every tiny leaf-cell is irradiated—stored full of goodness by the clean, pure vigor of the sun!

Our share in the making of Camels is to see that all of the fragrance, mildness, mellowness, aroma—in a word all of the natural goodness of these sun-ripened tobaccos is preserved and developed—then to combine them into the smooth, delightful harmony of the famous Camel blend, and manufacture them into cigarettes by the most modern methods known to the industry.

You can taste the natural goodness in every delicious puff of a Camel Cigarette.
