Covering The Waterfront

By AYCOCK BROWN

LAST SUNDAY I made an interesting cruise through Club Foot Canal with George Ball. The idea for the cruise made in George's new speed boat was to get pictures showing the clogged up condition of this waterway which provides a short route saving fishermen going to Neuse River from Morehead City about four hours. This canal in the old days was really an important waterway—just as it is (Continued on Page 8)

Hatteras Lighthouse Saved From Advancing Seas—CCC Built Sand Fences Is What Did The Trick

THESE TWO photographs are the best ever made of Cape Hatteras Light House and the sand fences which have saved it from the encroachment of the ocean. The waters in the background are those of Hatteras Bight and Diamond Shoals, near the spot where the first channel bass of the season were taken last Sunday. Cape Hatteras Light is also the main attraction of the National Seashore which Representative Lindsey Warren secured and which eventually may extend southward along the Banks to Cape Lookout.—(Photo used through courtesy Charlotte Observer.)

Farmers Should Execute Plans Now

There are approximately 5 per cent of farmers in Carteret County who have not yet executed their farm plan for the year 1940. The closing date for executing these plans is April 15th, and there will be no Soil Conservation Payment for those farms for which this plan is not executed before the closing date. The purpose of these farm plans for 1940 is to assist each operator in the county in planning his operations to be carried out on his farm so that he might earn the maximum payment available for the farm.

Stopping overnight in Wilmington, the party cruised northward from Wrightsville Beach yesterday aboard the survey boat Neuse and were given an opportunity to (Continued on Page 8)

Dr. W. C. Jackson, head of Woman's College of the University of North Carolina, has accepted an invitation to make the Commencement Address to Beaufort High School seniors on Friday night, May 10, it was announced this week by Principal Thomas G. Leary.

Dr. Jackson is one of the outstanding educators of the South. He is a brilliant speaker. He heads one of the largest colleges for women in the United States. In addition to all of that he is a regular fellow. His favorite sport is fishing and he has wet his line in Coastal Carteret waters many times in the past.

In addition to the fact that Beaufort High School is very fortunate to have Dr. Jackson deliver the commencement address, the Town of Beaufort is also proud of the fact that he is coming. Farm Agent Plans Series Of Meetings In Each Community To Get Cooperative Members

Barden And NCREA Officials Are Helping

Final plans for carrying electric lights and electric energy into every rural precinct and section of Carteret County was made at a meeting in Farm Agent J. Y. Lassiter's office here last Saturday and a series of meetings in each community proposed to be served will be held during the coming week to explain to citizens how they can without any obligations on their part, have electricity.

The meeting Saturday brought NCREA Engineer J. M. Grainger to the coast to outline final procedure for getting members for the electric cooperative. His appearance here was the result of groundwork laid by the Chamber of Commerce of Beaufort in cooperation with Congressman Graham A. Barden and Dudley Bagley, chairman of the NCREA.

Present at the meeting on Saturday besides Mr. Grainger were Mr. Lassiter, Miss Clark, Home Agent; Mayor G. W. Huntley, Aycock Brown, Earl Davis, of Harkers Island Cooperative; Rev. W. Y. Stewart, Capt. John Nelson, Carl G. Gaskill, Bennie Copeland and George Ball. They were explained the method of procedure and told the gigantic project could be made a part of the Harkers Island Cooperative.

Plans now underway would include every community in Carteret to share in the project. The communities not served now include Straits-Otway; Cedar Island, Lenoxville, Russell Creek, Core Creek. (Continued on Page 8)

Miss Thomas And A Rare Crustacean

EVEH HEARD OF Scyllarus Americanus? Neither had we until Capt. Herman Roebeg, master of the trawler "Sea Queen", brought one into port a few weeks ago which his trawl net had captured on the ocean's floor off Lookout Shoals near the Gulf Stream. Some of the folks around the waterfront thought it was a lobster without claws—but Dr. Prytherch at the Fisheries Lab identified it as a crustacean which is so rare that it does not even have a common name. So we will call it a Tarheel Lobster, while the science book calls it Scyllarus Americanus. Miss Elizabeth Thomas is the young lady holding the rare form of sea life.—Photo by Brown.

Another Comment About Cemetery

John B. Abbott of Concord, N. H., who was a visitor in Beaufort today with his grandson J. B. Long of Kinston, said that this town was passing up one of its best bets by not capitalizing on the ancient Ann Street Church cemetery. He said that if the burial place was in New England or New Orleans or Charleston that someone would be making a fortune of it—and incidentally keeping it in a cleaner condition than at present. In Beaufort they called on the B. A. Bell's at their jewelry firm.

Fishing And All Outdoors

By AYCOCK BROWN

TO R. LEE Butner, of Tobacco-ville, N. C., goes the distinction of catching the first channel bass of the season on the Carteret Coast this year. Fishing with Capt. Ira S. Morris, of Atlantic, at his beach cabin near Drum Inlet on Monday with weather conditions unfavorable, the fish—weight not given—was landed from the surf.

DRUM INLET however, does not get first place in the "first of the season" report. Last Sunday at Hatteras Inlet a party of three headed by Dr. A. R. Barclay and Lieutenant Etheridge of the Coast (Continued on page 8)
