Miles of Conveyors in Ford Plant

This picture shows two types of conveyors in use in the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company.

AN ENDLESS chain conveyor, three and a half to four miles long, said to be the longest in the world, has just been completed at the Rouge Plant of the Ford Motor Company at Dearborn, Michigan. On it parts of Ford cars in the process of manufacture are transported from one building to another and completed cars are carried direct to railroad cars for shipment to branch assembly plants.

The conveyor, which carries its cargo on suspended hooks, has a daily capacity for 300,000 parts weighing over 2,000,000 pounds. It supplants freight cars and trucks which have been used for the transfer of many parts from one point to another in the Ford plant.

This longest conveyor of them all is a development of the Ford policy that nothing should be done by manual labor that could better be done by machine.

In the early days of his manufacturing career, Mr. Ford devised the assembly line—a moving track on which cars in the process of assembly went to the workmen instead of the workmen carrying parts to the car. The assembly line, perfected in many ways, is now used by automobile manufacturers generally.

The value of the conveyor in reducing physical labor, in saving time, in preserving system and in cutting costs soon became apparent and its use was extended to other purposes about the plant. Now there are literally miles of conveyors of various types in the Ford plant. Some of them carry parts from one building to another and are carefully synchronized so that the parts arrive at precisely the right moment and in the exact spot where they are needed. Others transport red hot in parts of steel weighing nearly a ton each. Still others move outgoing shipments.

If it were not for the conveyors, according to officials of the Ford Company, mass production would not be possible on its present scale.

Spindale News Items

Spindale, July 7.—The revival at the First Baptist church will continue through this week and probably longer. The service opened Sunday week, and has been progressing with great results. Rev. B. P. Parks, pastor of the church, is doing the preaching, and is bringing some fine messages. Several additions have been made to the church, and others are expected to join soon.

Dr. and Mrs. W. R. McDonald and Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Hampe are now touring the west and Canada. They will visit Mr. Hampe's father in Texas, and later visit several of the other western states and make a trip into Canada.

Messrs Charles Duncan and Walter Gregg, who have been touring the Mississippi Basin, the Lake states and Canada, are expected to return home this week. They made the trip on a motorcycle.

Mr. and Mrs. M. T. Long, of Wadesboro, spent last week-end with Mrs. Long's parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. M. Clay. They were accompanied home Sunday by Mrs. Clarence Griffin.
