

S. D. Holloman.

On the afternoon of July 23, 1913, after several weeks illness with typhoid fever, Samuel D. Holloman passed from his earthly home to the "Great Beyond." He was the only son of Mr. and Mrs. S. J. Holloman and was born near Murfreesboro, N. C., February 20, 1886. He is survived by his parents, seven sisters and his wife, all of whom he was perfectly devoted to. He made a profession of religion quite early in life, at about the age of thirteen, and joined the Baptist church in Murfreesboro and remained a consistent member until God called him home to live with Him, where there is no more sickness and pain.

On December 23, 1909, he was happily married to Miss Mattie Draper of Conway. He was perfectly devoted to his wife, and she and three of his sisters were ill with typhoid at the time of his death, too ill for them to be told of his death, it was several weeks before they knew it, and indeed it was a great shock to them. The Rev. Mr. Sullivan preached his funeral at Meherrin on the third Sunday morning in October. Mr. Sullivan visited him several times during his illness and talked with him concerning the future. He told Mr. Sullivan he was not afraid to die, but he didn't want to die.

It seems sad to us for one to be taken in the prime of life, but God doeth all things for the best and we must be resigned to His will and comfort ourselves with the thought, that Sam is not dead but waiting for his loved ones where there will be no more sickness or sorrow.

I knew Sam from a little boy up to death, he was one of the best boys I ever saw, and as he grew to manhood he remained the same quiet, polite and respectful way to every one. I never have heard any one speak of him except to praise him. He was perfectly devoted to his wife, parents and sisters, so to the bereaved loved ones I extend my heartfelt sympathies and direct them for comfort to an all wise and ever blessed God in this sad hour of affliction.

Sorrow and a state of affliction are a school of virtue, it reduces our spirits to soberness and our counsels to moderation. God who governs the world in mercy and wisdom, never would have suffered the virtuous ones to endure so many keen afflictions and sorrows, did he not intend that they should be the seminary of comfort, the exercise of wisdom and the trial of patience, the venturing for a crown and the gate of glory. Adversity is the touchstone of character, grief is a common bond that unites hearts; the visitations of sorrow are universal.

How uncertain is human life! There is but a breath of air and a beat of the heart between this world and the next. The last faint pulsation here is but the prelude of endless joys hereafter.

In the midst of the calamity that has befallen us when death is in the family circle, and some loved one has been taken from us, we feel as if earth had no compensating good to mitigate the severity of our loss. There is now rest for those who have lived the true and good life. Take comfort, then, those of you in whose history the dearest charities of life have been severed by the rude hand of death, those whom you have thought about as lost, are not lost, except to present sight. Perhaps even now they are angel watchers screened by a kindly Providence from everything about that could give you pain. We are born for a higher destiny than that of earth. There is a realm where the rain-bow never fades, when the stars will be spread out before us like the islands that slumber on the ocean, and where the beautiful beings that here pass before us like visions will stay in our presence forever.

"Death's but a path that must be trod
If man would ever pass to God."
ONE WHO LOVED HIM.

The Youth's Companion in 1914.

Seven college presidents and a number of college instructors, including ex-President Taft, will contribute to The Youth's Companion during 1914.

Then there is Gene Stratton Porter, whose stories of Indiana woods and swamps have made her famous, and Kate Douglas Wiggin, who never wrote a dull line in her life, and Mrs. Burton Harrison, who remembers when conversation was really an art as practised in Washington and in the manor houses of Virginia. And this is just a beginning of the list.

If you know The Companion, you have a pretty clear idea of what is in store for next year's readers. If you do not know, ask us to send you sample copies—for instance, those containing the opening chapters of Arthur Stanwood Pier's fine serial—"His Father's Son." Full Announcement for 1914 will be sent with the sample copies.

For the year's subscription of $2.00 there is included The Companion Practical Home Calendar for 1914, and all the issues of the paper for the remaining weeks of 1913, dating from the time the time the subscription is received.

Backache

Miss Myrtle Cothrum, of Russellville, Ala., says: "For nearly a year, I suffered with terrible backache, pains in my limbs, and my head ached nearly all the time. Our family doctor treated me, but only gave me temporary relief. I was certainly in bad health. My school teacher advised me to
