Miss Marion March and company presented that beautiful drama of "East Lynne" at the opera house Tuesday night to a jammed house, and not one went away disappointed. The stage settings were the finest ever seen here, and the gowns worn by Miss March were a revelation. In the characters of "Lady Isabelle" and "Madame Vine" Miss March showed her ability as an actress of real merit, while all the members of her company came in for a share of the applause during the evening.—Logansport Ind., Tribune.

Opera house Tuesday night. Seats on sale at Benton Clothing & Shoe Co.

The first snow of the season began falling Thursday night and Friday morning, the town was covered to a depth of about 4 inches. It continued until about 10 o'clock when the sun peeped out and called a halt in the proceedings. In the afternoon if you left your office and went out on Main street it was at your own risk, for the streets were crowded with gay boys and girls all armed with the pesky snowball and bent on having such fun as can be derived in pasting an unsuspecting friend with a cold pellet of snow and then watch the said friends antics while a place of safety was sought. The favorite spot to land on, was that unprotected spot that intervenes between the coat collar and hat, giving the beautiful snow a nice opportunity to trickle down your back, and many a one got swatted down the neck during the day. But 'twas all in fun and everybody took it good naturedly. We saw one fellow trying to stand on his head and trying to coax some of the icy stuff up the hill but it refused to come.

NOTICE

This is to notify all persons that my boy, Sam, aged 18 years, without any reason or my consent, left my home near Laurinburg, on last Sunday. Any person giving him employment, or harboring and detaining him from my services, will be held liable to me therefor. This 9th day of February, 1907. JOHN GOODIN.

Work of an Incendiary Foiled.

The residence of Mr. W. K. Beacham, at the foot of McLaurin avenue, narrowly escaped destruction by fire Monday night, which was doubtless the work of an incendiary.

About 11 o'clock Mrs. Beacham, in passing through the hall, noticed the reflection of the blaze and opened the back door leading out on the porch, and discovered that the corner of the house had been fired and was burning rapidly. Prompt work soon extinguished the blaze and prevented what would have been a destructive fire. It was no doubt the work of an incendiary, as was evidenced by the fire starting from the outside, and there was evidence, too, of something like oil being used in the devilish work.

Mr. H. A. Norton Dies in Hospital at Fayetteville.

Mr. Henry A. Norton, 34 years of age, a son of Mr. Darling Norton, of Scotland village, died in the Highsmith Sanitarium, Fayetteville, Monday. Mr. Norton was stricken with appendicitis on Tuesday, January 22d. His condition soon became serious and an operation was deemed necessary. He was carried to the Highsmith Sanitarium on Saturday following, and the operation was performed Saturday afternoon. It was at first thought his chances for recovery were good, but his condition changed and he continued to grow worse and he died last Monday at 11 o'clock. His remains were brought here Tuesday morning and interred at Laurel Hill the same afternoon at 3:30 o'clock.

Mr. Norton has been in the employ of the Scotland Cotton Mill since it began operation some six years ago, and at the time of his death was overseer in the spinning room. He leaves to mourn his untimely death, his father, two brothers and one sister—all of whom have the tender sympathy of their many friends in their sore affliction.

East Lynne Company — Opera House Tuesday Night.

The managers announce the coming of the East Lynne company which will appear at the opera house Tuesday the 19th. Regarding this company the Knoxville Herald says: "The old-time but very popular play of "East Lynne," as presented at Staub's theatre last Tuesday evening by Miss March and company, was a revelation to our people and pleased a large and fashionable audience. Miss March as "Lady Isabelle and Madame Vine," held her audience by her superb rendition of the characters, while the dresses worn were the envy of all the ladies. Miss March has surrounded herself with able support and makes "East Lynne" more popular than ever.

Elizabeth Browning Book Club.

The Elizabeth Browning Book Club spent a most enjoyable afternoon on January 29th, with Miss. Ina McNair. The program for the afternoon was as follows: Instrumental Solo—Miss Roberta Coble.

Current Events—Club. Trio—Misses McEachin, McLean and James.

Following this was a very interesting and instructive entertainment—Progressive Representations of Books. The prize, a lovely little book entitled "What is Worth While?" was won by Miss Leila May Gill. After this, delicious refreshments were served by the hostess in her most charming manner. The favors of this most pleasant occasion were carnations, double violets and asparagus fern.
