

Olney School Opening.

A very gratifying attendance greeted the faculty at the opening of Olney school the 15th. We believe every student of school age living in the district and not attending other places was in attendance except four, three of whom were unable to come through illness.

Upwards of fifty patrons and visitors were present. Among our valued guests from outside the district were Cyrus W. Harvey and Juliana Peele Harvey from Rich Square, both of whom made very encouraging and impressive talks. In addition we heard words from James N. Futrell, one of our oldest citizens and one to whom the school always likes to listen, members of the school committee, trustees and others. The keynote of the talks was co-operation. Only with it can the height of success be reached. One speaker emphasized the fact that there is a three-fold side to the student's being, each of which must be developed or the others will suffer.

A shade of sadness passed over the audience as we realized afresh that one of our long faithful teachers, Margaret C. Brown, had severed her connection with the school. However we feel that her interests are so deeply rooted in the school that, though absent in body, she will be present in spirit. We are happy to say that the committee has secured the services of a worthy successor, in the person of Ethel Futrell of Jackson, to whom we extend a hearty welcome. She has already won the hearts of the little ones and hence we know her success is assured.

The earnest faces of the students spoke plainly they had a purpose and we trust this year will be the crowning one in the history of the school.
