

Needs of Brevard Institute.

A paper read by Miss Ethel Futrell before the Jackson Epworth League.

In the mountain section of North Carolina, dwell those who need domestic, mental and moral help. This fact so impressed itself upon the hearts of Mr. and Mrs. Fitz Taylor, who chanced to locate at Brevard on account of the salubrious climate that they opened up their own home and began to plan for some academic instruction for the people.

With the aid of the Epworth Leagues of the Western North Carolina Conference and the Woman's Home Missionary Society this work was successfully carried on and it has grown from a small school to an institution which is known all over this state and many parts of others, for the noble work it is accomplishing year by year.

Backed up by sufficient means, this school would soon become an important factor in fitting many boys and girls for life who at present, are spending their lives in the mountains of our state, almost entirely shut off from civilization in darkness and ignorance, waiting for an opportunity to use and develop the powers to which God gave all human beings the right.

It is true there are a large number of these boys and girls who go to Brevard every year but the number is small compared to those who would go if the accommodations of the school were such as to allow them to enter.

The majority of us cannot be made to feel the need of uplifting and helping these people until we go among them and see the conditions as they really exist; but once we have gotten a glimpse of their narrow lives we cannot be satisfied until we have done something to enlighten them.

Ladies of the Home Missionary Society, do not feel that your efforts are unappreciated, for it is to you that this school owes its existence and the splendid success with which it meets year after year. But we must consider the large number of boys and girls who are turned away each session because there is no room for them.

Naturally where there are few educational influences, we would not expect to see much ambition evinced toward enlightenment, but in every phase of human existence, be it high or low, there is a spark of ambition lying dormant, waiting for the torch of encouragement to be applied before it bursts into a flame eradicating by its licking tongues the curse of ignorance and leaving in its place the lasting influence of a noble and uplifted life. This is the condition of the mountain boy and girl: Left to themselves, their ambitions unaroused, they spend their lives in the secluded mountains and never know there is anything better awaiting them on the outside. Even if they seem satisfied, we have no right to let them remain so. In the mountains of our state, there are endless fields for mission work, which are being sadly neglected.

At the opening of Brevard Institute there was no room in the main building to accommodate the principal and his family so a cottage was secured in front of the school. Later on another adjacent cottage was added to furnish dormitory room. Soon the campus was enlarged and another building added. None of these however, have been adequate to meet the opportunity that is open to us. The great need of a large chapel and classroom building, better dormitory facilities for boys, opportunity for agriculture, and industrial equipments for the girls is so apparent that the demand has gone forth year by year, for a large building and increased campus facilities.

There are four departments and the school has a student body of nearly three hundred. Eleven teachers conduct this work. The religious instruction has molded character and given strength and roundness to their lives, while as teachers and useful citizens, the graduates of this institution have in turn carried on these molding influences.

The results of all the mountain work maintained by the Woman's Board has been limited only by the equipment. We must give larger life to these people who are our natural charges. Born of sturdy character, made hardy by physical resistance, which is needed in the rugged mountains, we would not spoil by pauperizing, but would claim all of the fine elements of character, and by culture and development make citizens which both State and Church would be proud to acknowledge and use.

GROWING BOYS AND GIRLS

are under double strain—strength to live and learn and strength to grow—they must have nourishment—not overloaded stomachs, but concentrated nutriment to aid nature during the growing period.

The wonderful record of Scott's Emulsion as a body-builder has been proved for three generations. It strengthens the bones, muscles and sinews; builds the body, creates energy and vigor; prevents and relieves colds and fortifies the lungs.

Your Cotton Will Come Up Standing Like This

When Planted With the LEDBETTER "One Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter

COME in and see the only real cotton planter. The planter with a positive, precise force feed, that will take linty cotton seed, just as it comes from the gin, and plant the seed in a straight, narrow line—one at a time, equal distances apart—as regular as buttons on a card.

Other planters can be set to plant "thick or thin," but this planter will plant thick—a bushel or more of seed to the acre—without bunching, or thin—down to a bushel to six acres—without skips.

Each plant stands alone with its own few inches of growing room—cuts the work of chopping down to one-half, and you can take your own time about chopping—plants keep on growing and make stocky, vigorous bushes.

When you plant your cotton with a Ledbetter "One-Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter—one seed at a time, evenly spaced—you can plant the best seed that money can buy at no more cost than ordinary seed, because none are wasted in useless bunching. And you get 5 bales of cotton on the same land that grew only 4 before, because there are no skips in the row.

When the Ledbetter "One Seed" Corn and Cotton Planter is set for planting corn it is strictly a corn planter, without an equal for that purpose—dropping without fail a single grain at any distance desired from 8 to 48 inches. And the same is equally true when set to plant other seeds, such as peas, beans, canteloupes, watermelon, sorghum, millet, etc. With peanut attachment it plants peanuts, large or small, shelled or in the shell, with equal success. A double guarantee is behind every planter, that of the manufacturers, The Southern Plow Company, Dallas, Texas, and ourselves. COME IN TODAY—We want you to see this planter whether you intend buying a planter now or not.
