BAPTIST CHURCH NOTES.

Attendance at Sunday school last Sunday was 472. We had the pleasure of enrolling three new members and of having with us thirty-five visitors.

The pastor Rev. J. Allen Hunnicutt and Mrs. Hunnicutt attended the Southern Baptist convention last week at New Orleans. They returned Saturday evening and Sunday morning Rev. Hunnicutt preached the baccalaureate sermon for the Twin High school of Henrietta-Caroleen.

Dr. S. E. Welch of Avondale preached for us Sunday morning and delighted his hearers with a timely message. We were glad to have Dr. Welch. Mrs. Welch and the children with us for the Sunday school.

The intermediate department presented a brief program at the close of the Sunday school hour.

Attendance at the B. Y. P. U's. was very good last Sunday and one union especially deserves special mention. The Truett union whose leader is Mrs. B. L. Davidson made a grade of 99 percent. This is one of the large junior unions and only one member absent with the other 100 percent.

The pastor was in the pulpit Sunday evening and made a report of the convention. He prefaced the report with a few remarks on Memorial services. He referred to the article on this page two weeks ago which stated that the next Sunday would be observed as Memorial Day here with appropriate sermons at the churches. He said this statement was made without his knowledge concerning his part. The writer would like to state here that we were in no way responsible for the statement as we knew nothing of it until we read it in the paper.

The W. M. U. and Auxiliaries will meet Tuesday night at the church at which time Mrs. Hunnicutt will report the Womens meeting at New Orleans.

Next Sunday morning the pastor will speak especially to the young people and the intermediate department will occupy the choir. The folks are looking forward to this service which will be of great interest to the older people as well as the young folks.

Dr. Combs, pastor of the Myers Park M. E. church of Charlotte will occupy the pulpit at the Baptist church next Sunday evening and preach the baccalaureate sermon for the local high school. The graduating class will occupy front seats and the other members of the high school will compose the choir. As the choir only seats sixty-four seats will be placed on the rostrum in front of choir to accommodate the rest of the number. The public is cordially invited to all these services. Especially will the exercises Sunday evening be of community-wide interest.

Garden Beans Suffer When Beetle Abundant

Now that the Mexican bean beetle, destructive pest of snap and lima beans, has spread over the entire state, those growers who like fresh beans from their own home gardens must prepare to poison the pest or do without this desirable vegetable.

C. H. Brannon, extension entomologist at State college, says the Mexican bean beetle feeds on the under side of the leaves, seriously injuring the plants. When injury is very severe all parts of the plant may be fed upon and the plant be completely destroyed. The beetle prefers the common garden beans and the lima or butter beans. The next choice is beggar weed but in some cases, where there is heavy infestation, the beetle will attack both soybeans and cowpeas.

One thing to keep in mind in poisoning the pest is that bean plants are very tender. Exact amounts of poison should be used and this poison must be applied to the under surface of the leaves if it is to be effective. Mr. Brannon recommends the magnesium arsenate spray as the best control. Those growers having only a small patch of beans may make up the spray by using five level tablespoonsful of the magnesium arsenate powder to three gallons of water. Larger quantities may be prepared by using a pound of the poison to 50 gallons of water. Apply at the rate of from 90 to 100 gallons of the mixture to an acre of beans.

One should begin to spray the plants when beetles are first found in the field. If they are numerous, repeat the applications every week or ten days but stop spraying when the pods begin to form. Mr. Brannon finds that three or four applications are sometimes needed, though usually two careful sprays will be sufficient. It is often difficult to find dead insects in the best poisoned fields.
