

Fishing And ALL OUTDOORS
By AYCOCK BROWN

THE NATURAL FOODS of the Cero is menhaden, squid, shrimp and smaller fish. The artificial lures, besides strip bait is spoons, squids and plugs. Trolling is the favorite method of taking these fighting fish, and the angler can have more fun, if he uses medium weight tackle—that is a rod and with a six to nine ounce tip with a reel holding from 200 to 300 yards, with hooks from size 6-0 to 8-0 with plenty of leader is suitable.

THE CERO IS a migratory fish and ranges as far north as Cape Lookout. They are seldom taken north of Cape Lookout and after seven years observation down on Ocracoke and at Hatteras, I have yet to see an angler land a Cero. They are usually found along off-shore reefs and why they cannot be taken near the sloughs of Diamond as well as Lookout shoals has sort of had me guessing for a number of years. Maybe it is because no one has ever really fished for Cero off Cape Hatteras. The anglers there—if they go off to the shoals are more anxious to land amberjack or dolphin—both very game fighters.

THE LARGEST BLUEFISH on record is 27 pounds according to all data I can find on these savage little fighters. The 27-pounder (not authentic) was taken by Nelson P. Elmer of Massachusetts during September, 1903. An authentic record was a 25-pounder taken with rod and reel by L. Hathaway at Cohasset Narrows, Mass. June 16, 1874. One angler who has fished in many parts of the world told me once that bluefish weighed up to 45 pounds each had been taken off the west coast of Africa. And old timers who used to fish in smacks off Diamond Shoals a quarter of a century ago quite frequently took Blues which weighed up to 25 pounds I have been told. A fish, regardless of his size becomes just one of the big ones, unless it is weighed and measurements are taken of the catch. Then if your fish is a record, it becomes authentic.

ONE OF THE BEST food fishes along the Atlantic coast and one of the most interesting specimens to take trolling is the Spanish Mackerel. No one has ever capitalized on marketing this fish—like the New Englanders market their 'doen east' or Borton Mackerel. . . . That is no one had capitalized on marketing the fish by corning same until N. C. Fisheries started a few weeks ago. N. C. Fisheries have a booth on Atlantic Beach where they sell "Sea Snack" sandwiches. The snack is a small but very delicious piece of Spanish Mackerel, broiled.

THERE ARE NO authentic records on Spanish Mackerel. The largest size, according to L. S. Calin, author of "Game Fish and How to Catch Them" is 30-pounds. They are very numerous most of the time during the summer months off Beaufort Inlet, especially in the Cape Lookout area. They are also taken in large numbers by anglers off Ocracoke and Hatteras inlets. The average size mackerel taken is from one to three pounds.

Around The Ring

JIMMIE PRICE sun-bronzed, design-coater who is built up like one of those little brick houses you have probably heard about has challenged Micky Benson of Richmond for a money bout on Friday, July 17. And if Jimmie gets the proper training between now and then it will be one of the most interesting scraps presented so far this season by Addison Kayo Warren, promoter of boxing in The Casino by the Sea on Atlantic Beach.

AND HERE IS WHY: Jimmie stuck right in there with Micky last Friday night for the first two rounds. His only fault was what anybody's fault is who does much of their walking on the decks of a dredge. They get sea feet or something and can't get around quite as quickly as some of these pre-lim scrappers who train almost continuously. From a terpsichorean point of view Micky had Jimmie outclassed several ways. What Jimmie needs is to practice up on some of these modern dance steps. If Jimmie's foot work improves within the next 10 days—it will be an even money bout.

THE AUDIENCE WAS yelling for Jimmie Price. But in the last two rounds Micky Benson had the boy outclassed and near the finale somewhat groggy. Naturally the decision went to Benson and because of that, and because Jimmie wants to show local fight fans that he has what it takes—he was quick to challenge his opponent for a six-rounder on July 17. . . . Jimmie will also be in the semi-finals tomorrow night when he meets Roland Garner of Newport. Knowing nothing about the ability of Roland Garner, won't say a thing about that bout except, keep an eye on Jimmie's feet and see if he is getting that something which made Fred Astaire famous if he is—you won't be spending unwisely if you take in the show on July 17. It is gonna be a battle—a real battle.

RED LEWIS STILL proved that he was a slugger last Saturday when he knocked Hip Hoffman, Charlotte's tough Dutchman, for a kay-oh just one minute and 10 seconds after the gong sounded for the second round. A part of the double wind-up this scrap was expected to give fans more for their money than it did—but the Richmond slugger had Hip outclassed from the very beginning. Red Lewis is liable to go way up on the ladder in the fight game, judging from the bouts I have seen him in—and so is Joe Spangler.

JOE SPANGLER WAS given the decision over Little Boy Safrif after they had gone their eight rounds, despite the fact that more than one person said "it oughta be a draw." Safrif of Albemarle has fought 281 fights. Spangler, the mast youthful has fought only 42. But what a fighter. He knows a lot about foot work and plenty about moving his head so that it will always be just a fraction of an inch beyond the glove of his opponent. Joe goes to his corner and smiles. He never seems to get worn out and that, it appears to one who has seen very few fights, looks like the right way to be.

WALTER HEENAN, Richmond promoter has been bringing the fight ers down from that town to Atlantic Beach Casino. He has some good numbers on his list. Tony Amarosa, the 140-pounder put on a swell show for the audience, and Heenan will probably bring him down again. . . . It would be interesting to see Tony Amarosa meet a real hard fighter. He seemed to outclass Frank Johnson of Albemarle in every way on Friday and no wonder he knocked the fellow for the count. If there had been a prize offered for dancing during the evening Tony Amarosa would have been the winner.

HEADLINER TOMORROW night will be Sgt. Jimmie Lucas of Fort Bragg, 175 pound army scrapper who will meet Bill Brinnam, of North Dakota and Durham, weight 175. It will be a sort of army and navy affair, because Brinnam was one-time champion of the U. S. Naval fleet.

JOE PASTEUR, colored bootblack of Beaufort, weight 165 pounds will meet Joe Taylor, 165 pounder of Morehead City. Everyone in Beaufort knows Joe Pasteur and everyone in Morehead City knows Joe Taylor and the scrap should attract the attention of local fight fans. In a Battle Royal last Friday night Gordon Davis, colored, was winner of the five-spot after he had stayed on his feet longer than any of the other six.
