Many farmers and their wives are expected to take part in a farm and home tour starting Friday morning from the offices of the Home and Farm Agents in the Courthouse Annex here. And many farms and farm homes will be visited during the day.

The schedule which starts at 8:30 includes eight stops during the day. At 8:50 o'clock the group will arrive at Gordan Laughton's farm and witness a poultry demonstration.

C. T. Whitehead's farm will be the next stop (9:15) where a crop rotation and corn variety demonstration will be presented; A home made water system will be demonstrated at the home of Mr. and Mrs. M. R. Whitley at 10:30 o'clock.

Prior to the picnic luncheon at the Open Grounds a demonstration of corn, lespedeza and beef cattle will be presented.

What's the Answer?
 By EDWARD FINCH

YAWNING is an action caused by the nerves which connect with our lungs. When the air in our lungs is empty of the proper amount of oxygen required to maintain a healthy blood supply, the lungs immediately communicate that fact to these little nerves which in turn take the message to the brain. The brain transmits the emergency call to certain muscles which go to work and force one to open his mouth and take in a large supply of air with its clean, pure oxygen.

Suspension Order Final Wednesday

DEAN ISRAEL H. NOE

"Suspension of Rev. Israel Harding Noe, Beaufort born dean of St. Mary's cathedral at Memphis became final yesterday under a removal order issued by Bishop Maxon of the Tennessee diocese, according to a news release sent The Beaufort News by one of its news and photo services. Dean Noe "was ousted after he spent three months in a Baltimore hospital as the result of a 13-month fast "to prove the soul is above the needs of material life," the release stated. Dean Noe spent several weeks in Beaufort his home town, after leaving the Baltimore hospital, and in this county where he preached on many different occasions, thousands of persons heard him and praised his theological eloquence. Covering The Waterfront
 By AYCOCK BROWN

I READ IN the paper that Governor Hoey and family had gone to Maine or Minnesota or some other State on a vacation. I believe if I had been the newsmen in Raleigh covering his departure I would have tied in a business angle on the trip and not the vacation angle. Believe that would have been better advertising. Or maybe the $250,000 advertising program now under way is not sufficient to convince the Hoey's that North Carolina, and only North Carolina is vacation-land and that trips out of the state must always be classed as "business trips" under all conditions.

County Out Of Debt By 1977

Carteret County will be out of debt by 1977 under a plan agreed upon by the Board of County Commissioners and the Bondholders Committee. Incidentally, when this news became public, following a meeting of the Board of Commissioners on Wednesday forenoon it was revealed that the county will save about $1,700,000 on the settlement.

The Bonded indebtedness which was in excess of $5,000,000 will be settled for approximately $3,500,000. The Commissioners adopted a Resolution which will renew the Outstanding Bonds, now bearing 5 3/4 and 6 percent interest as follows: One percent for the first three years; 1 1/2 percent next 5 years; 2 percent next 10 years 2 1/2 percent next 7 years; 3 percent next five years; 3 1/2 percent next five years and 4 percent to maturity. Incidentally: "The interest saving on annual accruals may be calculated precisely and duly appreciated by any and all interested taxpayers," it was stated by an attorney who has helped solve the bonded debt problem for Carteret.

Cooper Introduces Cycling As Newest Atlantic Beach Fad

Alfred Cooper who established the Idle Hour Bowling Alley on Atlantic Beach has added a new attraction for patrons of the popular resort. He has introduced cycling as a beach attraction and his rental rates are so low that success is assured the venture. Cycling along the surf has been an important sport along other Southern beaches for years, but no one would take a chance on buying bicycles and trying the sport on Atlantic Beach until Cooper came along.

As a matter of fact no one had the nerve to start a bowling alley on the beach until Cooper came along and as a result of his venture he has the only establishment at the resort which operates the year around at a profit for its owner.

In addition to Bowling and Beach Cycling, Cooper's Idle Hour offers fountain and luncheonette service to its patrons and everything is offered at exceptionally reasonable prices for a salt water resort.

DR. PRYTHERCH WINS ACADEMY AWARD OF 1938

His Discovery Will Mean Much For Oyster Men

For solving an outstanding problem facing the oyster industry in Southeastern States, Dr. Herbert F. Prytherch director of the U. S. Fisheries Biological Station here, was awarded the North Carolina Academy of Science gold medal for 1938. It was given the local fisheries expert for his research and paper on the "Life-Cycle of a Sporozoan Parasite in the Oyster."

Announcement of the award was made by Dr. Hugo Leander Blomquist, secretary of the North Carolina Academy of Science and director of the School of Motany, of Duke University. During the current summer Dr. Blomquist is director of the division of marine botany at Duke's new Marine Laboratory here.

Through his scientific research, Dr. Prytherch, solved the mystery which has faced the oyster industry in a serious stage since 1930, involving losses in excess of a million dollars from heavy oyster mortalities, and occurring in five different coastal regions from Mobjack Bay, Va., to Lake Barre and vicinity, in Louisiana.

Dr. Prytherch discovered through experiments and microscopic studies that common mud crabs were devouring the sick oysters and transmitting large numbers of minute parasites from them to healthy stock in which they caused the paralysis of the shell muscle. In each region the death of oysters ranging from 50 to 95 per cent on natural and cultivated beds, has resulted from inability of the oysters to hold the shell closed during dredging, transplanting and shipping operations.

Fishing And All Outdoors
 By AYCOCK BROWN

DESPITE THE fact that fishing weather has not been so favorable during recent southwesterly angles who did go to sea finally returned with good catches of blues and mackerel. Fishing in the protected waters of the nearby sounds, channels and rivers have been very good. One of the popular places to fish this season is near the Morehead City drawbridge and those who have boats to rent over there have been doing a big business.

DR. JOHNSON came forward with the suggestion that Morehead City and Beaufort co-operate in efforts to have a public fishing pier built on Newport river. His complete letter outlining the details is elsewhere in this edition today and is well worth reading. Dr. Johnson has given birth to one of the best ideas advanced hereabouts for land-lubbing fishermen in a long time.

SAILBOATS TO RACE EACH DAY DURING EVENT

Three Big Days And Nights Of Gaiety On Program

A glamorous bathing beauty contest, sailboat races, rowing matches, dances and gaiety galore will be presented in Morehead City on August 10, 11, 12, during the first annual Coastal Festival, an event sponsored by the Junior Chamber of Commerce of that City.

Already 12 of the 15 cities and towns invited to send bathing beauties to the Coastal Festival have indicated they would do so and that they had already made their pick of the beauty to represent their town. During an excellent preliminary beauty show on Atlantic Beach last Friday night three out of town judges picked from 10 contestants, Miss Grace Clare Taylor to be the Queen of the Festival and Miss Cora Joslyn as her companion. Earlier in the week The Chamber of Commerce of Beaufort selected Miss Lucille Thomas to represent Beaufort and bear the title "Miss Beaufort" in the festival.

But the beauty show, to be presented in the form of a water carnival with the queens of the various towns and cities aboard a gorgeously decorated barge towed along the waterfront will not be the only attraction. Each day during the Festival there will be sailboat races.

John Lashley committeeman in charge of the races urges all persons who will participate in the elimination races to register at once with him. His address in Puro Terminal Service Station on Arendell Street, Morehead City.

There will be four classes in the sailboat races and silver trophy cups will be awarded the winners. The types of boats to participate include snipes, comets and deadrise skiffs. First races will start Wednesday morning at 10 o'clock. Plans are underway, said Mr. Lashley to present a series of speedboat races also with cash prizes going to the winners. It was later announced that the speed boat races also with cash prizes going to the winners. It was announced later that the speed boat races may not be presented until Saturday, August 13.

Registration Books for entrants in the races will close on Tuesday, August 9, it was stated. Mr. Lashley and the committee in charge of the races is especially anxious to get a large number of entrants in the race from sailboat owners in East Carteret where the residents learn the art of sailing while very young and are expert at the art.

It is planned to present the various events in Morehead City, along the waterfront, at Hotel Ed-
