Hoffman, District Ranger. Schools in Carteret County which will be eligible to enter the contest include Newport and White Oak Consolidated schools, and three smaller colored schools at Newport, Bogue and Stella.

The contest begins February 10, and continues through April 30. Each school has 100 points to begin with. Each forest fire that occurs in a school district will count 25 points against that school. If when the fire suppression crews of the Croatian Forest or N. C. Forest Service arrives, the fire is under control 10 of the 25 points will be given back. Each false alarm in a school district will count 10 against the school.

Each school has been supplied with complete details about the contest and the prize to be given will be something of some use to the school. A list of the prizes will be announced later.

In supplementation of the above a special committee of the N. C. Districts Principals Association decided on January 4, 1941, to ask the legislature to provide for a fifth increment for principals and to ask the State School Commission to provide for (a) further allowance for school bus supervision, (b) a travel allowance for district principals, (c) and office allowance for district principals, and (d) to clarify definitely the position of district principal.

It is quite obvious that there should be an increase in the school salaries in the light of the following facts revealed by an article to the Associated Press by Dr. Clyde A. Erwin in December, 1940:

"In 1931, when the state controlled the schools for six months each year, the highest monthly salary was $123; in 1933, the state operated the schools for eight months and the highest monthly salary paid was $90; since 1933, the annual or biennial increase has now reached a maximum of $128 per month, which figures are still below the salary schedule of 1921.

On the basis of the latest comparative figures of the several states, North Carolina ranks 36th in the average annual salaries paid teachers, supervisors, and principals. The highest average salary paid those school employees was highest in New York—$2,222 annually; the lowest in Arkansas—$571; the average of the nation was $1,374; whereas the average paid North Carolina teachers was $897 annually or $75.00 monthly.

If any provision is to be made whereby the school teachers are to meet the anticipated increase in living expenses in the ensuing biennium it must be through our legislators. And these members of the General Assembly will act with a definite degree of effectiveness whenever they are convinced of the necessity of this increase through the concerted efforts of the school employees and the civic minded laymen of North Carolina. It was in this spirit that the State Legislative Council, representing nine statewide civic and religious organizations, have officially endorsed the educational legislative program of the N. C. E. A.

The children of our State can be taught best by persons who bring to their teaching the fruits of travel, study, reading, drama, music, and other phases of broad cultural experiences. And this cultural background cannot be acquired by a mere subsistence wage.

School Money buys nothing more valuable than personal service. The efforts of individual school employees largely determines the quality of education in a community. And the school salary policy is one of the most potent influences in determining the quality of the school instructional staff.

According to a N. E. A. report the foundation of a sound salary policy have been laid if the following questions can be answered in the affirmative:

1. Do the employees concerned have a voice in planning the salary policy?
2. Are salaries paid on a definite schedule, adopted by the board of education?
3. Are salaries high enough so that teachers can maintain themselves in dignity on a plane of living suited to their professional responsibilities?
4. Does the schedule emphasize the value of high professional qualifications?
5. Are service increments provided as a means of normal progress from minimum to maximum salaries in each class?
6. Are salaries of various groups of employees fair in relation to each other?
7. Are the facts on salaries studied and made available to the community?

Rotary Club Hears Talk By Stewart

The Reverend Bill Stewart addressed the Beaufort Rotary at a meeting Tuesday night on the subject of "Service"; service to the Community, to Rotary and to Civic Enterprises in general. Reverend Stewart pointed out, among other things, that this service should instigate community activity of merit, but should not undertake to change the community itself. He indicated that under no circumstances should the club undertake to subsidize an organization. However its merit, but should undertake to assist in every way to stand on its own feet and to perform the functions for which it was organized. The talk, informal in nature, met with spontaneous approval, and gave Rotarians a better idea of the purposed functions of their club with regard to the community and to each other. The following list was given by the club as constituting the Boy Scout Council and Youth Committee.
