REVOLUTIONARY HEROES

Office at the capitol and the deed book 2, page 557, at Franklin, Tenn., May 13, 1807. He acquired the Gilbert grant by sale and purchase in Charles B. Nelson vs. James Holland, administrator of William Gilbert, Williamson county Court Records, Sheriff's deed in deed book "E", Vol. 1, page 28, Columbia, Tenn.

Both grants were "John Armstrong" or "treasury" grants, not "service".

The journals of Congress, Niles' "Register," Benton's "Debates", contain much that is amusing and instructive of his Congressional career. Suffice it for this paper to say that he was a thorough-going Jeffersonian of the most approved anti-Federalist type as things went then.

There are also several interesting records concerning him and his activities in the old enrollment books of the Supreme Court Clerk's office at Nashville that repay reading, but lack of space now forbids a more extended reference."
