

J. T. Wyatt 11 23 13

THE CHRONICLE

THE FLOWERS COLLECTION

J. M. L. LYERLY, Editor And Publisher.

One Dollar Per Year In Advance.

Vol. VII

Albemarle, N. C., Thursday, July 10, 1913.

No. 3.

Moving!

The Chronicle which has for seven years been issued from Albemarle, will after this week be issued from Concord, N. C.

The purpose and policy of the paper will remain the same. It will continue to hold up and maintain the principles which called it into existence. We have a large list of subscribers in the various adjoining counties, with correspondents from many sections.

We wish to ask all these correspondents hereafter to address

The Chronicle, Concord, N. C. with letters and news items. The paper will go on regularly to our present subscribers. Any complaints, discontinued names and renewals will all come to our new office. We do not expect to be able to get out an issue next week, but just so soon as at all possible, the paper will come from its new home.

We ask all Republicans of Stanly County to stand by the Chronicle and it will stand by them. We hope to greatly improve the paper, and want to make it one of the very best papers in the State. So soon as we get our machinery and plant in proper working order, the paper will be issued twice a week reaching our readers mostly on Wednesday and Saturday of each week. It is our purpose to come out Tuesday and Friday.

The first issue from Concord will be 2500 copies, and we hope to increase this number daily.

All the subscriptions paid in advance and all advertising contracts will be carried out, and no one shall be the loser on account of the removal.

There are many regrets in leaving Albemarle, Stanly County but it is with the hope of bettering our condition that we move. We want to enlarge and better equip the office, add efficiency to the office and lack in no respect where we are now weak. The Company will be reorganized, more capital will be put in, and the concern incorporated, a Linotype machine will be one of the additions and the business end will have the exclusive attention of one man.

The Editorial department will be separate and distinct from the business, and every effort possible will be made to give the public a decent and honorable paper. We leave mud slinging and sensationalism to those papers that have no principle and shall devote our columns as for the past year to the betterment of readers.

We are leaving Albemarle with no little regret, but wish to take this method of expressing our gratification and pleasure to our many friends who have so faithfully stood by us.

We hope to be of service to them in our larger field, and friends of the Chronicle need not fear that we are turning them down.

Mrs. T. D. Maness has returned to her home in Concord.

The animal of J. F. Whitley that ran away with the plow and was badly cut is getting along all right now.

James Efird's horse ran away Monday as he and his wife were coming to town to attend court. The horse became frightened and ran and threw Mrs. Efird out, bruising her, how seriously we have not learned. We hope it is not very serious.

Albemarle Route 3 Items.

Hel'lo Bloomington girl how are you? Your Items were fine, come again.

The hot weather makes the farmers scratch their heads.

Crawford Austin is still going up the Albemarle road. I think there will be something stirring in the good old summer time.

Miss Lizzie Burleyson visited her sister Mrs. D. L. Hinson last Sunday.

Delphia Holt has been sick for several days but is some better at this time.

School girls where have you been so long that you don't write to the Chronicle? I guess you were fighting general green.

The farmers are laying by their corn and cotton in this section.

Mr. Crawford Austin has purchased a new buggy. Now girls you had better put a 50 cent smile on yourself.

D. L. Hinson and family spent Saturday night with I. A. Burleyson. Brown eyed girl.

Miss Theresa King is the guest of Concord friends.

R. L. Smith Esq was in Salisbury last week on business.

Miss Laura Bost of Concord is the guest of Miss Katie Moose.

Mrs. Matilda Beck who was visiting relatives returned home last Saturday.

Mrs. R. G. Brooks and children left last Saturday for Roxboro, N. C. to visit relatives.

We are informed that the bundle of Chronicle's for the New London office failed to deliver last week. They were certainly put in the office here and that is all we can say.