DONE WITH ELECTRIC NEEDLE

How Expert Tattooists Create a Permanent Blush on Women Not Afraid of Pain.

We have always been under the impression that the English women were best with one of the finest complexions in the world, says the Electrical Experimenter, but here comes a cable from London telling of the popularity accorded to a new fad in the English city—that of electrically tattooing a permanent complexion or blush on the face. The report goes on to say that the pallid and sallow faces of London women are being permanently brightened and given a rosy tint by expert tattooists, whose electric needle applications can be graduated to suit any physiognomy, and further, that the tattooists report they have never done such a thriving and profitable business among women as now.

How Egypt is Prospering.

In an interesting paper recently read before the Cairo Geographical society by William Willocks is described how many of the fellahs' wives have profited by the rising tide of agricultural prosperity, to start a little money lending on their own account, and not infrequently to their husbands. In one thriving village where the value of the land held by the fellahs amounted to about $1,000,000, mostly in small holdings, they had cleared off their indebtedness except for $125,000. In this community 80 per cent of the women had money on loan, and their husbands were found to have borrowed from them altogether no less than $30,000, usually at very high rates of interest. The profits at least remain in the family instead of going to the Greek and Coptic money lenders, and certainly strengthen the woman's hold upon her husband, in a country where, according to Mohammedan customs, he can divorce her by a mere word.

How Dike Was Wrecked.

For most people the dikes of Holland have held a romantic suggestion of peril ever since mother read them the story of the boy who stopped the leak with his arm. Some time ago a dike near Amsterdam was undermined, not by the seepage of the sea, but by heavy rains. The disintegration of the earthen embankment destroyed a railroad line along the top and completely wrecked a loaded passenger train, killing at least 50 and injuring 100 travelers. The cars were rolled to the bottom of the dike in a tangled mass.

Temperature Important.

Lead is said to act like steel at ordinary temperatures in liquid air. It will serve as a helical spring, for example. This behavior of soft non-elastic metals is very interesting. It shows how very important temperature is. Just as iron is soft and inelastic at a high red color, so lead is dull and soft at ordinary temperatures, for it is well on its way to be melted.

Sanskrit Oldest Language.

The oldest known language is Sanskrit, the oldest language of the Hindus; long since obsolete in vernacular, but preserved to the present day as the literary and sacred language of India. It is a sort of mother of languages, many of those of Europe being largely based on it.

How Fear Affects Mankind.

Man has been oppressed by influences making for fear for ages, and he frequently and erroneously thinks it difficult to rid himself of his reactionary heritage. His salvation depends upon an understanding of his plight—upon a slight-consciousness—and upon successful revolt. Fearless-ness must dominate instead of fear; mental freedom must put psychic autocracy to rout; the entire mental attitude must be altered; it is just as easy to cultivate a wholesome attitude as a vicious one.

Concealed in

The earth conceals in its wonderful objects, both natural and artificial, that are being discovered from time to time. Remains of prehistoric animals and plants, skeletons and mummies, coins and jewelry, statues, old records, aboriginal implements and toys, even whole buried cities have been found from time to time. Mammoths have been unearthed whole in frozen Siberia. Their bones or those of their relatives, the mastodons, have been dug out in Alaska, in New York state not far from the Hudson river, and in New England.

Nature's Supremacy.

Emerson in his essay on Nature says: "At the gates of the world is forced to leave his city estimates of great and small, wise and foolish. The knapsack of custom falls off his back with the first step he makes into these precincts. Here is sanctity which shames our legends and reality which discredits our heroes."

Occular Superstitions.

No one can give any reason why a horseshoe is considered lucky. The original belief was that it kept out witches. A novel wart cure is the placing of a number of pebbles in a bag, corresponding with the number of warts. The warts are supposed to disappear when the bag is thrown away, and the person who finds the bag is expected to find the warts as well.

Cleaning Books.

Most family libraries are disfigured by one or two once lovely volumes in unattractive bindings of pale silk or white leather dimmed by grime. Art gum or a sort of kneaded eraser may clean them. If not, try fine powdered pumice, lightly applied with a clean chambray. This is what picture dealers use to clean the margins of old prints. It roughens the surface less than rubber.

Does Double Duty.

The weight of the cars descending a South African mine is used to produce power by pulling a cable wound around a drum that drives a generator.

HOW TO PREVENT BARK FLAKING OFF LOGS

IN "RUSTIC" STRUCTURES.

—To prevent the bark from flaking off logs in rustic structures, the forestry products laboratory, Madison, Wis., recommends the following different methods of seasoning:

1. Cut timbers late in summer and score on two sides; that is, cut off narrow strips of bark for the entire length. Pile in shade in open pile and allow thorough circulation of air. Allow timbers to season until following spring or summer before using.
2. Proceed as in (1) and in addition coat ends, stripped portions, and knots with coal-tar creosote, using one coat a few days after timber is cut and another just before using the timbers.
3. Proceed as in (1), but do not score bark. When timbers are in place, tack back on with large headed nails, placing one to every square foot of surface. Paint heads of nails to resemble color of bark.
4. Tack or nail the bark without particular attention to time of cutting or other treatment.

The nailing method has been used successfully by one Western company which maintains numerous rustic hotels, and also on a large rustic building erected for exposition purposes.

Why Superstition Lingers.

Man's curiosity is in excess of his power to interpret and understand; consequently he guesses, and when he guesses wildly and inaccurately others of a later date call his guess superstition. Long after people have clearly seen that there is no rational evidence for the thing believed the superstition lingers.

How About the Price?

The British government has established a research station to determine the fuel value of coal and its products and especially to ascertain the extent to which low grade coal and colliery waste can be utilized.

How to Remove White Spots.

A little wood alcohol will remove white spots from varnished furniture, but rub it quickly to prevent the alcohol having time to act on the varnish.

The Movie Kiss.

The endurance test movie kiss, popularly known as a clinch, is not properly a kiss, but a form of adhesion closely resembling vulcanizing.—Robert Quillen in the Saturday Evening Post.

Homing Umbrella.

According to a trade journal the latest fashion in umbrellas is a pigeon's head carved on the handle. This, we understand, is the first step toward a really reliable homing umbrella.—London Punch.
