

FORMER BEAUFORT PASTOR AND WIFE VISIT HERE

Reverend William P. McCorkle, and Mrs. McCorkle of Burlington are spending a few weeks at the Manson House. Mr. McCorkle is affectionately remembered by the older people of Beaufort having served as Pastor of the M. E. Church in 1879. After leaving Beaufort he married Miss Lacie Andrews of Charlotte. They celebrated their golden anniversary December 30, of last year and as Mr. McCorkle stated to the News, has brought his bride of fifty years to Beaufort to meet his many friends here. Mr. McCorkle wrote this poem on the eve of their anniversary and presented it to her.

TO MY WIFE—AN ANNIVERSARY GIFT

By William P. McCorkle.

Full fifty years at last have fled since we twain were made one; And now dear wife, with silvered head, we face a sinking sun. Our past is mixed of joy and tears, but more of joy than grief; God's love, through all the vanished years, stands out in clear relief.

The future holds nor grief nor pain could find us unprepared; 'Twill yield, we know, but more of gain, else we had not been spared. And when it comes, as come it must, that last farewell be given, Since God's decree is, "dust-to-dust"—parted, we'll meet in heaven.

Our parting would be sore indeed, but severance would be brief, And He who ne'er forgot our need will solace either's grief. Or should it be Our Father's will that life for both should cease In one glad hour, twin death would still but mean our greater peace.

I would that all the golden store of Klondyke hills were mine— With Africa's diamonds—these and more, dear heart, should all be thine.

No queen e'er sat in throned estate who merited more of wealth Than thou, my soul's beloved mate, my life's sereneest health. But since nor gold nor gems have I, nor works of precious art, Performe some thrilling rhymes I'll try—the tribute of my heart:

Dear friend, the noblest, truest, best, that e'er in life I've found, Great heart, the strongest, tenderest—great soul with wisdom crowned; Right nobly hast thou done thy task, right nobly given thy love; More hast thou proven than live could ask, save of One Heart above.

Thy love ensperses the world for me, and is my manhood's stay; The luster of thy constancy gilds e'en the sunlit day.

Thy shining soul its radiance lends my spirit's somber shade, While round thee flock a host of friends to whom thy love is bread.

The children run within thine arms, the aged own thy grace; Young men and maidens speak thy charms; love kindles from thy face. Thine is an angel's gentle tread, an angel's holy art;

Wise age shines silvern on thy head—glad youth glows in thy heart. December 30, 1929, Burlington, N. C.
