BAPTIST CHURCH NEWS.

Several circles of the W. M. U. are making quilts to be donated to the Alexander school for Motherless children at Union Mills. One of the circles met at the R. R. Haynes Memorial building on Friday night of last week and made three quilts and two comforts, a total of five. After the work was done a salad course and coffee was served.

The pastor, Rev. J. A. Hunnicutt went to the Alexander schools early last Saturday morning taking a number of song books and a box of clothing, etc.

Due to the inclement weather Sunday the attendance at Sunday school was off quite a bit. The secretary's report showed only 394 with eight visitors and one new member. It was decided Sunday morning to present a pageant and observe "White Christmas" this year.

At the evening service the church observed the Memorial Supper after a brief sermon by the pastor.

The General monthly meeting of the W. M. U. organization will be held at the church Tuesday evening at 7:30.

The lesson for the morning service was from Judges 7:1-21 and the text was the 21st verse of this passage. The pastor spoke of the Convention and briefly of the progress of the Baptists in this State during the past one hundred years.

DISTRICT B. Y. P. U. MEETING.

At 2:30 p. m., we were delighted to have the B. Y. P. U. meeting of this District convene here and despite the bad weather they came as far as from Polk county. Mr. Yates Kendrick, district leader presided and Richard Horne, member of one of the local unions led the singing. Rev. M. D. Blanton led the devotional and made a brief, but splendid talk on "Preparation, Service and Reward."

The local girls' chorus sang "Ready to do His will," followed by the business session. Miss Piercy, the secretary called the roll of churches in the district and barring Cliffside Trinity had the largest delegation. It was voted to get an attendance banner to award to the church having the largest delegation at each meeting.

In the business meeting Mr. Marvin Sparks of Cliffside was elected to take Mr. Kendrick's place as district leader as Mr. Kendrick is to take the place of associational Junior-Intermediate leader. As district leader Mr. Kendrick made a fine report showing the work is growing.

Space forbids mentioning the several fine talks made by the young people. They were really inspiring and shows how the training in B. Y. P. U. fits them for larger service.

Another feature of the program was the duet by Messrs. Fay Jolley and Owen Padgett.

ONE TO A CUSTOMER.

A newspaper publisher offered a prize for the best answer to the conundrum:

"Why is a newspaper like a woman?"

The Prize was won by a woman who sent in this answer:

"Because every man should have one of his own and not run after his neighbor's."

Ten bulls and ten heifers were sold at the total low price of $1,900 at the first sale of pure bred dairy cattle to be held in Duplin county, says L. L. McLendon, county agent.

The Alleghany County Mutual Farmers Exchange has recently purchased 2,000 bags of cottonseed meal for its members to feed cattle this winter and plans to purchase another 1,000 bags shortly.

A milling company in Mecklenburg county is placing 1,200 bushels of high class seed wheat with farmers this fall with the condition that the seed must be returned by next September.

METHODIST CHURCH NOTES.

The ladies of the Methodist church will serve a turkey supper Saturday, November 22nd, at the R. R. Haynes Memorial building. The price per plate will be only fifty cents. Following is the menu.

Turkey, dressing, rice, giblet gravy, green beans, candied sweet potatoes, congealed vegetable salad, corn bread sticks, hot rolls, coffee, pumpkin pie and whipped cream.

Tables reserved upon request. Plan to have guests for week end and have supper with us. Every body invited.

The weather being very inclement our number for prayer service last Wednesday was very small. We should not let the weather interfere with our church attendance when we do not allow it to interfere with our pleasures and work.

We are glad that a goodly number did not allow the very disagreeable weather to interfere with their attendance at Sunday school and church services. Our membership is so glad to have Mr. Rhinehardt and family back for another year. We feel that this will be the best year yet.

We had a short service of appreciation Sunday for the pastor and family and pledged anew our allegiance to the church and are starting out with the hope that we as members will be more loyal to the pastor, church and its activities.

Our pastor preached a fine short sermon on "Who is on the Lord's side?" Text, Edodus 26:32. He certainly gave us something to weigh and answer.

Four classes are being conducted in the night school which began here Monday night of last week. A few more pupils are being enrolled and the interest in the work seems good.

SULPHUR SPRINGS

Forest City, R-1, Nov. 17.—We were glad to have a large crowd present for Sunday school, Sunday. The crowd was off some what on account of the bad weather.

NEW POULTRY HOUSE DESIGNED BY ENGINEER

Designs for a new poultry house said to embody the latest and best ideas in farm poultry house construction have been prepared by A. T. Holman, agricultural engineer at State college, in collaboration with the college poultry department.

In announcing this new plan, Mr. Hollman says it differs in several features from the one formerly furnished poultry growers. The house is 20 feet long and 20 feet deep with the capacity for 100 to 115 hens. The building itself is of lumber with the foundation and floor of concrete. Nests have been placed on the wall at one end of the building and movable mash hoppers are provided so that the building may be more easily cleaned. A maximum amount of sunlight can enter to all parts of the house. A large part of the front is open and the closed part is covered with glass cloth to shield the flock in rough, cold weather.

Another good feature of the new style house is that there is no possibility of drafts on the birds. The open front and well placed ventilators provide air circulation and keep the house from becoming too warm. A wire screen under the perch poles and above the dropping board helps to control disease. The concrete floor aids in the control of mites and lice and the water trough is so placed as to give easy access to fresh drinking water at all times.

This new plan, thinks Mr. Hollman is a distinct improvement over the old one and it may be used as a guide for building the new house or for remodeling the old. Those who wish to have a copy may write to Mr. Holman, the poultry department or to the Agricultural Editor at State college.

NEW WINTER PEA GOOD SOIL BUILDER

The Austrian Winter pea, introduced into North Carolina in the last two or three years, is the equal of any other winter legume as a soil builder.

"This is the indication we must accept from a series of demonstrations conducted on the farm of H. W. Bullard of Orrum, Robeson county," says Enos C. Blair, extension agronomist at State college. "In October 1929, Mr. Bullard planted plots of Austrian Winter peas, hairy vetch, crimson clover, and barley side by side on a uniform piece of soil. In April, 1930, all of these crops had made good growth and were turned under in preparing the land for corn. The hairy vetch, being a non-leguminous plant, was used as a check to learn of the effect of the legumes."

The results were very interesting says Mr. Blair. The corn grown on the different plots was recently harvested and weighed showing the yield after barley to be 30 bushels an acre. The yield following the hairy vetch was 39 bushels an acre; the yield following the crimson clover was 42 bushels and that after the Austrian Winter peas was 42 bushels an acre.

In other words, the plowing under of hairy vetch increased the yield of corn by nine bushels, while plowing under the crimson clover and the Austrian peas increased it by 12 bushels each.

From the results of these demonstrations, farmers may rely as confidently on the Austrian Winter pea as they have on the older, well known winter legumes which have been popular for so many years, Mr. Blair says. The yield on none of the plots were as high as they might have been due to the extremely dry season in that territory this summer.

SERVE PORK FRESH BY USING CANNER

Fresh pork, formerly available on most farms at hog killing time only, may now be made available throughout the year by using the pressure canner.

This is how Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, food conservation expert at State college tells how to do it:

Select fresh, clean meat without fat and cook for serving without over-cooking. Season lightly with salt and pepper. Remove the bones because this reduces the processing time. Cut the meat into pieces suitable for serving and pack while still hot into clean, sterilized cans or jars. Cooking the meat before canning bring out its flavor and shrinks it so that more can be put into a can.

Now use the pressure canner only. Other methods are unsafe. However, either tin cans or glass jars may be used.

Where tin cans are used, pack them tightly to within three-fourths of an inch of the top and seal before processing. In using glass jars be sure to wipe off all the grease or fat as this causes the rubbers to disintegrate. Fill the jars in the same manner as the tin cans. Do not screw down the screw top jars nor press down the spring on the glass top jars.

Use 15 pounds of pressure and process for 45 minutes without counting the time when the pressure is reaching 15 pounds. Where bones are left in the meat, the time must be doubled. Let the canner cool and the pressure return to zero before attempting to take the cans from the canner. Remove the jars one at a time and seal tightly as they are removed.

Canned meats are more attractive if no liquid is added to the pack, says Mrs. Morris. Following the methods given will permit of fresh pork for table use throughout the year rather than at the short period following hog killing.
