Even if you have to go in debt, buy a home. Pay all you can, and secure the deferred payments on the most favorable terms possible, and then direct your energies to paying them. Our standing advice to beginners in life is to keep out of debt, but if at all favorable terms are made it is safe to go in debt for a home. Real estate can scarcely depre ciate in value, and the demand for homes will forever exceed the supply. So it is hard to cramp or impoverish the home owner.
