

A MECCA FOR TOURISTS

U. S. Fisheries Laboratory, Piver's Island

With the completion of the bridge from the Beaufort Morehead Causeway to Piver's Island more tourists than ever before are visiting the Fisheries Museum at the Laboratory. Of especial interest to visitors now will be the salt water pool recently completed which will contain live reptiles, sea turtles, loggerheads and leatherbacks from out of the ocean. During the past month over 1,000 people have visited the laboratory. This week, Laurens E. Calvert, news editor, of the New York Times was there, gathering material for a feature story he plans to write. Those who do not care to walk across the recently completed bridge to reach the Laboratory may be rowed across by Capt. Jack at the end of Front Street who still maintains his service of ferrying visitors across the channel to the island.

Dick Harlow, Harvard University football coach, has a collection of bird eggs, the third largest in the nation, valued at $30,000; a stamp collection worth $20,000; and at his summer home in Pocono Mountains of Pennsylvania has a collection of several thousand rare plants set in the midst of 50,000 rhododendrons.

The average American traveled 1500 miles in his auto last year, estimates based on gasoline consumption revealed. There are 15,000,000,000 gallons of gasoline sold in America annually.

Professor R. H. Beamer, of the Department of Entomology, University of Kansas, uses shot guns and rifles loaded with "dust" or birdshot to collect specimens of cirades, commonly known as locusts. He shoots them down from the branches of trees.

In Benton, Ark., a 19-pound baby girl was born to Mrs. Everett Yates, a 16-pound daughter was born to Mrs. Yates six years ago.

Of all the people in the world today, not more than one-third eat with a knife and fork. Another third use chopsticks. And the final third still eat with their fingers.

German and Austrian war veterans now living in Lorain, O., were recently the dinner guests of American soldiers they opposed in the trenches during the World War.

In Haverford, Pa., millionaire Margaret Dorrance, whose monthly income is a mere $10,000, blushed furiously when her chauffeur was stopped by a policeman for speeding. She reached for her purse and found —no money to pay the fine. The chauffeur dug in his pockets and paid the fine for her.

J. W. Miller, 90, of Barboursville, West Va., shaves with a razor that has been used regularly for 150 years; he has used it for 70 years. Ten thousand people recently paid to witness the roasting of an ox at Tottenham, England.

One of the world's oldest sights is seen at the summer festival in Puri, India, when the god of Vishnu takes his annual one-mile ride along Paradise Road. In order to solicit pity and alms, hundreds of holy men—each equipped with a secret breathing tube—bury themselves along both sides of the highway, no part of them showing above the ground except their upraised arms.

The wolf is at the door of the Lincoln Park Zoo in Chicago. Instead of only two timber wolves to feed, the zoo has seven now. The two old residents produced quintuplets last week.

More than 100 physicians were reported gravely ill in Amiens, France, after attending the annual banquet of their medical society. Police believe the doctors were poisoned by food eaten at the banquet.

Larderello, Italy, is a city that lives on and off an active volcano. All light heat and power is procured from the hot interior of the mountain and sold to outlying cities and factories—thus eliminating all taxes and improvement costs.

Hereditary enmity was forgotten when a mother cat in Chicago heard the hungry whining of a litter of puppies whose mother had died. The cat promptly adopted the pups and is caring for them as if they were her own offspring.

Dated March 1, 1877, a post card to a woman who has been dead 33 years has just been delivered in Plymouth, England, to Mrs. P. H. Blake, her daughter-in-law, who had to pay 4 cents excess postage.

Black tulips may be a rarity in themselves, but three blooms on one stem are an achievement in gardening. James Eastep, an ardent flower fan of Ogden, Utah, has proved his prowess by displaying a bouquet of them.

In Urbana, Ill., this announcement was chalked on a blackboard in front of a drug store: "For sale—one slightly worn Blue Eagle, sired by Roosevelt and damned by the Supreme Court."

The male and female Negro population of the United States in the last census showed that there were 5,855,669 males and 6,035,474 females.

Howard Ballew, farmer living near Moulton, Iowa, uses his flock of 1,600 sheep for road repair work. Recently, after heavy rains, he "rolled" to boulevard smoothness a stretch of impassible country road by driving the flock over it several times until their feet packed the mud.

Seventh-year-old Mrs. Murray Dodd, widow of a Canadian judge, has arrived at Tilbury, England, after crossing the Atlantic for the fifty-third time.

Believe it or not, Dr. V. Palomo of San Antonio, Texas, has never eaten a bite of sea food of any kind in his life.

Applying for a marriage license, a couple was informed by a clergy that the charge would be $3.50 "Nothing doing" replied the bridegroom. "I know where I can get one for $3."

Clubs Declare War On Roadside Signs

Raleigh, June 19—A boycott of products advertised on unsightly roadside signs in North Carolina was recommended the other day at a meeting of home demonstration club members in Pinehurst.

In a resolution adopted, the members appealed to farmers, merchants, chambers of commerce, woman's clubs and other organizations to enlist in the war against signboards.

Many of the signboards not only mar the landscape, but they are also a source of danger inasmuch as they divert the drivers' attention from the road, the resolution stated.

The women also commended the Agricultural Adjustment Administration for its benefits to agriculture, which are being felt by the club women and business houses of the nation as well as the farmers themselves.

After throwing their support behind the world peace movement, they turned to the moving picture industry to endorse the improvements made in the moral tone of pictures.

The use of motion picture theatres as "nurseries" for children while the parents go about other activities was deplored as being bad for the mental and physical development of children.

A resolution adopted by the Cumberland County farm women prior to the meeting at Pinehurst requested that rural electrification be given a prominent place in the public work program.

Copies of the resolutions have been sent over the State for study by club women so that delegates to Farm and Home week at State College this summer may be prepared to act upon them at that time.

One thousand tons of paper are required each year to print postage stamps of the United States.

 Capital Keyholes

IRKED—Governor Ehringhaus is a mild-mannered man but once you get his ire to the boiling point watch for the steam to pop off. Down at the Governor's conference at Biloxi, Mississippi, a representative of Harry L. Hopkins, head man of the federal relief program, said the money is not being spent politically. North Carolina's own Chief Executive replied that such was rapidly becoming the case, or words to that effect. Of course, Mr. Hopkins nor his representative liked that, but they picked the right man to get them told if they do start in to playing human miseries for votes in 1936.

HORTON Senator W. P. Horton, of Chatham, complicated things for one or two people when he definitely announced that he will be a candidate for Lieutenant Governor.

Senator Paul D. Grady, of Johnston, already has his hat in the ring and in addition to Lumpkin Senator Carl L. Bailey of Washington, and former Senator George McNeill, of Cumberland, both are considered real threats for the post. Some people are wondering why the Number Two post in the State Government has suddenly become so popular.

ROADS The State Highway Commission is making visible use of the $3,000,000 emergency appropriation passed the late General Assembly and as you ride about over the State on secondhand roads you will find many holes newly patched. But it will be a job for somebody to keep them in shape with big, heavy trucks beating them to pieces and the highway fund diversionists already planning their campaign in the 1937 Legislature.

PRISONS—The State government is hoping to get an allotment from the federal relief program to construct modern, fireproof prison camps in all sections of North Carolina. Prison conditions have been greatly improved since the State took over the old chain-gang system but housing conditions in many camps are still bad.

EXECUTIONS July 1 is almost here and all persons sentenced to be put to death for crime in North Carolina will die in a lethal gas chamber instead of the electric chair under direction of an act passed by the General Assembly. It has not been decided just where to locate the gas chamber at the State Prison in Raleigh but indications are that it may be located atop the main building. Two or three towers of unique construction are thought by some prison officials to provide ample quarters for the gas chamber.

LOW COST MAINTENANCE AND HIGH RESALE VALUE

● The first cost of the Ford V-8 is as low as it is possible to make it and still give you a high quality, modern automobile with the comfort, roominess and safety features—the performance, dependability and economy of the Ford V-8.

This inbuilt quality is evident in the very low cost of maintenance and operation of the Ford V-8. And throughout many thousands of miles of service, maintenance is kept to a minimum because Genuine Ford Parts and service are priced so much lower. In addition, upkeep is further reduced by the Ford policy of exchanging factory reconditioned units—even to the Ford V-8 engine—a big economy only Ford owners enjoy.

Ford quality again comes to light in the high resale value of the Ford V-8. The manufacturer may set the price of a new car but the public itself decides what it will pay for a used car.

And it is a very significant fact that the public has set a high resale price on Ford cars... The reason is simple. Precision-built of the finest quality materials, Ford cars last longer, and therefore the market for used Fords is always good.

What else can you buy that will give your family as much enjoyment as a new Ford V-8? What other car offers you so sound an investment? With your old car applied against the down payment you may have to pay no more than $8.00 a week to be driving a new Ford V-8 tomorrow. Just ask your nearest Ford dealer about the Authorized Ford Finance Plan... And remember, as you thrill to V-8 performance on the highway, that this is the most economical car to operate that Ford has ever built.
