MARKED FIRST YEAR OF FISHERIES OPERATION

Nearly 100 persons present at a birthday dinner of N. C. Fisheries Inc., in Morehead City, Wednesday, ate fillets of fish taken from North Carolina waters last April, heard John John Sikes, president and general manager of the organization give an interesting resume of the organization's first year of operation, and were later shown the different departments and the process employed from the time the fish are received until they are ready for shipment from the plant. Invited guests included town and county civic groups, state and national officials and the independent dealers of Carteret county.

It marked the first anniversary of the co-operative organization made possible with public money with the thought in view of bettering the sea food industry and conditions generally along the North Carolina coast. Mayor H. S. Gibbs presided over the gathering and after introducing Rev. T. A. Sikes of Ayden, (father of John Sikes) who rendered an invocation, gave a brief synopsis of the part his town had played in making possible the establishment of the plant for Morehead City.

CROCODILE SLAIN

An 8-foot crocodile was killed by Archie Herdesty in his front yard at Mill Creek last night. The reptile was a half mile away from water at the time and was showing signs of attack when slain. It is the second of the species ever killed in Carteret, a resident here stated today. Alligators on the other hand are quite numerous in the swamps and fresh water rivers of this county. Blythe Noe local taxidermist will attempt to mount Herdesty's crocodile.

Yesterday afternoon near the graded school building a serious accident almost occurred when an autoist failed to observe the law and deliberately sped by a school bus which was taking on passengers. HUGH OVERSTREET ISSUES A REPORT

Attended District Meet of Farm Agents in New Bern A Few Days Ago

Information and suggestions for the use of cover crops were released in a story this week by Hugh Overstreet, farm agent, following a meeting of county agents in New Bern. Of great value to the coastal farmer, the

OVERSTREET

The Soil Conservation program is encouraging each farmer to improve the productiveness of his farm and improve living conditions on the farm. This program provides for payments to be made to farmers for certain soil building practices. With this idea in mind, the County Agents in the five counties around New Bern Onslow, Carteret, Jones, Pamlico and Craven, met with the District agent, Mr. E. W. Gathier and Mr. E. C. Blair, Field Crop Specialist, in the County Agent's office at New Bern today to plan a winter cover crop program for this section.

Yields of corn and cotton have been greatly increased by the use of winter legumes. Experiments show that a good growth of a winter legume will add from 300 to 500 of nitrogen per acre to the soil. The type of soil we have in this section will lose a lot of its fertility by leaching unless live roots are in the soil at all times. The leaching may be prevented during the winter by the use

Triplet Fund Increasing

June, Jean and Joan Garner, the triple daughters of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garner of Newport are getting along mighty well now in Potter Emergency Hospital here. They have gained almost one pound each since they were admitted to the hospital on Saturday night, September 19, at the age of two and a half days and hospitalization has saved their lives.

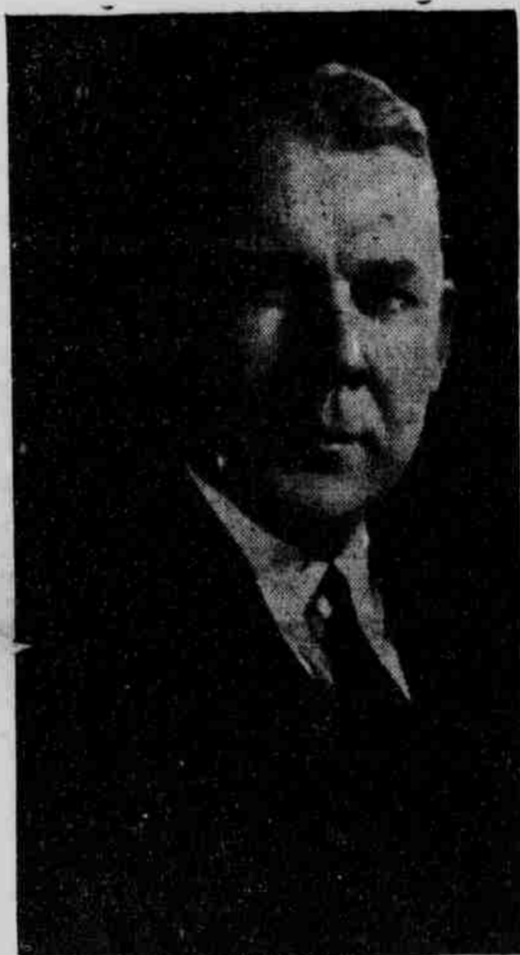

To help out with the expense of hospitalization, The Beaufort News sponsored a fund for which contributions are being accepted and turned over to hospital officials for the welfare of the tiny triplets. People in Beaufort, Carteret county have been very generous in their gifts for the little tots. At noon today a total of $79.50 had been contributed. Contributions received since last week's edition of this newspaper have been as follows:

Tom Hood, $3; Anonymous, $1.75; Hugh Lupton of Roe, Cedar Island, $1; Lina Bumpass Bible Class of the M. E. Church, $8; R. Dickinson, $1; Lizzie Chadwick Missionary Society, $7; Baptist W.M.U. $5 and County Commissioner Ed Fulcher $1. In the meantime other church groups are accepting gifts for the babies.

FORMER RESIDENT EXPRESSES VIEWS

Gift Of One Grand Is Subject Of His Letter to News

Criticism on the part of the now famous one thousand dollar gift by the board of county commissioners to the Regal Shirt Factory has attracted much attention in this state. The following letter was received this week from a former resident of the county now living in Raleigh:

In a recent issue of the Beaufort News, it seems that Mr. Hamilton, our worthy county attorney, has challenged one and all to show him and give him just reasons why the present County Board of Commissioners has no right to pass out the taxpayers money of Carteret County in the form of $1,000 gifts to whomsoever it may choose to do so for the purpose of speculating in the erection of a shirt plant in the town of Morehead City.

May I say in the beginning, that while I perhaps am not equal to the occasion of contesting the legality of such an action by the Board or entering into a verbal discussion of the matter with Mr. Hamilton, I think that if he will brush up a little his study of American History and

COLLEGE MATH IS WRITTEN BY HILL

Son of Mrs. Sarah Hill Completes Work After Two Years

Professor M. A. Hill Jr., native of Beaufort but now an instructor in the Math department of the University of North Carolina is the author of First Year College Mathematics, a textbook which has been published by Henry Holt and Company of New York and which is being used by many colleges throughout the United States.

He completed the book after a period of two years work. Divided into three parts the textbook covers everything a first year mathematician should know, including Algebra and Trigonometry, Analytic Geometry and Mathematics of Finance. Archibald Henderson, member of the University faculty, a world famous mathematician who proved Einstein's Theory was something or other, encouraged the former Beaufort resident to write the textbook.

Professor Hill graduated from the University in 1920 and since that time has been a member of the faculty there. He is the son of Mrs. Sarah Hill and brother of Mrs. Vera Stubbs, Hilton Hill, Gerald Hill and R. Hugh Hill, all residents of Beaufort.

Covering The WATER FRONT

By AYCOCK BROWN

JOHN SIKES EVENED an old score yesterday at the luncheon which marked the first anniversary of N. C. Fisheries Inc. He was telling about some of the incidents which occurred shortly after the organization was formed. "Aycock Brown in his newspaper wrote that John Sikes did not know the difference between a croaker and a hogfish," he said. "Well Aycock and myself have been good friends for the past nine or ten years and we were once on the staff of the Durham Herald at the same time. He was our cub reporter, and when he first came on the newspaper he did not know the difference between a noun and an adverb—but we both have learned things."

IN THIS COLUMN last December 12 I wrote the following paragraph: "Picked up a couple of Harkers Islanders the other day and they started talking about the N. C. Fisheries, Inc. Their opinion of the organization was not complimentary. "Those officials of the Fisheries do not know the difference between a hog fish and a speckled trout," declared (Continued on page eight)
