RENEWS HER YOUTH.

Mrs. Pheba Chesley, Peterson, Clay Co., Iowa, tells the following remarkable story, the truth of which is vouched for by the residents of the town: "I am 72 years old, have been troubled with kidney complaint and lameness for many years; could not dress myself without help. ...

WAS IT AN ATTEMPT TO MURDER US?

On Saturday evening the 4th instant, we were standing in the store of Mr. J. E. Jones, on the corner of First and Turner Streets, waiting for the hour to arrive for the Prohibition meeting at Davis Hall, when we were approached by a citizen of this town, who was under the influence of mean election whiskey. ...

THE KILLING OF EDITOR GAMBRELL.

Last week we chronicled the murder in Haverhill, Ohio; by saloonists, of Dr. Northrup. This week we chronicle still another murder by the liquor interest, and the murder of a brave, and true and talented a young man as the State of Mississippi can boast. Last Thursday night, R. D. Gambrell, Editor of the Signal and Shield, Oshannon, Miss., was waylaid by a party of whiskey men as he was passing over a bridge on the way to his home, and was shot dead. ...

with the butts of their pistols by his assailants, has come to us like the death of a personal friend. God help those to whom he was dearer than all else, and strengthen them to bear the awful horror that scene flashes before us! The lonely walk upon the bridge, as the young man, alone and unarmed, took his way homeward; the fatal flash of a pistol upon the dark night, the sudden cry which those who have once heard can never again forget—"MURDER!" the hurried tramp of feet; flash, flash, flash, and then that silence that was, for one, a silence that shall neverend until the grave gives up its dead at the command of its Conqueror! ...

OUR ONSLOW LETTER.

Swansboro, N. C., June 5th, 1887. Our farms are looking well but we are having most too much rain. Corn, cotton, peanuts, and potatoes, are as fine as we ever saw them for the time of year. J. McJones has corn 6 feet high on a level; he commenced to lay it by Mrs. H. R. Ward has peanuts 18 inches across full of blooms, but Dr. Blount takes the rag off the bush in corn, he had silks on the 24th of May last, roasting ears a week later, and now has nearly hard corn, we send sample of silks. Mrs. Mary Cranmer has the finest garden we believe. Onions to 12 inches in circumference at this writing and still growing, the Red Rocca variety; button beans raised last season by herself. ...

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

June did not come in, in a very promising manner this year. Heavy rains and cloudy weather prevailed. The much needed rains have quite refreshed the parched straggles in the parks, and have also done much good throughout the country. During the last few days in May the green lawns of Central Park were crowded with merry and gayly dressed May parties. Since the rain-soaked week have been marked out they have been well patronized by many ladies and gentlemen who find rest, recreation and exercise in the delightful game. The tennis field late in the afternoon is a sight to be remembered. ...

James G. Blaine will arrive in the city tomorrow from his home in Augusta Maine. On the 8th he will leave for Europe. He has not yet determined how long he will remain abroad, but expects to be about fully six months and possibly a year. His departure is delightful to some politicians who regard him in the light of a future candidate for the presidency. ...
