ROTARY REGATTA HERE ON SUNDAY

Dean Noe Gives Version On War

Rev. Israel H. Noe, whose theological wisdom and philosophy in general has gained the attention and respect of many thousands of persons was asked by The Beaufort News this week to give his version of the possibilities for a general World War at this time. Dean Noe said:

I doubt very seriously if there will be any major conflict, and that the world's current war problems will be settled by compromise. If conflict does come, it will be for the immediate gain of territorial rights and expansion. Ultimately, from the standpoint of the Divine plans, the nations of Europe are being used for the solidification of the West for the ultimate onslaught from the East. Eventually all nations of the West (including Germany) will be working together as a unit, except Russia."

Added Attraction To Be Drum And Bugle Corps

DUNCAN EXPECTS 15 SAILBOATS IN RACE

From every indication the Beaufort Rotary Club sponsored sailboat races here on Sunday will be a successful event. To add excitement to the occasion and to give people something different at a race, the Goldsboro Drum and Bugle Corps under the direction of Bob Moore will be present to present frequent drills and musical entertainment.

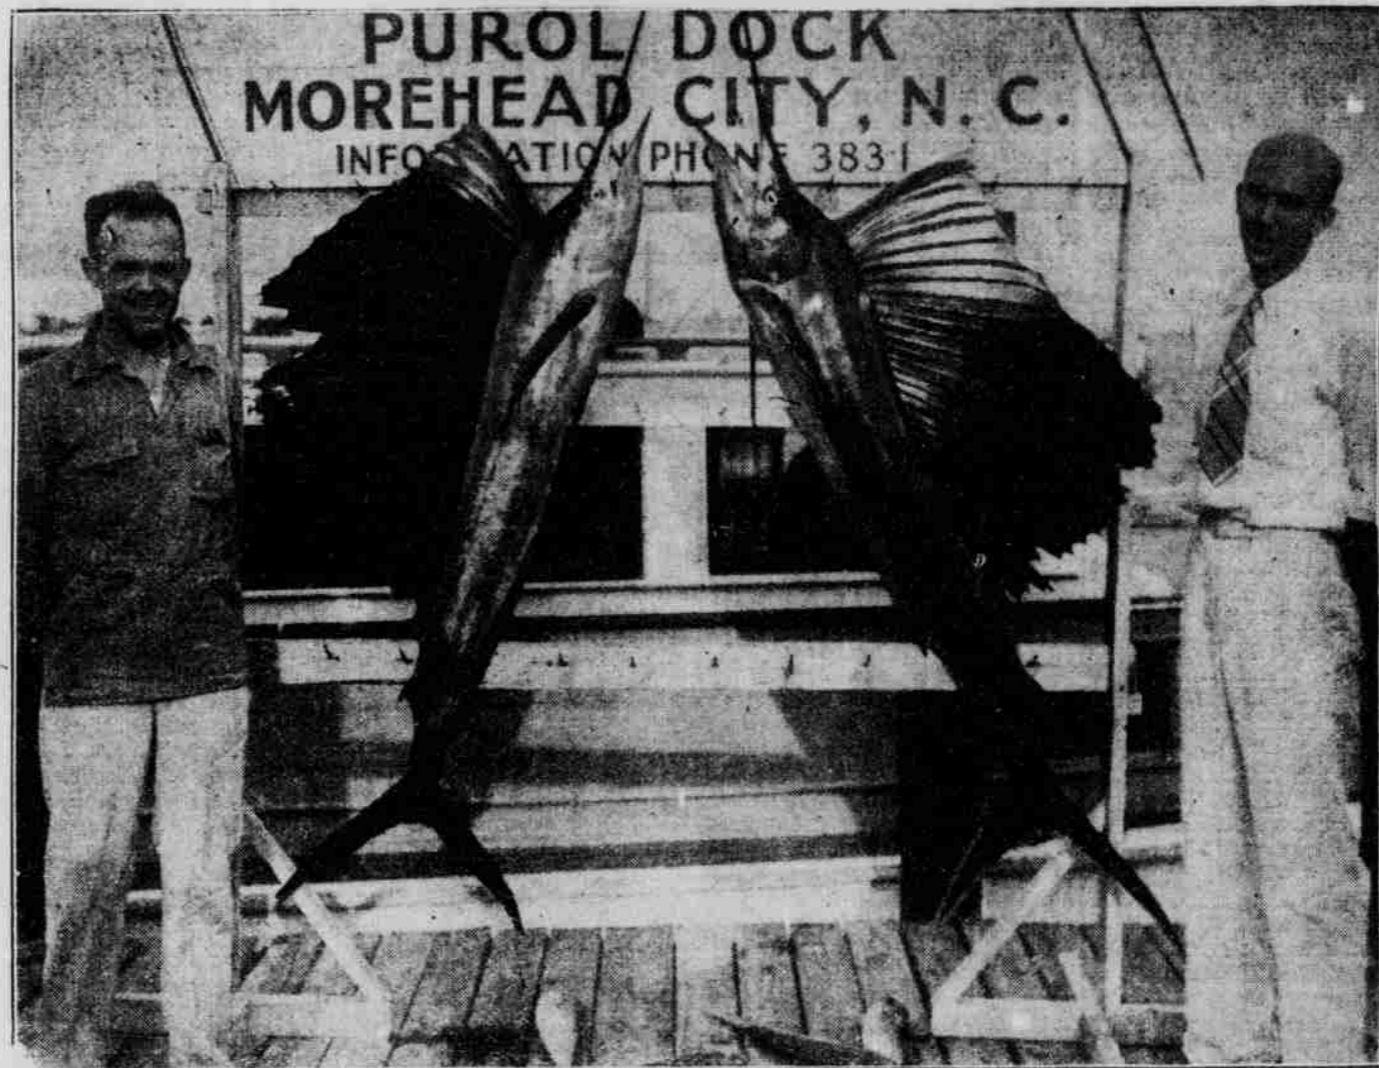

The races will begin in front of Inlet Inn dock. Courses for the race will not be announced until Sunday afternoon just before the races begin as it will be necessary to have courses with favorable winds and no one today knows which way the wind will be blowing on Sunday.

Graham W. Duncan, chairman of the Rotary Committee in charge of the races stated today that there would be two or three classes entered, with the most picturesque being the comets or star boats. Dead rise sailing skiffs and other classes will also be entered. On the committee with Duncan are Grayden M. Paul and Edgar Swann.

Persons expecting to enter boats should contact a member of the committee immediately, and register their vessels. A registration fee of $1.00 will be charged. (Continued on Page 8)

SOME CATCH!

Such pictures as the one below by Roy Eubanks Beaufort photographer, and such catches as that shown in the photograph have done much this year to push North Carolina Salt water fishing to the forefront. The catch represents two sailfish taken by Dr. Leslie Lee and Dr. Branch Moore, of Kinston recently when they fished with Capt. Darcy Willis aboard his cruiser "Joy" of Morehead City. Fifteen sailfish have been taken off Cape Lookout this year to date.—(Eubanks Photo in Washington Herald Times, through whose courtesy cut is used.)

FISHERIES IS CLOSED

Plan Being Worked Out For Clam Processing

Fishermen And Dealers To Benefit From Plans For New Operation

N. C. Fisheries Inc., has closed temporarily while plans developed and being worked out by Dr. Herbert F. Prytherch, president, and Stanley Woodland, general manager, for processing clams on a large scale is underway. The action for closing the plant was made at the annual meeting of the members of the Fisheries Corporation held at the Morehead City plant.

Dr. Prytherch, stated that the plant expected to be closed only temporarily while the clam processing plans, which have been worked out by General Manager Woodland are perfected and put into operation. He indicated that the plant would open again during the Autumn fishing season, and be operated on an entirely different method than in the past.

It is planned by the corporation to use N. C. Fisheries as a price stabilizer for seafood products. In other words, as Dr. Prytherch puts it, the Fisheries plant in the future, if present plans carry will operate directly for the benefit of local fishermen and dealers.

Finds School Here In A Run Down Condition.

Thomas G. Leary, new principal of Beaufort Public Schools arrived in Beaufort several days ago and is at present making preparations to open the local institution for the Autumn session on September 14. Mr. and Mrs. Leary are making their home in the Huntley Apartments on East Front Street.

In a preliminary checkup on the local conditions at the Beaufort School the new principal found a situation far from favorable. The truth of the matter is that Beaufort Public School is in a very run down condition. Whether this is the fault of previous principals, previous school boards, or the office of the county superintendent or each of the agencies mentioned, The Beaufort News will not attempt to say at this time—but the fact of the matter is that the Beaufort School is in a bad fix. Principal Leary tells his school board that he will make every effort to (Continued on Page 8)

John Laws Learns About Thomas Laws Of Texas H. Patrol

A few months ago when John Laws of the State Highway Patrol was making such a good record as a marksman, his photo was made by Aycock Brown and released to several picture syndicates. A few weeks ago one of those pictures appeared in a Texas newspaper and was seen by one Thomas Laws of the Lone Star State Highway patrol.

The result was that Tom Laws wrote John Laws to try and determine if there was any family connections. It was a sort of coincidence that two men by the names of Laws should be on State Highway Patrols in two different States. Insofar as John Laws, native of Hillsboro, but stationed now in Morehead City knows—there is no family connection. Tom Laws is stationed in Lubbeck, Texas.

Fishing And All Outdoors By AYCOCK BROWN

MORE PUBLICITY has been given the salt water fishing on the North Carolina coast this year than ever before. Seldom a day passes, but what such outdoor writers as Donald Stillman, N. Y. Herald Tribune; Fred Fletcher, N. Y. Daily News; Raymond Camp, N. Y. Times; Bob Wilson, Washington Herald Times; Norman Chambliss, Baltimore Sun; Hammond Brown, Baltimore News Post and others do not mention the fishing along the coast and it has resulted in more out of state anglers coming to our sections to fish during the summer of 1939 than in any or possibly all previous years.

MAJORITY OF credit for this out of state publicity goes to Bill Sharpe and his stable of ace writers and photographers. Bill is head of the News Bureau of the Department of Conservation and Development—as if he had to be identified. Bill Sharpe is as well known in fishing centers along the North Carolina coast today as anyone else and he is continually coming down to make new contacts, and start new stories rolling. He has a fine bunch of fellows in evidence. (Continued on page 8)

Brown's Quotation In Readers Digest

A quotation from a story on goggle fishing by Aycock Brown which was written last winter on assignment and later appearing in Sports Afield appeared in the current edition of Readers Digest. A condensed story from the same article appeared in a recent edition of the digest size magazine "Youth Today". It does not prove that Brown is such a whale of a writer, but it does prove that his idea of using goggle fishing as a publicity medium went across in a big way and attained much national publicity for Beaufort—his home town.

WHAT DO WE need most of all along the Carolina Coast from Currituck to Carteret. The simple quality of faith. Not faith in our neighbors, or in folks outside, or that prosperity will come, or that something will happen. Not the kind of faith that makes us to sit down and wait for somebody to do things, or that help will come from others. We won't get there by simply sitting and moping; or sitting and hoping.

PROSPERITY isn't something that just happens. Like the big news of the world, it is something that is often made. Labor makes progress and progress makes prosperity, and prosperity means profits. There is only one kind of faith that is essential. That is faith in ourselves.
