Rural People Like Radio Farm Talks

Raleigh, Oct. 7.—Reports received at State College indicate that the daily farm broadcasts started three weeks ago by the Agricultural Extension Service are being favorably received by farmers and farm women.

As at first, specialists from the college are making daily talks over Station WPTF, Raleigh. Copies of the talks are sent to other stations in state and are read at the same time that the talk is being made over the station in Raleigh by the author of the manuscript.

The schedule for the week of October 7-12 was opened on Monday by Fred M. Haig, professor of animal husbandry at State College, in a discussion of "The Horse and Mule Industry." Tuesday's program featured M. E. Gardner, head of the horticulture department, who spoke on "Pollination and Fruit Fetting."

For the rest of the week the program includes: Wednesday, Roy S. Dearstynne, "The Poultry Situation in North Carolina;" Thursday, Mrs. Cornelia C. Morris, "Home Furnishings and Home Management;" Friday, Lenthall Wyman, "The Products of our Forests;" and Saturday, Dr.

C. B. Clevenger, "Fertilizers and Soil Acidity."

The schedule for the week of October 14-9 will be opened by Dr. C. D. Grinnels' who will talk on animal husbandry. Dr. B. B. Fulton, will speak Tuesday on "The House Fly." On Wednesday Dr. I. V. D. Shunk will discuss "Plants."

COUNTRY GIRL'S CREED

By Jessie Field Shambaugh
I am glad that I live in the country. I love its beauty and its spirit. I rejoice in the things I can do as a country girl for my home and my neighborhood.

I believe I can share in the beauty around me; in the fragrance of the orchards in spring, in the weight of the ripe wheat at harvest, in the morning song of birds and in the glow of the sunset on the far horizon. I want to express this beauty in my own life as naturally and happily as the wild rose blooms by the roadside.

I believe I can have a part in the courageous spirit of the country. This spirit has entered into the brook in our pasture. The stones placed in its way call forth its strength and add to its strength of song. It dwells in the tender plants as they burst the seed cases that imprison them and push through the dark earth to light. It sounds in the nestling notes of the meadow lark. With this courageous spirit, I, too, can face the hard things of life with gladness.

I believe there is much I can do in my country home. Through studying the best way to do my everyday work I can find joy in common tasks done well. Through loving comradeship I can help bring into my home the happiness and peace that are always so near us in God's out of door world. Through such a home I can help make real to all who pass that way, their highest ideal of country life.

I believe my love and loyalty for my country home should reach out in service to that larger home that we call our neighborhood. I would whole heartedly give my best to further all that is being done for a better community. I would have all that I think and say and do so help to unite country people near and far in that great kingdom of love for neighbors which the Master came to establish. The Master who knew and cared for country ways and country folks.

War Veterans Being Aided By Red Cross

"Seventeen years after the Armistice the American Red Cross is still carrying out its obligations to veterans of the World War," Dr. F. E. Hyde, Chairman of the Red Cross Chapter, said today in a statement disclosing that 236,984 veterans and their families received Red Cross aid last year.

"This assistance, which is a charter obligation of both the chapters and the national organization, includes help in presenting claims to the government for war-time injuries; material relief, which is often times needed while the claim is being settled; care of the families of men in hospitals, and many other types of service," Dr. Hyde said.

"The organization has a staff of workers who are thoroughly familiar with the benefits veterans may be allowed because of injury or illness incurred through military service," he continued. "These workers understand the government procedure essential in securing and presenting evidence proving the disability to be service connected, and they have liaison contacts with officials in numerous governmental agencies to assist veterans, through the local Red Cross chapter, in obtaining compensation for these conditions.

"While the veteran's claim is being considered by the Veterans' Administration, chapters often give emergency help to the man and his family," Dr. Hyde said. "In most cases assistance is needed only while the compensation claim is being decided."

"In addition to this claims service the Red Cross has a program for veterans in hospitals," he continued. "Volunteers in chapters plan recreation for all veterans hospital facilities near them. The Junior Red Cross sends gifts and greetings made in their art and other classes."

"In the service hospitals of the Army and Navy, Red Cross division of medical social service help physicians solve the patients' personal and family problems," Dr. Hyde said. "Many times they are able to obtain medical data from the family to aid in the diagnosis and treatment of disease."

"The famous Gray Lady Service in Army and Navy hospitals, embracing hostess and recreational work, has been given the highest possible endorsement by commanding officers and physicians who recognize this 'home touch' as an invaluable supplement to their own treatment of patients," Dr. Hyde states.

"In further fulfilling its charter obligations to men of the active military and naval forces, the Red Cross maintains field directors in practically all Army, Navy, Marine Corps and Coast Guard stations to give assistance to service men and their families when emergencies arise," Dr. Hyde added.

"War service, like public health, disaster, safety and other service the Red Cross performs, is maintained by the membership dues paid in during the annual Roll Call which will be held in the Beaufort Chapter from November 11 to Thanksgiving Day," he concludes.
