Editorial Notes.

"Mattie Ruth, a colored girl, at the residence of Mr. John D. Briggs on Saturday started to start the fire with oil. Result, an explosion, and narrow escape of both her life and the dwelling."

N. B.—The girl, we regret to say, has died since the above was set. Her sufferings were terrible, and her cries heart-rending. "Oh, doctor, am I dying?"—she screamed. "Will I go right to hell and burn forever? Oh, poor mother, it will kill her when she hears the news! An' she aint got no money to bury me with!"—and thus on until death came to ease her pains. A sad death, truly!—Farmer & Mechanic.

We clip the above as a matter of warning to our readers while handling kerosene oil. It is so strange that people will refuse to profit by past and bitter experience. Next to whiskey and cast-iron pistols, both of which number their victims by the thousand, the kerosene can is getting to be the most destructive agency to human life. When anything assumes the form of a continued public evil it deserves legislative enactment, and we think the Legislature of the different States would only be doing God's service to attach a penalty to any one for starting a fire with kerosene oil.

CORRESPONDENCE.

For the Observer:

MR. EDITOR:

I desire to say something more than your Bilesville correspondent said in regard to the union meeting of the Patrons of Husbandry, at Bilesville. We had a fine audience. The new band of Bilesville was on hand, and gave us some good music.

The meeting was opened with prayer by Bro. Carter, when Capt. M. S. Parker, in behalf of the Bilesville Grange, then delivered the address of welcome. He then introduced Bro. McNamar of Cabarrus, who made a short address; he was followed by Bro. Cook of Mt. Pleasant, on 'Organization of the Farmers.' Bro. McAlister, Master of St. John's Grange, Cabarrus county, was then introduced and held the audience spell-bound for an hour or more, setting forth the principles of the order and the necessity of farmers being organized.

Bro. Pitts, Master of Poplar Tent Grange, and editor of the Concord "Times," then came forward and made a good speech. The audience then dispersed for dinner—the dinner was not grooped, but the citizens of the village provided for the visitors, while those from the country spread their dinner upon the ground and everybody had plenty to eat.

The Patrons held a private meeting in the afternoon, the object being to organize a District Grange between Stanly and Cabarrus counties, but not being ready it was postponed for the present.

Bilesville has a good academy; built by, and through the influence of the Patrons. The school is a good one, and a live working Grange holds its meetings upstairs in the same building.

Now, Mr. Editor, you can see some of the fruits of the farmers' being organized, and we think the farmers in different parts of Stanly county would do well to follow Bilesville's example. A live working Grange is a blessing to any community. We are laboring to develop a better, and higher manhood and womanhood among us. We hope to see the day when farmers will see the importance of being organized and have a place of meeting, where the farmers, their wives and their sons and daughters, can meet and mingle together and help bear each other's burdens.

A. PATRON.

MISCELLANEOUS NEWS.

Gen. Scales certainly is a good campaigner. His speeches are interesting, winning and forcible. His delivery is nervous and his sentences are pointed. His sentences are lofty and patriotic and he often rises to eloquence and moves the audience with a masterly hand.

Dr. York, while adroit and strong, is no match for Gen. Scales on the stump—the difference being great. But he is plausible and is full of the arts of the demagogue. There is nothing elevating in his manner, language or sentiments. He appeals to the prejudice rather than reason; and is very effective in presenting views which makes an impression among the unthoughtful.

The canvass doubtless falls short in dramatic interests that memorable one between Vance and Settle, but it stirs the people very much, and when the speaker approach this section it will evoke a strong sensation. The enthusiasm for Scales is great and the demonstrations in his behalf are all that we could wish. His speeches still further endear him to the people, and he not only wins applause but votes wherever he goes. He enthralls the people and arouses them, and there will be a larger vote polled for our ticket than ever before. But yet, in season and out of season, fine upon line and precept upon precept, we must enjoin upon our friends the necessity of practical work, of organization, the enrollment of voters, properly presenting our side to doubtful men and taking nothing for granted, but being constant in well doing. The best work is that done in the neighborhoods.—News-Observer.

Money Locked Up.

There is a scarcity of money throughout the country; for want of it trade is paralyzed, industrial establishments closed, thousands of laborers deprived of employment, and thousands of others compelled work at reduced wages, scarcely sufficient to procure the necessaries of life. Numbers of banks have gone down in the crash and the price of nearly all kinds of stocks have fallen largely, and with this the large crop of this year has so reduced the price of farm products that the farmer will scarcely be repaid for the labor he gave to his fields. And yet, according to the last statement of the Comptroller of the Treasury, there were locked up in the vaults of the United States Treasury, $412,000,000 in cash, accumulated there by excessive taxation, through the absurd and criminal policy of the Republican party, when the government did not need one dollar of this plus to meet its obligations. In round figures this sum represents about eight dollars to every man, woman and child in the U. S., taken from them by taxation, and locked up, not only useless, but inviting speculation and squandering legislation.

How much better off would this country be if this money were in circulation among the people, and they were relieved from the oppressive taxes that make its hoarding up in the treasury possible? That's what the Democratic party proposes to do when it comes into power.—Char. Ob.

YADKIN MINERAL SPRINGS

INSTITUTE.

Male (and Female),

Was established about eight years ago as a permanent High School, by the present Principal, O. C. Hamilton.

The influence and patronage of our School have steadily increased ever since its establishment and we now have near forty boarders, with the largest enrollment of any previous similar term.

We will move our School the first of April, from the very undesirable house, now used, into a much larger and more convenient new building just erected for our better accommodation. Excellent society, very healthful location.

Board and Tuition at the very lowest rates and thorough training, are some of the many inducements for patronizing our School.

Any one desiring to find a good and cheap School, will do well to call upon or write to the Principal for any desired information concerning the School.

Respectfully,

O. C. HAMILTON, PRIN'L. PALMERSVILLE, Stanly Co., N. C.
