

A GOOD START WITH FALL PIGS SPELLS PROFITS

Healthy Pigs Before Cold Weather Means Better Prices in Spring.

The proper start with fall pigs is the most certain insurance that they will develop rapidly and economically, and that they will be marked at a profit next Spring. The pig that gets a late start is apt to make a poor showing right on through the winter, and he will be the one that makes a poor showing when the buyer looks over the bunch in the market lot.

Pigs may begin to eat a starting ration at two to three weeks of age. A good pig meal, which may be given the pigs when they are two weeks old, is made up of 40 pounds of ground barley or ground wheat, 40 pounds of ground corn, 10 pounds of tankage, and 10 pounds of linseed meal. This mixture should be fed in a shallow trough in a creep where the larger hogs cannot interfere, and the pigs should be given what they will clean up daily. If skim milk is available it will insure cheaper gains, when fed with this meal. This ration may be fed the pigs from the time they are two weeks old to weaning time.

The well known trio ration, also called Trinity Ration, made up of 50 pounds of tankage, 25 pounds of linseed meal, and 25 pounds of alfalfa meal, is hard to beat as a winter feed when the hogs are not on pasture. This ration is best fed in a self-feeder, with shelled corn or coarsely ground wheat in the other bin of the feeder. A mixture of equal amounts of ground wheat and ground barley also has proved a cheap grain ration.

If ear corn is fed in place of shelled corn and the mixture is not self-fed, use it at the rate of two-fifths to one-half pounds a day up to 100 pounds live weight then gradually increase it to three-fifths to four-fifths pound a day for heavier shoats.

Aside from the profit due to cheaper grains, one big advantage of the quicker maturity assured by such care is the better market price likely to be obtained. There usually is a premium for the hog raiser who can have his fall pigs ready for market during March or April. This difference sometimes amounts to $1.50 to $2.00 per head. Saving of an extra month's labor and risk is an added advantage of the combination supplement.

The Mark of Genuine Aspirin..

Bayer Aspirin is like an old friend tried and true. There is no satisfactory substitute for either one. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is the accepted antidote for pain. Its relief may always be relied on for an occasional headache, to head-off a cold, or for more serious pain from neuralgia, neuritis and rheumatism. Bayer Aspirin bears the word "genuine" in red, and the name Bayer, on the box.

Forest City Girl Wins Essay Prize

The following essay was written by Martha Moores, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. M. F. Moores. The essay was submitted in the National Safety Essay Contest, in competition with thousands of other essays from school children from over the entire nation, and was awarded second prize. The essay follows:

The word safety should always be connected with two other words—safety and myself, safety and others. We all try to protect ourselves from danger, then how much more we should try to protect others.

Statistics tell us that in 1929, 22,500 persons were killed in traffic accidents. In the rural section in 1925 the number of deaths from automobile accidents totaled 4,568. This is an increase of 23 per cent over the records of 1924. This shows that instead of becoming more careful, people are disregarding more and more the traffic laws. Therefore it is my duty and the duty of every other junior citizen to do all that we can to promote safety on the highways.

The first thing I am doing to set a good example on the highway is obeying the traffic rules myself. Ignorance of the traffic laws is no excuse for accidents. Every true American citizen should and does know the traffic rules. The laws or rules, are passed by the local and state governments to protect the citizens on the highways, therefore all citizens should obey them.

One thing that I always think about when on the highway is never to take chances. I always look in both directions before crossing a street. I never try to beat an automobile or a train to a crossing. It is better to lose a minute than an arm, leg or even your life. I do not steal rides on cars, wagons, or automobiles. It is a bad habit and should be avoided. I observe all stop and go signals. When crossing the streets. I keep within the safety zones which are marked off for pedestrians. This is setting a good example for others, especially the smaller children, and it prevents a great many accidents.

Z is the zone
Wherein safety doth lie,
Stand quietly there
While the autos go by.

When either walking or riding I try always to avoid danger, rather than merely escape it. My motto is "Be careful, Safety First, Last and Always."

"Realizing my responsibility as an American citizen to secure the safety of others by careful conduct on the street and highways, and

Realizing that the accident and death rate of my nation, state and city can best be reduced by thoughtfulness and carefulness

I pledge myself to be considerate of the rights of others while on the streets and highways; to learn and observe traffic rules and regulations to the best of my ability; to cooperate in a campaign of carefulness, either as a pedestrian or as a driver of a vehicle, and will, by precept and example endeavor to assist others in making streets and highways safe."

Practice makes perfect
So I practice safety
I've been told,
It's worth more than gold.

When your Children Cry for It

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.
