By a reference to our fourth page our readers will discover a new advertisement of New Bern's popular slaughter, Mr. Geo. Ash. He is always to the front, and our many friends and subscribers in Carteret and Onslow Counties, cannot do better, when needing any thing in his line, than send their orders to him, or call on him when in New Bern. A word to the wise is sufficient.

Old Bureau paid us a visit on Monday. He came like a thief in the night. Monday was real cool, overcast and good fires were in demand. God pity the poor, and put it in the minds and hearts of our people to help them. Beneath the Orphan at Oxford. There are 212 little ones dependent upon the charitable people of N. C., gathered together at that institution. God loveth a cheerful giver.

The Falcon wishes to know the breed of our Rooster? In answer, we would say that the cause of his neck being so straight, is that he has been bred over the Democratic successes of the past few years. We will order a new one for next year—iron bound and copper fastened. Carteret is the banner county of the district, hence the decline of our breed. Brothers, don't forget the Fair. Our hatch string is on the outside.

IN MEMORIAM.

Died in Beaufort on Friday November, 11th, 1887. Mrs. Charity E. Davis, wife of John P. C. Davis deceased, in the 74th year of her age. Her husband, a prominent citizen of Beaufort, preceded her a number of years ago to the Land of the Blest. She had passed the allotted time, having more than lived out the three score years and ten. She was a true and humble follower of the blessed Savior. She was a member of the M. E. Church communion, in which she had lived since her youth. During the latter years of her life she was sorely tried with disease, but she bore her sufferings with great patience and fortitude. A few years since she was called upon to stand by the open graves of a devoted daughter and a loving son. She bore this great affliction with Christian fortitude, as she did the loss of a loving, kind and devoted husband.

She has gone to her reward—her sufferings are over—she is at rest. God's finger touched her and she slept. She quietly fell asleep in the arms of a loving Savior.

Dead—the sad intelligence of the death of such a woman has cast a gloom over her many friends. She will be remembered by them as a loving, confiding, and faithful friend. Free from all arrogance and pride, and possessed of a meek and quiet spirit, she won the esteem and confidence of all who came in contact with her. In her were combined all the qualities which lead beauty and force to character, and which give her a title to true womanhood. Her's was indeed a lovely character. Pure as the dew drops of the morning in her youth, and true as steel, it was but natural that she should be in after life, a devoted wife and mother. She loved her God, she loved the Methodist Church—the church of her choice, and when the summons came she was ready to respond to the call.

Her pure spirit has flown from its tenement of clay, and is resting on the bosom of its God. She is with her Savior and the "Free of Life" waving a palm that shall that shall ever be green and sweeping a harp that shall never be unstrung. We mourn her loss to us, but we would not call her back if we could. Beyond the din of all earthly strife, he would reach of all sorrow and pain, she is happier far than she could ever be in this shadowy vale of aches and sighs and tears.

"God knows best."
"We only see the dark side of the cloud."
"God seeth the rest."

Our warmest sympathies run out after the grief-stricken dear ones, who are bereft of the wise counsel of a devoted christian mother. May the God of all grace be with them. Her remains were followed to the cemetery by a large concourse of loving friends and laid by the side of her husband and children.

"But wherefore weep? Her matchless spirit soars."
Beyond where splendid shines the orb of day;
And weeping angels lead her to those bowers
Where endless pleasures virtues deeds repay.

And shall presumptuous mortals Heaven arraign,
And, madly, God-like Providence accuse?
O! no, far fly from me attempts so vain;
Thine'er submission to my God restore."

EXCITEMENT IN TEXAS.

Great excitement has been caused in this vicinity of Paris, Texas, by the remarkable recovery of Mr. J. E. Correy, who was so helpless he could not turn in bed, or raise his head, every body said he was dying of Consumption. A trial bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery was sent him. Finding relief he bought a large bottle and a box of Dr. King's New Life Pills; by the time he had taken two boxes of Pills and two bottles of the Discovery, he was well and had gained in flesh thirty six pounds.

Trial bottles of this Great Discovery for Consumption free at T. B. Delemar's and large bottles $1.

The advantages of a reliable, safe and efficacious Family Medicine, is incalculable, and when such is found, the blessing is thus happily expressed.
I EXCLAIMED, "EUREKA."

I have been using Simmons Liver Regulator myself some five years or more, and my family also, and can testify from experience to its virtues. I never remember to have used a medicine unless I knew it to be good. In a minority of twenty five-years I have often felt the need of such a medicine and when I found it I exclaimed, "Eureka."—Rev. J. P. Harger, proprietor of the "Christian Visitor," Smithfield, N. C.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

[From Our Regular Correspondent.]
New York, November 19, 1887.

The tall form of Henry Irving, the distinguished actor, is a familiar figure on 4th avenue. He takes his constitutional stroll in the afternoon followed by his favorite dog, a small fox terrier. Mr. Irving with Ellen Terry is now filling an engagement at the Star Theatre. The actors congregated in crowds in front of the Morton House on Union Square. In the theatrical world, as in every other business or profession, there are hundreds of unemployed men. Men who wear long hair and coats shiny with wear. The duke of the profession is Bob Hilliard now an ex-member of Mrs. Laury's company. Some sharp notes have passed between the actor Hilliard and Mr. Gebhard, a well known man about town, this last week. The trouble arose between Mr. Gebhard and some friends who were occupying a box adjacent to one occupied by Mrs. Hilliard and Mrs. Henry Dixey. The ladies accused Mr. Gebhard's friends of staring and making ungentlemanly remarks about them. Mr. Gebhard has explained the occurrence to the entire satisfaction of the wranglers and blood shed has been happily avoided.

The number of blockades that have been continually occurring on Broadway by wheels being wrenched off wagons, axles broken and breakings off of all kinds are attributed to the centre bearing rail of the surface line of cars. The nuisance however, will probably be so on elated by the action of the legislature.

Election bets were settled in various ways, the week after the election. Some bank accounts were reduced considerably while others again were enriched. A number of corrupt and ridiculous bets were settled much to the satisfaction of the other parties and the public. One man in Brooklyn was compelled to win his victorious friend over the principal thoroughfare. Another in this city swept Broadway from 32d to 34th street with a street broom to the music of a brass band and cheers of friends. How ridiculous some people will make themselves all on account of a city election.

Her Most, the noisy and cowardly anarchist, has been arrested to answer for the speech he made at a meeting on the east side of town. Most advised his hearers to avenge the lives of the Chicago anarchists and recommend the killing of the judges and others who helped to convict the guilty men. According to our usual code such a speech is a criminal offence and is punishable by the law. The case was carefully considered in the District Attorney's office and resulted in the arrest of Her Most. Most is the editor of an anarchist's paper. He has served one term on Blackwell's Island for his incendiary remarks and is likely to enjoy another rest in that secluded resort. He was admitted to bail and his trial set down for Tuesday next.

The Rev. Mr. Simpson of the Tabernacle on Madison avenue, philanthropically inclined, decided to give the newsboys, bootblacks and ragmen a good and instructive treat on every Thursday evening throughout the winter. A stereopticon show was arranged for the first entertainment and the event carefully advertised to take place in the lecture room of the Church. It was expected that only a few of the small fry would respond but before seven o'clock arrived a small mob of boys overflowing with animal spirits assembled on the sidewalk impatiently waiting to be admitted. When the doors were opened the mighty torrent of young humanity poured in. The good pastor in vain endeavored to address the boys but his remarks were drowned. The choir warbled a hymn which was also inaudible. When the gas was turned out for the benefit of the magic lantern a small riot ensued in which several minor fights were inaugurated. The muscular sexton in attempting to eject several of the ring leaders broke the glass doors and practically ended the entertainment. Such is the gratitude of the street arab of the city.

The steamer Guyardotte, of the Old Dominion Line, on her trip from Norfolk to this city was run into by a three masted schooner. A hole was punched into the side of the steamer while the schooner only suffered the loss of her bow sprit.

Edward Harrigan, the well known actor and proprietor of the Park Theatre will place upon the boards a new drama of Southern life entitled, "Ete." For the play he bought a small two wheeled cart and a pair of oxen, such as is used by the negroes of the remote sections of Alabama and other Southern States. The cart with its small oxen and old colored driver, has excited no little comment on its journey to New York. The play, no doubt, will be a success as all the works of Mr. Harrigan are. With the first of November, the opening of the shooting season comes the usual number of accidents of the "did not know it was loaded" and other kinds. Many people do not regard a loaded gun either in the field or at home as a dangerous article. The illustrated papers have already brought out their extra Thanksgiving numbers and, as usual, the poor unending turkeys suffer at the hands of the cartoonist and humorous editor. The Princeton Yale football game was played at the Polo grounds this afternoon and resulted in a splendid victory for Yale. About five thousand persons witnessed the game in spite of the pouring rain. On Thanksgiving Day Harvard and Yale will decide their superiority in the game.

WE ARE MAKING A STIR WITH WONDERFUL BARGAINS.
