KILLED IN AUTOMOBILE ACCIDENT

Washington, N. C., Man Meets Death on Route 30 Near Aulander--Held for Trial

Aulander, N. C., August 28.—The body of Harry Pholman, who died at Taylor's Hospital, Washington, N. C., at 1:15 Sunday morning, was carried to Baltimore for burial. Four hours before his death, Mr. Pholman was fatally injured when the Ford touring car he was driving five miles south of Aulander collided with a Star Coupe, driven by T. H. Emery, also of Washington, N. C. Mr. Pholman was coming to Aulander to take his wife back to Washington after she had been visiting Mrs. W. H. Burden, of Aulander. It is thought that Emery had been to Ahoskie and was returning to Washington. Emery states that he met three cars in a row and the third one was the one with which he collided.

The cars struck each other a glancing blow. The Ford, which was being driven by Pholman, then ran a little ways, turned over, and was ditched. The Star automobile, after the impact, ran a little ways, then curved to the left on account of the left-hand front wheel being knocked off and dived into the left embankment. Emery states that he was running around forty miles an hour. Emery received practically no injury.

Pholman was accompanied by Dr. R. F. Benthall, of Aulander, to the hospital at Washington. He died on account of the base of his skull being fractured. He was 36 years old and well respected in Washington where he has been living for the past twelve years. Until recently he was bookkeeper for the Pamlico Fertilizer Company, of Washington, but he was at the time of his death connected with Harrison Hardware Company of that town. He was an active member of the Methodist Church. He leaves a wife and ten year old daughter in Washington, N. C., besides his relatives in Baltimore, Md.

Emery was placed under a thousand dollar bond by Mayor Lacy M. Early, of Aulander, and failing to furnish bond was carried to Windsor, N. C., to jail by Policeman G. W. Mitchell, of Aulander.

Mrs. Euzelia Doffermyre and sons spent Friday with Mrs. Edgar Britt of Mapleton.

The Prohibition Laws

Editor Roanoke-Chowan Times:

When I wrote my article on Prohibition for your paper some weeks ago I hoped to get some expression of opinions from persons who, like myself, saw and deplored the conditions at this time prevalent in this country. But I have only succeeded in getting some dissertations on the evils of drinking, which of course all decent people were of the same mind before. I also referred to conditions just prior to the passing of the 18th amendment, not to forty or fifty years ago.

How Mr. Panton or anyone else can see how a "boot legger" or distiller can get any encouragement out of my article is a puzzle to me. At any rate my desire was to discourage them by having some law which would make their profession unprofitable and so put an end to it. I freely confess that public drunkenness is not so much in evidence as before we had the prohibition law, but I maintain that private drinking is at least as bad if not worse. Now I am going to make an assertion which I don't think can be successfully controverted, and that is that I don't know a single individual who has ceased to drink on account of the Prohibition law and I know several who take an occasional drink now who did not drink at all before we had the law. As for myself personally I have been doing as most men have done, taken a drink when I wanted it in my own home; rarely elsewhere, but if I never saw or tasted another drop of liquor it would matter nothing to me. I do not believe the honest prohibitionists really know the conditions under which we live, or they would join the moderate men who like myself want to change them and if possible better them; they couldn't be much worse. History teaches us that no sumptuary law has ever been enforced, and while a great many countries have tried out more or less drastic prohibitory laws only two provinces in the dominion of Canada now have a "bone dry" prohibition law, while all the others have tried the law, and have now modified it. Laws nor constitutional amendments do not change men's opinions nor their physical tastes, and attempts to do so only result in hypocrisy and disorder.

Why not look at this question in a sane and sensible manner; admit that while the abuse of liquor is a great evil the use of it is not a sin, and the use of it can probably be regulated while absolute prohibition cannot be enforced, or at least has not been so far. That the prohibition law is broken everywhere the files of the daily papers and the court records prove beyond a doubt, but it does not seem to discourage the breakers of the law to any appreciable degree. Northampton County Court has just sentenced one for the third time for this crime.

I now unhesitatingly state that I am for the absolute repeal of the 18th amendment and the Volstead laws, and let each State manage its own affairs in its own way. In my opinion it is the only way in which the admitted liquor evil will ever be successfully managed. Railing at people who do not agree with you never has accomplished anything and never will. Why not admit that the other man has a right to his opinion, even tho you think his opinion wrong. Point out to your children the evils of liquor, but don't tell them it is a sin to use

NORTHAMPTON 4-H GIRL'S ENCAMPMENT AT CAMP LEACH

On Friday afternoon, August 19th, cars loaded with bags or boxes of supplies came into Jackson carrying one or two 4 H Club girls. After a long wait to prepare a third truck thirty seven girls with their Home Agent, Miss Rainwater and her helpers, Misses Annie Belle Gay and Mary Taylor of Jackson and Miss Hat tie Mae Parker and mother, Mrs. J. J. Parker, of Lasker, headed their way toward Camp Leach to spend several days camping.

Car trouble delayed the party and when the trucks drove into camp the entire group sounded a note of homesickness. But after a night's rest, early swimming and the brightness and warmth of the sun everybody began to cheer up and by night you haven't seen a livelier group than this one. Miss Taylor's efficient leading in the 4 H songs you should have been listening in if you wanted to hear some real good singing. Miss Gay's and Miss Parker's reading lent cheer and enthusiasm. The girls were divided into four groups and each evening a contest of stunts was put on by each, having as judges the three truck drivers, Garland Midyette, Albert Lassiter and Charlie Erhardt.

Demonstrations in canning fruits and vegetables were given by Miss Anna Trentham, Home Demonstration Agent of Martin County. Most of the girls decided they would go home and try putting into practice the principles they learned about canning. When it comes to first aid treatment and talks on health Miss Trentham has them all beaten. The girls had opportunity to put into practice some of this knowledge right in camp.

Each evening and on Sunday morning the devotional hour was in charge of Mrs. Parker. Very helpful, practical talks were given the girls and some good thought must have lodged in the memory of each girl that will prove a help down the years.

Before returning Tuesday morning the party went over to Bath and saw one of the oldest churches in the State. An unusual amount of interest was shown while the guide told that the brick on the floor came from England, the candle sticks were given by King George II and other interesting facts about the church.

All the party reached Jackson safely Tuesday afternoon and reported a pleasant, profitable trip.

LOIS RAINWATER,
Home Demonstration Agent.

Reserve Certificates

A number of members of the North Carolina Cotton Growers Association in Northampton county, have recently asked me something about the INVESTMENT RESERVE FUND CERTIFICATES which the Association is offering to issue. I am planning to be in Jackson the first Monday, the 5th of September, and if there are any members who desire further information on the subject I shall be glad to discuss this matter with them.

DAVID H. BROWN,
District Supervisor.

it moderately, for they won't believe you long.

I have written these lines hoping that they may in some way benefit my country, but I admit my hopes are faint.

Respectfully,

THOS. S. NORFLEET,
Roxobel, N. C.

JUDGE PARKER DIES SUDDENLY

Asheville, Aug. 30.—Judge Raymond G. Parker of Winston-Salem died here this morning at 3 o'clock of heart failure. He had been actively engaged in holding courts for several weeks and only last week closed a two weeks term at Halifax. He came here and held court Monday and was to continue for the term but died during the night. It is presumed the body will be taken to his native county, Northampton, for burial.

Conway High School

The Conway Graded and High School is ready for the opening of the county schools on Sept. 8. The principal, R. M. Peele and C. E. Morrison, the teacher of Agriculture, have been on the field for some time and have been busy making improvements and getting affairs in shape for the opening. Improvements are being made in the Home Economics and Agriculture Departments that will add greatly to the materials for instruction in these Departments. Indications are that the school this year will have a record enrollment in both the elementary and high schools. With four of last year's faculty returning as a nucleus and with ten new teachers the faculty promises to be one of the strongest in the history of the school. The people of the entire community are exerting every effort to make this year one of the best possible. "Loyalty and Cooperation" is to be the motto of Conway this year and every one is already doing his bit to make Conway grow.

The following is the list of teachers: Robert M. Peele, Raeford, N. C.—Principal.

Miss Janie Dalrymple, Jonesboro, N. C.—Science and Mathematics.

Miss Elizabeth Larkins, Wilmington, N. C.—English and French.

Miss Rebecca Webb, Durant's Neck, N. C.—History and Mathematics.

Miss Agnes McLeod, Raeford, N. C.—Home Economics and Science.

Mr. C. E. Morrison, Shelby, N. C.—Agriculture.

Miss Jessica Moore, Charley Hope, Va.—Music.

Mrs. W. R. Draper, Rich Square, N. C.—Seventh Grade.

Mrs. Fred Odom, Conway, N. C.—Sixth Grade.

Miss Janie Revelle, Conway, N. C.—Fifth Grade.

Miss Rockie Lou Fleetwood, Jackson, N. C.—Fourth Grade.

Miss Fannie Lowe, Rich Square, N. C.—Third Grade.

Miss Cleo Sauls, Conway, N. C.—Second Grade.

Miss Helen Elliott, Rich Square, N. C.—First Grade.

Mrs. Harriss Entertains

Mrs. Herbert Harriss, Seaboard, entertained a few of her friends informally Saturday afternoon, from 4:00 to 6:30. Bridge was played at two tables. The high score prize, a beautiful guest towel, went to Miss Marguerite Maddrey, Miss Ruth Broughton, Hertford. The guest of honor, received a bottle of Haubigan perfume. Mrs. Harriss served a delightful ice course. Those present were: Mesdames H. R. Harriss, H. E. Roensch, T. R. Everett, J. L. Harriss and Misses Marguerite Maddrey, Alice K. Harriss, Edith Bradley and Mary Ruth Broughton, Hertford, N. C.

DIPHTHERIA TREATMENT

At the following places, and on the dates mentioned, the preventative treatment for Diphtheria will be given to children under school age (between the ages of 6 months and 6 years.)

Children who will attend school this fall will be treated in the schools.

This is a three-dose treatment and it is necessary that all three doses be taken. You must not miss the first dose, as only three trips will be made to the respective places.

At the following places, the only clinics will be held this year, for children under school age, except at Jackson, the health office, where treatment may be obtained every Saturday.

Remember that more children between the ages of 6 months and 6 years die of Diphtheria, than between any other age limits.

Bring your children.

Treatment for white and colored at the white school houses.

Tuesdays, Sept. 6, 13, 20—Rich Square.

Thursdays, Sept. 8, 15, 22—Seaboard.

Fridays, Sept. 9, 16, 23—Woodland.

Saturdays, every Saturday—Jackson, Health Office.

Mondays, Sept. 12, 19, 26—Garysburg.

Wednesdays, Sept. 14, 21, 28—Conway.

Hours—Between 10:00 A. M. and 11:00 A. M.
