Many Artists Arrive In Beaufort— AS SEASIDE ART COLONY OPENS

WITH THE OPENING of the W. C. U. N. C., Art Colony here early this week many art students arrived in Beaufort. While most of the students in the colony are taking the course in painting outdoors which is under the direction of Gregory Ivy, there are other artists too, who are not taking the course visiting this historical and picturesque seaside town. The above photo was made on Pivers Island in 1938 when the students of art came to Beaufort for the first time. The photo by Bill Sharpe, then head of the State News Bureau shows Miss Lucille Thomas in an artistic setting. (Bill Sharpe Photo)

REA Project For Rural Carteret Is Step Nearer

Covering The Waterfront
By AYCOCK BROWN

OLD-TIMERS along North Carolina's coast are saying the Coast Guard is "coming back". On the outer banks, where Coast Guarding has ranked with fishing as a foremost and honorable profession, there is ill-concealed excitement. Already, many stations are crowded with new recruits for training, and there is talk of opening up some abandoned stations. Youngsters sit around and listen once more to tales of the exploits of the famous surfmen of this vigorous coast, and once again their eyes gleam with the hope of getting in to the service.

A YEAR OR TWO ago, the Bankers were melancholy about the new times. Stations were being abandoned, enlistments were not being made to fill expired services; patrols and lookouts were being curtailed or eliminated. The surfman, hero of the banks, seemed doomed to disappear in favor of the natty inlet boatman, or men who put out to sea in great deep-sea cutters. Nowadays, it was said, the menace of the coast was disappearing before the powerful naval radio direction stations and other navigation miracles.

THE WAR HAS changed all of that, and the Outer Bankers are wagging their heads sagely. Once

Potatoes

Approximately 90 per cent of Carteret's Irish potatoes have been harvested, it was stated today by Farm Agent John Lassiter. In Carteret County this year approximately 1,500 acres were devoted to growing potatoes, which have brought prices ranging from 90 cents to $1.90 per hundred since the first were dug about two weeks ago. The yield this year is about 25 per cent off, and although the price started at a high peak, the average for the season has been $1.35 per 100 pound bag, according to estimates of the farm official. Up until this morning 105 solid railway car loads had moved from the Beaufort area, which represented only a small part of the total movement as the bulk were shipped via motor truck. Although accurate figures could not be obtained as we go to press it is estimated that between $200,000 and $250,000 was total value of all potatoes shipped from county.

WCUNC UNITS OPEN SEASIDE CLASSES HERE

Modern Dance And Art Students In Group

Seaside units of Womans College, University of North Carolina, returning to Beaufort for summer session this week brought a total of more than 30 students for registration in the Art Colony under the direction of Gregory Ivy and the School of Modern Dance under the direction of Miss Jean Brownlee and Miss Henrietta Thompson.

Classes for the School of Dance are being conducted daily in the main auditorium of Community Center. Preliminary classes for the School of Art are also being conducted at Community Center, in the Southwest Room. Most of the work of the artists will be out of doors, the Community Center Class Room being used only for rainy day sessions and lecture and criticism periods.

Dr. A. E. Shaftesbury, head of another W. C. U. N. C. unit, the Carolina Marine Laboratory, announced at the last minute that the unit which he had been bringing to the coast at Beaufort each year, would not come this season, but that he would be here to carry on research in marine biology field at the Lab, before summer has passed.

The following students had reg-

Clerk Hassell invited as a special guest did not take the cruise as the grand jury had not made their final report and he remained in his office to receive the report and discharge them, on orders of Judge Frizzelle.

Tomatoes

Harvesting of more than 800 acres of tomatoes in Carteret will get underway next week, and unless much needed rain comes within the next few days, the crop will be materially damaged, according to growers and packers here. Wayland Sermons plans to open the Beaufort Auction Market early in the week and several buyers are expected to be present. M. Trombetta & Son, Inc., operating a packing shed in the old Corbett Packing Company building and S. M. Jones Company with packing sheds on Lenoxville Road near Atlantic Highway are advertising this week that they will purchase tomatoes at current market prices. Several other packing houses are expected to be in operation here as the harvest advanced. A few tomatoes were harvested by John Gunn from his farm this week. Tomato packing season provides employment for several hundred people along the coast.

PIRATES LOSE SUNDAY GAME

Firemen Slaughter Visitors With 12-3 Score

Beaufort base ball fans were treated to one of the finest exhibitions of base ball that has been witnessed in several years and established the Beaufort Fire Department not only as Demon Fire Fighters but demons on the ball diamond by drubbing the hitherto and outstanding Wilmington Pirates to the tune of 12-3.

Brooks tossing them over for the local had thrilled the crowd with the sensational manner in which he pitched himself out of two holes into which he slipped due to slightly erratic fielding on the

Bigger And Better Bowling Alley To Replace Idle-Hour

While Sheriff C. G. Holland has given the assurance that his office will conduct a complete investigation to determine if the blaze was or incendiary origin, Al Cooper, owner, stated today that the $30,000 loss sustained when the Idle Hour Bowling Alley on Atlantic Beach, would be replaced immediately with a bigger and better building.

The fire, discovered about 2:30 o'clock Wednesday morning, was fanned by southwest breeze and soon the building was completely destroyed. General alarms were sounded and fire fighting equipment from Beaufort and Morehead City arrived on scene and stood by to protect nearby residences, which would have been greatly endangered had the wind been blowing from another direction.

Cooper, owner of the popular recreation center, stated that his tentative plans for a new building would include 15 alleys instead of 10, and that 24-hour shifts would be carried on by workmen rebuilding the structure. "Our deadline for completing the building is July 1," said Cooper. The original Idle-Hour building was destroyed by a fire only a few months ago.

Surf Casting Along Carolina Coast— SPORT ATtracts WOMEN ANGLERS

SURF CASTING along the North Carolina coast which once attracted only fishermen, today attracts a large number of fishermen. Such scenes as the one above made on the Southeast coast of the State are not uncommon, and especially during the month of June when bathing suits are suitable for surf casting togery and when the big channel bass and blues are running in schools along the beaches. The above photo was posed by Miss Katherine Meir of Wilmington-Wrightsville. It has been widely published as publicity picture by the State News Bureau of the Department of Conservation and Development. (Bill Sharpe Photo)

Legion Post Seeking Naval U. S. Air Base For Carteret County

Pass Resolution To Curb 5th Column Activities

Carteret Post 99 of the American Legion here met on Friday night and upon suggestion from their State Commander, June Rose, adopted resolutions approving action of President Roosevelt to curb any "Fifth Column" activities which might be starting or in the embryonic stage on the Carteret Coast. The Legionnaires of the local post also prepared resolutions which will be submitted to the Board of County Commissioners for further action, seeking the establishment of a U. S. Naval Air Base somewhere in Carteret County. In the "Fifth Column" resolution which also will be presented to the County Board it was requested that Carteret make provisions immediately for fingerprinting all aliens.

Copies of the Resolutions, both as to "Fifth Column" activities and the establishment of a Naval Air Base were forwarded the North Carolina Congressional Delegation in Washington.

Although no favorable action towards establishing an air base in Carteret County has been taken since the World War Navy air base was in commission at Camp Glenn and the birthplace of Coast Guard aviation at the same site after the War, the people of the coast or many of them have felt confident that such a base should be established in this strategic location. The Navy got along fine with its air base at Camp Glenn, and the Coast Guard got off to its flying

Warrants Issued For Blockaders Of Stella Woods

Sheriff C. G. Holland, Deputy Murray Thomas and Emmet Chaplain and Officers George Nelson and Alex Norris swooped down on a liquor still going at full blast in Stella Woods a few days ago and while no one was captured, the officers recognized one Robert Williams, a white man and upon information obtained in that section have issued warrant for him and his brother Bert Williams. Unless they have fled the county the alleged blockaders will probably be nabbed this week-end.

The still was of 50 gallons capacity and made of copper. Three gallons of raw liquor was captured and a tiny stream was trickling into a container from the still when the officers arrived. "Asked what in his opinion was the quality of the liquor that was being made, Sheriff Holland stated that it was probably very poor as the source of water supply for the boiler came from a ditch.

Fishing And All Outdoors By AYCOCK BROWN

FROM RSVP: "Dear Aycock: You put out a good paper. There is no question about that. Keep the good work up. But, when you say alligators are as numerous in the swamps of Carteret as they are in Florida, I think you are all wet." So that's that. Probably they are not, but nevertheless there are plenty of alligators in the swamps and fresh water streams of Eastern North Carolina. GEHRMANN HOLLAND, my friend the Sheriff, also told me that I was wrong when I said that Boston Mackerel and the Bonito which have been caught in surrounding salt waters recently, were the same. Although three reference books I have checked fails to do anything but verify what I wrote about "Boston Mackerel" being a synonym of "Bonito" being wrong. I wanted to check with Dr. Prytherch who is from my way of looking at it, tops in the ichthyology field, but he is out of town this week. Gehrmann declares that Boston Mackerel are valuable as a food fish, that they are identified under that name in the markets, and that Bonito have very coarse flesh and bring very little as food fish. I believe Gehrmann knows what he is talking about but someone ought to make

TIDE TABLE

Information as to the tide at Beaufort is given in this column. The figures are approximately correct and are based on tables furnished by the U. S. Geodetic Survey. Some allowances must be made for variations in the wind and also with respect to the locality, that is whether near the inlet or at the head of the estuaries.
