Largest Log Auditorium In U.S. Nears Completion

Well Worth A Trip To See Work Underway At Lenoxville

Much progress has been made during the past few days on the largest log auditorium building in the United States, which is rapidly taking shape at Beaufort Community Center on Lenoxville road two miles east of here. Already several hundred logs have been placed and the wall structures are practically completed. It is hard to realize the vastness of this unique structure and it is well worth a trip there by anyone to see for themselves, what is hard to describe in a news story, without illustrations.

But the log auditorium building to be constructed of logs is not the only unit of this WPA sponsored recreational center which will be for the use of all Carteret citizens and the State at large. Under the direction of Phillip Ball, a nine hole golf course, with the tee near the auditorium building, is being constructed, leading northward from the Lenoxville road. All fairways for the course have been cleared and grass seed and fertilizer has been acquired and will be placed on the course at an early date. There is a possibility that the course will be completed by autumn, providing an asset for not only the recreational minded citizens of Carteret, but also to the golf-minded visitors to this section of the coast.

Fishing And ALL OUTDOORS

By AYCOCK BROWN

WHEN SOUTHWESTERS start blowing, it is channel bass time along the North Carolina coast. Incidentally the prevailing wind along the Carolina coast during the summer months hails from the Southwest and it has been hailing from that direction like nobody's business these past few days. As a result, channel bass galore have been taken by anglers in the surf on Core Banks.

SOME GOOD CATCHES were reported last week, including the 42-pounder landed by Mrs. Rustin of Gastonia, north of Drum Inlet. Fishing down that way last Sunday was good too. One party which included Don Brigin of Ft. Myers, Fla., Tobe Clawson, Graham Duncan, Jr., Wade

MANY FAWN BAKE IN RECENT FIRES

It is hard to tell how many but large numbers of fawn have been baked alive in Carteret forest fires recently. Many quail too, have been destroyed. The parched carcass of a fawn was found by Game Warden Thomas today.

Speaks Here Sunday

Congressman G. A. Barden

Congressman Barden will make the principal address at the Memorial Day exercises to be held on the courthouse lawn, here Sunday, May 31, it was announced this week by Commander C. L. Beam of Carteret Post No. 99 of the American Legion which is sponsoring the annual observance. A huge throng turned out last year for the observance when A. H. Graham delivered the address and it is expected that an even larger crowd will be present to hear Congressman Barden—because he is not only one of the homefolks, but represents his homefolks in the U. S. House of Representatives.

St. Paul's School band will furnish music for the occasion and not only Legionaires but everyone is extended a most cordial invitation to attend the exercises. In the event of rain or unfavorable weather the exercises will be held in the Carteret county court room, Mr. Beam stated.

NANNIE GOAT IS MOTHERING CALF

John Chapman who lives about three miles in the country has a goat named Nannie and a young calf. They are very friendly, these two animals, so friendly that Nannie has practically adopted the calf, which she allows to suckle her udder, whenever the calf is hungry. The Beaufort News was told the story by John Johnson courthouse and court green custodian. We hope at an early date to have a photo of this strange companionship between goat and calf.

Legion Speaker

Josephus Daniels Jr.

"The Legion does not stand for political organizations. It shall be non-political and non-partisan. The American Legion does not tolerate politics, and the department of North Carolina is free from it and will fight to keep free from it," thus spoke Commander Josephus Daniels Jr., who made the principal address at the Legion Hut last Friday when nearly 100 members from Bayboro, New Bern, Newport, Morehead City and Beaufort gathered for a District meeting.

The meeting was presided over by Commander C. L. Beam, of Carteret Post 99. A delicious banquet featuring baked beans was served. A number of Legionaires present other than Commander Daniels, made brief speeches.

RECORDER'S COURT OFFERED VARIETY HERE THIS WEEK

Case Against Negro Which Involved Sabbath Slashing Continued Until Howard (Nig) Rhodes Recovers

Luke Mason Held On Number of Charges Will Be Tried At June Term of Superior Court

When Howard (Nig) Rhodes recovers from several knife wounds, is discharged from the hospital and can appear as the prosecuting witness, Herbert Bond, the alleged wielder of the knife will be tried in recorder's court on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. The case was on the docket Tuesday, but Nig was still in the hospital, and as a result it was continued. The Sabbath slashing took place in the colored section of Beaufort, but no one seems to know much about what was the cause—or if they know, they, (the colored citizens) are doing very little talking about the event.

Continued also was the case against Luke Mason, charged with public drunkenness, disorderly conduct, assaulting his aged mother and father—etc—This case will be tried in Superior Court in June before Judge Spears. The arrest of Mason on Front Street last Saturday afternoon caused quite a sensation according to all reports. He is said

The Harkers Island ferry has recently undergone repairs.

Covering The WATER FRONT

By AYCOCK BROWN

CAPT. GEORGE J. Henning, skipper of the Buccaneer of New Orleans which has been laying at the Texaco wharf all week believes in two years of work and two years of play. It is, according to the Buccaneer's skipper, a sure way to enjoy life and not grow old while still young. The Buccaneer is a dandy craft, plenty of room, a good engine and plenty of yardage in her sails. On the day that she signaled the coast guard to pilot her through Beaufort Inlet to the Texaco wharf, the engine was temporarily out of commission.

Political Round-Up

Most of the people standing on the square feet frontage of Front Street seem to be very McDonald minded. . . . And Tad Davis, his Carteret manager, who heard the speech the former resident of Illinois made in Memorial Auditorium, Raleigh, Tuesday night, said that he learned for the first time that McDonald was a graduate of old Trinity (now Duke) university. . . . That sort of localizes the fellow—at any rate. . . . Even M. Leslie Davis who seems to know such things as where prominent persons attended school, said he had never heard that McDonald was a Trinity man. . . . Captain James R. Morris, another important politician of Carteret county who is said to be all for—the Illinois Scotchman was also present at the fiesta in Raleigh Tuesday. . . . Speaking of Scotchmen—one would never think that both Graham and McDonald can trace their ancestry right on back to the immediate family—perhaps of Mary Queen of Scots—anyway the land she ruled. . . . One would not think that either candidate has Scotch blood in their systems—considering the way they are spending money to get the nomination. . . . A candidate can legally spend only a percentage of the salary an office carries, in getting

Near Scene of Good Fishing

The Lighthouse At Cape Lookout

More varieties of game fish are to be found almost within a stone's throw of this famous lighthouse, than any other area along the coast. Some of the species are: Cero, Spanish Mackerel, Bonita, Blues, and Hatteras Blues, Weakfish, Kingfish, Hardheads, Sheepshead, Sea Bass, Channel Bass, Amberjack, and a few miles to the eastward in the Gulf Stream, Dolphin, the fastest fish that swims. In the same vicinity of Cape Lookout Light is the U. S. Naval radio compass station, a coastguard station and the uncompleted government breakwater. No wonder Cape Lookout or Cape Lookout Light proves to be a mecca for visitors to the Carteret coastland. Cape Lookout Light 169 feet high, the tallest on the North Carolina coast, still in active use, now that Cape Hatteras has been abandoned. The first lighthouse at Cape Lookout was built in 1812—the present structure in the 1860s.
