

THE "CUCKOOS" WILD RIOT OF FILM COMEDY

Lavish Production is Comedy
Treat of the Season.

A whirlwind of glorious nonsense and riotous fun comes to the screen of the Romina theatre Monday under the title "The Cuckoos" and will leave the audience convinced they have seen one of the greatest entertainments in months.

They certainly have not seen anything remotely resembling this lavish fun treat in another show, for "The Cuckoos" is a fresh, new, brilliant departure for the motion pictures. It is not a revue; it is not a musical comedy—in fact no previously used classification could fit this picture.

Perhaps the title "The Cuckoos" explains the mood of the picture better than anything else. It is a show gone deliriously mad, with the comedy note topping everything else.

Most Lavish Production.

True, "The Cuckoos" carries a touching little romantic story; it is lavishly dressed and beautifully photographed, with a large part in gorgeous Technicolor; it boasts the greatest cast of able featured players which has reached the screen for some time; hundreds of dancers, singers, musicians and extras make it a production of extravagant proportions; nine lilted song hits are introduced.

But the comedy of Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey, stars of the piece, runs riot throughout the whole show. Never before has the screen presented a team of comics like this one. They were featured in "Rio Rita", to be sure, but they were kept under restraint in that musical. Here they are allowed to give everything—and how they give it!

Admirable Supporting Cast.

Wheeler and Woolsey are aided to no small extent by little Dorothy Lee, cutest of screen comedienne, and Jobyna Howland, competent player from the Broadway musical comedy stage.

The remainder of the cast is admirable. June Clyde and Hugh Trevor supply the love interest. Mitchell Lewis, one of the best "heavies" in pictures today, is more than effective. Marguerita Padula, "Hallelujah" singer in "Hit the Deck", and Ivan Lebedeff, suave and polished actor, lend important characterizations.

"The Cuckoos" is the outstanding comedy treat of this, or any other year.

Spring is here cried the pedestrian as he sprang out of the seeping auto's path.

Positions of Hands and Feet

PROPER driving posture is an important thing frequently left unlearned. Fatigue can be avoided by assuming a comfortable position. This is important and should receive due consideration from the student driver. The position of the hands on the steering wheel is perhaps one of the things that rarely receives any particular attention.

Good drivers declare that holding the hands in a position similar to the hands on a clock when it is twenty minutes past ten is the most advantageous position in so far as comfort and possible emergency necessity are concerned.

The position of the feet is another matter that deserves consideration. Until a driver is sure he can find the brake pedal quickly without looking, his right foot should be in the immediate vicinity of the brake pedal while driving.

It is not good practice, however, to keep the left foot on the clutch pedal, as this causes slippage of the clutch and premature and unnecessary wear and tear.

In driving down steep hills, it is the accepted practice to use second gear and press the brake pedal only intermittently. Constant use of the brakes on long steep hills frequently causes them to burn out on many of the popular priced cars. The use of second gear, however, acts as a brake and precludes the necessity of constant pressure on the brake pedal.

Motorists who form these habits while they are learning to drive will continue them naturally as they become more expert. The result is fewer repair bills, increased safety and less driving strain.

Before the advent of the all-steel, full vision automobile of today, driving was a strain on the nervous system. However, the modern automobile if properly driven can be as comfortable and delightful for the driver as it is for the rest of the passengers. And speaking of nerves, you will find that most racing drivers travel from town to town at an even, steady pace of between twenty-five and thirty-five miles an hour, which they can maintain hour in and hour out, uphill and down dale, in traffic and on open highways. This produces greater safety, much less fatigue and nerve strain, and, in the course of a day's journey much greater mileage than the habit most people have of driving in fits and spurts, fifty miles at times then slowing down to ten or twelve when traffic forms an obstacle to speed.

CHESTNUT HILLS

Chestnut Hills, June 10.—The development of this lovely summer resort has been realized through the enthusiasm and interest of the owner, Walter H. Haynes, of Cliffside.

Since last summer numerous changes and additions have been made, enhancing greatly the scenic and property value of an already desirable location for a summer colony. Chestnut Hills is situated in the Hickory Nut Gap, lying between Bat Cave and Asheville, seven miles above Lake Lure, and on one of the main highway arteries of the State. One is charmed with the natural beauty of its setting, and the attractions of a new nine hole Niblick Golf course, a modern and complete swimming pool with convenient bath houses, a pleasant tea room, and "Betty", the young bear, all add their appeal to the visitor to linger for a delightful vacation or visit. The golf and pool attractions are under the capable supervision of Prof. C. A. Denson well known principal of the Cliffside high school for the past few years.

Mrs. C. D. Hughes and Edwin Hughes of Cliffside are giving efficient service in the tea room and gift shop. Homes on the Hill are personally owned by Grover Haynes, of Florida, Barron Caldwell, of Cliffside; Walter Haynes of Cliffside; S. J. Asbury, of Henrietta; Grover King, of Forest City; Mrs. Robt. Haynes of Avondale; and there are a half dozen or more cottages for rental purposes.

Mrs. Sarah Love, of Florida and Cliffside, has rented a cottage and plans to build a home this summer. Mrs. J. Rush Shull, of Charlotte, has rented the Robt. Haynes home for the season and a family from New York State have been occupying another cottage for the past two weeks. Reservations from Florida and other points in North Carolina have also been made for dates during the summer. A large number of visitors were here Sunday and quite a number enjoyed the privileges of the new golf course; but the weather was a little too cool even for pool enthusiasts and this pleasure has been delayed until warmer days. Mr. Walter Haynes is inviting the interested friends and public to enjoy the many attractions of this resort and he proves a genial host to everyone. Golfing privilege twenty-five cents and pool privilege fifty cents.

H. B. DOGGETT THANKS VOTERS OF COUNTY

I wish through the columns of this paper to express to the voters of Rutherford county my thanks for the splendid vote you gave me in Saturday's primary.

I enjoyed the campaign from start to finish. It has been a real pleasure to me to go over the county and see the lay of the land and talk with the people.

Now, since my friends insist that I enter the Second primary, I shall thank the voters in advance for their support.

Respectfully,
HORACE B. DOGGETT.
