NEWS IN THE WORLD OF RELIGION BY W. W. REID

"Our nation not only needs armed forces and defense workers, but it must also have trained Christian leaders capable of restoring order in a wrecked world," says Dr. John O. Gross of the Board of Education of the Methodist Church, in a plea that youth be made to understand that preparing themselves for leadership in the future nation is a patriotic duty. "It would be unfortunate for the nation and church if youth with high aptitudes for scholarship and spiritual leadership cannot complete plans to attend college. It is these years of college that lay the foundation for the later achievements in the arts, the humanities, and the sciences."

At Princeton Seminary, at Western Seminary in Pittsburgh, Illinois and Michigan, the Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. is holding a series of studies on the Christian bases for a peace that will be effective and for post-war reconstruction. The studies will be conducted under the auspices of the denomination's Department of Social Education and Action of which the Rev. Cameron P. Hall is chairman. It is planned later to take such studies to the campuses of Presbyterian colleges and universities throughout the country.

Since the outbreak of the present world war, more than 600 camps of prisoners of war, civilian internees, and other victims of war, in 28 countries and on five continents, have been served through the War Prisoners' Aid of the Y. M. C. A. which has its headquarters in Geneva, Switzerland.

The Roman Catholic Church has in India, Ceylon and Burma, three archdioceses and thirteen dioceses entrusted to the care of Indian bishops, and more than 3,000 Indian priests are serving the churches and people. Most of the Indian bishops and priests have been trained at the Catholic general seminary at Kandy on the island of Ceylon.

According to the Rev. William Paton, of London, Eng., secretary of the World Council of Churches and of the British Council of Churches, now on a visit to the United States, a group of "Christian fellowships" have been formed in London between British church leaders and refugees from European countries now residing in England. These include the British-Russian Christian Fellowship, and Anglo-Scandinavian, Anglo-Norwegian, Anglo-French, Anglo-Netherlands, and Anglo-German Christian Fellowships; and then there is a joint fellowship including representatives of all these groups. Dr. Paton says these fellowships are contributing much to international Christian understanding and will have considerable influence on post-war peace and post-war church activities.

"Should Congressional action be taken making compulsory the registration of women for service either with the armed forces or with war industries, let me urge the necessity for providing civilian service for those women whose consciences do not permit their participation in war," Miss Georgie Harkness, professor of applied theology at Garrett Biblical Institute, Evanston, Ill.—and said to be the only woman teaching theology in a graduate seminary in the United States—has written to President Roosevelt. "The primary reason why church women are impelled to make this request," says Dr. Harkness, "is the supremacy of the Christian conscience. Loyalty to God must be placed before all earthly claims, and without a recognition of this fact there can be no true freedom of worship."

The Church Committee for China Relief, which is sponsored by most of the major Protestant denominations in the United States, is using some of its funds for two important relief projects connected with hospitals in China. Its "Quinine Fund" is purchasing elsewhere in the Orient large quantities of quinine that is distributed to mission hospitals to fight malaria that has arisen in epidemic proportions in many parts of China due to the war; and through the International Red

Editor Announces New Publications

A new respect for the much-abused cotton crop and a growing interest in economical silage for North Carolina's expanding livestock industry are two bright spots in the State's agricultural picture this year.

To make available to farm people timely concise information on both topics, the Extension Service of N. C. State College has just published a revised circular on cotton growing and a folder on low-cost silos.

Extension Circular No. 258, "Cotton growing in North Carolina," contains suggestions for producing better staple and better quality lint through the improvement of present planting, cultural, and harvesting methods

Extension folder No. 56, "Low Cost Silos," is intended to describe the construction of silos from materials available largely on the average farm.

F. H. Jeter, agricultural editor of State College, says that either or both of these publications may be secured by writing to his office and requesting the pamphlets by name and number. The publications will be sent without charge.

The cotton circular was prepared by a committee representing the N. C. Agricultural Experiment Station, the N. C. Department of Agriculture, and the Extension Service.

The silo folder was compiled by David S. Weaver, head of the Agricultural Engineering Department at State College and F. B. Farnham and John A. Arey, Extension dairymen.

Improvement

More definite improvement will be noticeable shortly in consumer demand for farm products, reports the Bureau of Agricultural Economics of the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Increase

Reports submitted by 117 commercial vegetable seed growers indicate that the production of vegetable seed is expected to be larger this year than last because of larger acreages and yields.

Cross for Central China it is distributing drugs and medical supplies to some 96 civilian hospitals in Free (West) China, as well as to dispensaries, refugee camps, and orphanages.

Poultrymen Warned Against Negligence

This is the season of the year when a small amount of negligence may prove costly to the farm poultry raiser or the commercial poultryman, says T. T. Brown, Extension poultryman of N. C. State College.

Improper management of the laying stock or the young pullet flock can easily reduce profits now and during the next 12 months. Since eggs are already improving in price, indifferent management of laying flocks or chicks during this season will prove expensive.

If the flock is well cared for, the poultryman can expect satisfactory margin of profit from his eggs in a few more weeks. This will necessitate careful culling, a job that should be done each week.

Hens that go broody should be banded with a spirolet and placed in a broody coop. Such a coop should have a wire bottom and should be suspended at least two to three feet above the floor to permit free air circulation under and around the hens.

If broody hens are confined to such a coop at the first signs of broodiness and both mash and grain kept before them, they will not usually require more than five to six days to come back into production. If allowed to remain on a nest several days before confinement, it may require weeks to break the broody tendency.

Brown also advised poultrymen to open laying houses at the back and ends so as to give the flock plenty of ventilation during the summer season. If the birds are not kept cool and comfortable, feed consumption will drop and so will egg production. In case the birds stop eating to a noticeable extent a wet mash at noon will stimulate greater feed consumption and hold egg production more steady through the hot weather.

Discontinued

The production of farm machinery and equipment requiring rubber tires, except for combine harvester-threshers, has been discontinued by an order to the War Production Board.

Catherine Lancee, a 4-H Club member of the Mills River club in Henderson County, made a net income of $109.23 from nine hogs, which she kept as a club project.

ANSWERS To Timely Farm Questions

QUESTION: How is a one-varietal cotton community established?

ANSWER: The first step is to have interested farmers. Then they should see the county agent, who will aid them in setting up an organization for the improvement of cotton in their community. Arrangements will then be made with ginners to take the samples necessary for the classification. The organization will make an application through the county agent for free classing and marketing news service. This application must be filed in the office of the cotton marketing specialist at N. C. State College by August 15.

QUESTION: When should chrysanthemum plants be divided?

ANSWER: James G. Weaver of N. C. State College says plants that are coming up from the roots of plants and bloomed last fall should be taken up at this time and divided. If this is done and the soil well prepared for re-setting, the gardener will be well repaid in choice blooms next fall. The young shoots should each have a good set of roots by the time they are 4 to 5 inches above the ground. The plants should be set in prepared beds not closer than 12 inches. Some of the smaller flowered varieties may be placed farther apart because of their spreading habit of growth.

QUESTION: Should peanuts be grown in a rotation?

ANSWER: Yes. They should be grown in a definite rotation including at least two soil-building crops such as vetch, cowpeas, or lespedeza. If soybeans are used in the rotation, peanuts should not follow immediately. Peanuts should not be planted on land that is just being returned to cultivation after it has lain idle. How-

Wanted:: 2,000 Pilot Instructors

Two thousand pilot instructors between the ages of 21 and 42 who hold a pilot's certificate and have more than 140 hours of solo flying are being sought by the Army Air Forces Flying Training Command.

Men meeting the requirements will work as elementary and secondary instructors in the training schools conducted by the Air Forces and the Civil Aeronautics Administration, and produce new pilots. Salaries at the start are not less than $200 a month, the average pay being $300.

"Your country needs you," states the CAA. "You furnish your certificate, your flying experience and your flying skill, and the CAA will give you a refresher course to fit you for this work. As a pilot, think! Are you more important in your present job, or in the air?"

Persons interested should write to the Civil Aeronautics Administration, the farmer with idle crop-land could use it to produce a feed crop and release other land to the planting of peanuts.
