Scarboro-Safrit May Have To Close Down Soon

Because weather conditions are such during the winter time that it is not practical to build mixed-in-place asphalt roads, (or complete them) might result in Scarboro-Safrit Company, which is has one of the most substantial pay-rolls in the county closing down due to lack of logs. Every effort is being made by the Chamber of Commerce and citizens of the county affected, to provide some way for a continuation of traffic over the partially paved Route 101 extending for five miles between the Steel Bridge and Harlowe.

Early this week residents of the section came to Beaufort and reported that driving heavy trucks over the partially completed road would be forbidden. It so happens that trucking over the route affects a large number of people. Many log trucks and produce trucks use the route. D. W. Morton who discussed the matter with several of the citizens of the area asked the Chamber of Commerce secretary to take the matter up with Roy J. Hart and other high-

Covering The Waterfront

By AYCOCK BROWN

P. K. WHIPPLE, editor of Sports Afield, America's oldest monthly outdoor magazine wrote me this week that a story I had submitted on goggle fishing at Beaufort and Cape Lookout is now standing in type and is scheduled to appear in the February issue which goes on sale at news stands January 15. It is the second story I have sold to magazines this year. Next year if I can get the ambition, I hope to sell one a month. Sporting magazines do not pay very heavy for articles, so if I should sell one story a month to magazines of that type I would not be getting rich or resigning from this weekly newspaper job.

LAST NIGHT FROM Stanley Wahab in Baltimore came a gorgeous colored poster telling of proposed events which will take place at his Wahab Village on Ocracoke Island during the Christmas season. Stanley puts on celebrations in a big way and I have absolutely had better times on Ocracoke at Christmas time than anywhere else I have ever been during the holidays. Included in the events

What's the Answer?

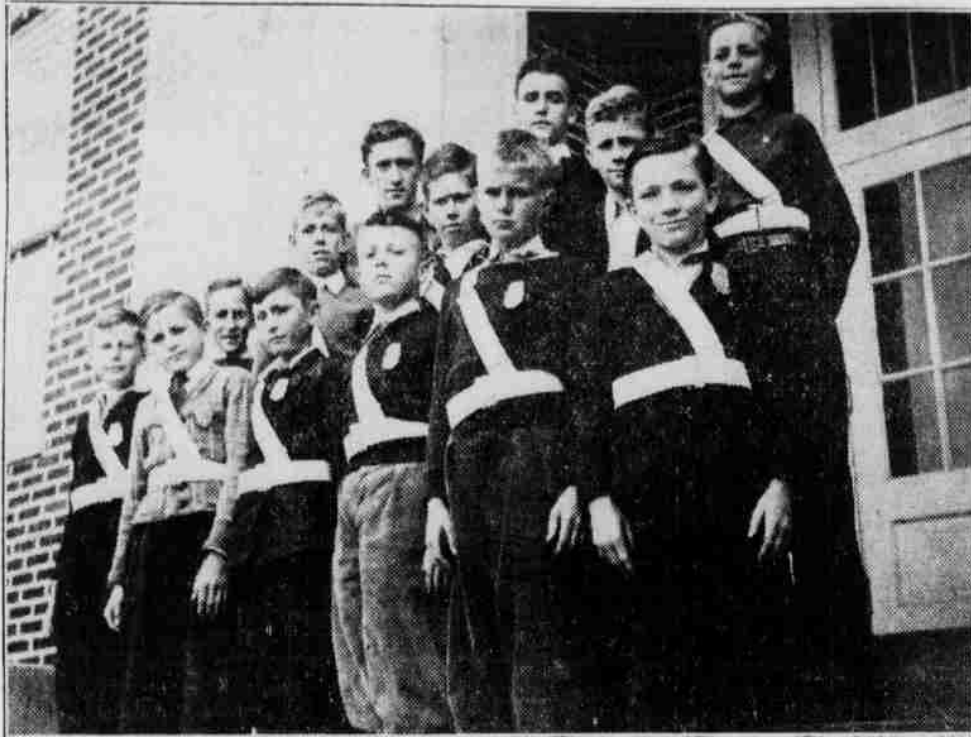

By EDWARD FINCH

BECAUSE in old-time Germany, newly married couples always drank during the first month or "moon" after marriage, a wine which was made from honey and during this month they would keep apart from other people, making it a time of adjustments. Soon the idea of a voyage away from all things familiar took the public fancy and that voyage acquired the name "honeymoon" which it carries to this day long after the custom which originated it is forgotten.

Tried in Recorder's Court on Tuesday, Courtney was found not-guilty but Jennie got a four months jail sentence. The day following the raid the officers returned to the site of the speakeasy and arrested Mathon Jones, who was given a four months road sentence following trial in Recorder's Court. Mayor George W. Huntley makes no bones of it. He has declared war on local drunkards. In Municipal Court on Monday afternoon when 20 cases, each involving liquor drinking and liquor selling, appeared on the largest docket in months, he made the statement that the liquor drinking situation in Beaufort had to be curbed and warned each defendant that if they appeared in his court again that heavier fines would be imposed each time they appeared.

Funeral Rites Were Held At St. Paul's Church Sunday

ONE-TIME SOCIAL EDITOR OF NEWS

Funeral services for Miss Martha Chaplain Carrow, 42 were conducted at St. Paul's Church last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock with the Rev. E. C. McConnell, rector, officiating, assisted by Rev. Louis D. Hayman, pastor of the Methodist Church here. She died early Friday morning following a lingering illness of several months. Her death was not unexpected as her condition had been critical for several days prior to her passing.

She was the daughter of the late Nathan and Mary Cramer Carrow of Beaufort. She is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Sam H. Thomas, with whom she lived at the family home at the corner of Ann and Turner streets and Mrs. W. A. Mace of Beaufort, one half-sister, Mrs. C. D. Jones Sr., of Beaufort and three half brothers, Capt. Chas. Carrow of Beaufort and Tom and Claud Carrow of Philadelphia, also survive.

Until she was stricken with her fatal illness about six months ago, Miss Carrow was social editor and bookkeeper at The Beaufort News. Prior to becoming associated with The Beaufort News she had been employed in the office of the late Watar Power Company in Morehead City.

Miss Carrow was active in church and civic work. She taught a Sunday School class at St. Paul's Church and was secretary of the County Council on Recreation since its organization.

The esteem in which Miss Carrow was held in this community was shown by the large attendance at the funeral and burial rites and by the profuse floral tributes sent by her friends. Burial rites were conducted in St. Paul's cemetery.

Active pall bearers were: Paul, Christopher and John Jones, Eugene Carrow, C. Z. Chappell, Aycock Brown and William Hatsell.

CHRISTMAS SHOPPING NOTES

—By— AYCOCK (Shopper) BROWN

AFTER SEEING HOW one of the early sentences in this column read last week and getting accused of being tight when I wrote same I was almost on the verge of cutting this department out this week. It is one of those things which happen in newspaper make-up departments during last minute rushes. A corrected slug is inserted in the wrong place. Another name for such a situation is "typographical error." But after visiting the various stores this week I decided that I could not stop something which I know has a following. If you want to find out whether your stuff is being read—make an error in what you have written, plenty of people will tell you about it in a hurry.

C. D. JONES is featuring one of the best possible Christmas gifts this week. I refer to the hams which are so attractively wrapped in seasonal paper. That is a gift that would be ideal for some family. And the hams which C. D. JONES offers his customers are the very best. The reason I know is because I buy hams there myself. And if someone wants to get close to my heart this year— one of those Christmas wrapped hams would turn the trick.

BEN JONES WHO had the foresight to advertise frequently and early has seen some marvelous results. They were such excellent

Dr. Lewis Re-Elected Chamber of Commerce President For 1939

Re-Elected Head Of Beaufort C. of C.

DR. CLIFFORD W. LEWIS was not only unanimously re-elected president of the Chamber of Commerce at the annual membership meeting last Thursday night, but his associates in the organization presented him with a beautiful silver loving cup for the distinguished service he has rendered the community during the past year.

Barden and Gillette Were Guests Of Honor

Re-election of Dr. C. W. Lewis as president of the Chamber of Commerce, election of other officers of the organization, and impromptu talks by Congressman Graham A. Barden and Major George Gillette, U. S. District Army Engineer, reports of the secretary and treasurer and a round table discussion of various projects needed for this area marked the highlights of the annual membership banquet in the American Legion Hut last Thursday night.

A delicious turkey banquet, featuring fresh strawberries frozen last Spring at George Huttaff's Cromwell Farms at Wilmington, was enjoyed by the guests present. The banquet was prepared by and under the supervision of Mrs. Martha Loftin, treasurer of the Chamber of Commerce. During the meeting Mrs. Loftin read her annual report. Aycock Brown, secretary of the organization also gave a brief report of activities during the year.

Fishing And All Outdoors

By AYCOCK BROWN

DAVID AND THURSTON Gas-kill of Ocracoke who week-ended in Beaufort said that there were more geese in Pamlico Sound this year than in many, many years. Quite a number of sportsmen have gone to the area goose shooting. And the geese that have been killed have all been in splendid condition for eating, they reported. Quite often in recent years geese that have been killed tasted so marshy that they were unfit to eat. But such is not the case this year.

REPRESENTATIVE Barden, Major Gillette and party hunted at Davis last week-end with Minor Davis and killed ducks. They did not get their bag limit, because the weather was not so good for duck shooting but they killed some game nevertheless. Which reminds me: Ammie Willis who has been taking out a party from West Virginia for the past several days remembered and sent up a brace of ducks which
