

Dim - Out Accident On Ann Street Is Fatal To Cyclist

To Preside Over
Convention Sat.

Edward Hunning Dies
Of Fractured Skull
After Running Into Automobile

DRIVER OF CAR NOT HELD RESPONSIBLE

A realistic warning to the dangers of traveling during the new dim-out restrictions comes from the fatal accident of Edward Hunning, 11 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Hunning who reside at the corner of Broad and Fulford streets, which occurred about 8:30 Wednesday night at the corner of Ann and Marsh streets.

Hunning died Thursday morning at 9:50 o'clock in the Morehead City hospital of a fractured skull, broken collar bone and bruises.

Frank Rice, of Beaufort, driver of the car that turned off Ann street into Marsh, will not be held blame for the accident. A statement from State Highway Patrolman John Laws said: "No criminal negligence was found on the part of Rice."

C. Z. Chappell, of Beaufort, who was an eye witness to the tragedy, stated that in his opinion: "Rice is not the blame because the boy ran in front of him."

Chappell, a county commissioner, who was standing on the corner stated that he and Mrs. Chappell were walking down Ann street. His wife saw two cars approaching and said: "Stop, we don't want to get run over." Mr. Chappell described the traffic conditions as: The car driven by Rice was going down Ann street east and turned into Marsh street towards north. Coming in the opposite direction on Marsh street was a car driven by Elbert Dudley going south.

"Just that instant," stated Chappell, "the boy dashed off the sidewalk into the car." Young Hunning, who was riding a bicycle on the sidewalk, was going at such a speed, Chappell continued, that the momentum carried him right into the car driven by Rice, who was riding with Paul Davis from Davis.

"Rice stopped the car instantly," said Chappell, "but Hunning's bicycle hit the front fender and his head hit the car-light. He turned over like an acrobat and bounced like a rubber ball six or seven feet into the air."

Chappell said that the child was placed in Elbert Dudley's automobile and carried to Potter's Emergency hospital. Finding no physician present, Hunning was taken to Dr. F. E. Hyde, who stated that the boy suffered from a fractured skull, a broken collar bone and bruises.

Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

Fred Warring Dedicates Song To Fort Macon

The Fort Macon Coast Guard Station has received a wire from headquarters of Fred Warring's weekly trip on Friday, May 22, from Merrimon and North River to the Court House Annex, and return.

The bus will leave Merrimon at 10:30 A. M., and reach North River between 10:30 and 11:00 to arrive in Beaufort around noon. The return trip will leave the Court-house at 2:00 P. M.

The fare is to be around 50 cents round trip, or less, depending on the number of passengers. If a sufficient number of patrons are secured the service will be permanent.

This service was requested by the Health Department to aid the large number of clinic patients that receive treatment every Friday.

POPPY DAY WILL BE OBSERVED ON SAT., MAY 23RD.

American Legion Auxiliary Sponsors Annual Memorial Sales

"This year we will have on Saturday, May 23, our first War Time Poppy Day," stated Mrs. Ethel W. Davis, president of the local unit of the American Legion Auxiliary.

"Poppy Day," she continued, "can help awaken America to the grim reality of war; for our poppy is the memorial to our World War dead and speaks of that terrible reality—death in battle."

"With our poppy sale proceeds we have taken care of the disabled World War Veteran and his family. This year by action of the Legion we are including the disabled veteran of this 'war of the world' and his family. Surely this year we will have the finest Poppy Day in all our history," Mrs. Davis continued.

"Our quota for North Carolina is 150,000, as you know they have been made in Fayetteville at the United States Veterans' Facility, by the disabled patients. The Wards fairly bloomed with these See POPPY DAY Back Page

REV. MCCONNELL LISTS CHANGES IN WORLD ORDER

Informes Graduates Of Economic, Political And Social Forces

Rev. E. C. McConnell told the Beaufort High School graduates last Sunday at the baccalaureate services held in the high school auditorium at 11:15 o'clock that "it is obvious that the world in which you will live and grow old will be different from the world in which your parents lived in and will grow old. You do not have to look into a crystal ball; just look at the headlines in the paper."

Rev. McConnell outlined the three changing forces: The economic, political and social that at the present have divided into two sides in the battle death grip. He traced civilization from its origin of tribes into nations and then into imperialism, "which is the domination of many by one."

"We now have the two great combines of nations. One wants to go back to imperialism; the other is striving onward to freedom."

In outlining the distinctions or "guiding motive" between these two opposing combines, Rev. McConnell stated that imperialism uses money as an end rather than a means. Socially it produced much sham which made opportunities open to those of class wealth, family position, and the color of their skin rather than upon the sole merits of their ability.

"The ideal environment," Rev. McConnell concluded, "is that society which cares more for the health and welfare of the people rather than the exploitation of our resources. We have tried the other ways and you can see that they are not working. But this is the practical dream or vision of a perfect society and can be attained only through Christianity."

"There's Gold In Them Thar Gills"

A fishing trip by some Cherry Point defense workers can now start them singing: "There's Gold In Them Thar Gills."

These defense workers went on a fishing trip the other day and caught a 5 pound sea mullet. When dressing the fish, they found inside a different type of Jonah, namely an initialed gold ring.

It is believed that the fish consumed the ring when it nibbled off a diget from an ocean casualty.

Davis Named Head Of Forensic Group

John Dixon Davis, of Beaufort, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. Leslie Davis, has been named president of the Euzelian Literary Society and also of the Pi Kappa Delta, honorary forensic society, at Wake Forest College.

Davis recently won recognition in the three-day Strawberry Leaf Speech Contest at Winthrop College in Rock Hill, S. C. Wake Forest College speakers took three out of 11 first places. Davis placed first in response to the occasion of after dinner speeches.

Rankin Warns Against Too Much Optimism In Conducting War Effort

SPEAKER

DR. ROBERT S. RANKIN,
Professor of Political Science at Duke University, who made the graduation address at the Beaufort High School this week.

Speaks To Beaufort
Graduates On "Illusions and Realities"

DIPLOMAS GIVEN TO
FORTY-SEVEN SENIORS

The graduation address by Dr. Robert S. Rankin of the Duke University faculty boiled down to telegram-size length stated that the war cannot be won by writing popular songs, evading issues and in general, engaging in wishful thinking.

Dr. Rankin's debunking was aimed at such commercial ditties as "Slap A Jap Off The Map." "We haven't done it yet," he said, "even though I think we will."

Elaborating on his topic "Illusions and Realities," Dr. Rankin stated that "in spite of the fact that we are living in a marvelous age, and that we have so many tools and gadgets, there are many who think that hard work is necessary."

Illusions

He reviewed the advancement that civilization has made in medicine, transportation and in developing the gastronomic art. "But," he added, "these machine age illusions have put us into a fairy-land of un-realities, such as: 'Everything will come out all right,'—we needn't worry—always making a home run in the last half of the ninth inning."

In citing cases of escapism bred by the complex mechanism of the machine age, Dr. Rankin pointed out how the general public loses itself in the comic strips and fantasy employed by the animated cartoon. He mentioned Superman which inspired a certain youth to step out of his second story window in an attempt to conquer space.

The second illusion pointed out by Dr. Rankin was "Only Saps Work." He mentioned the popular belief, to wit: that it is a sign a man is a dumbbell if he works. Also, the preference for soft jobs so that "somebody else can do the dirty work."

Age Of Smear

"The third illusion," stated Rankin quoting the title of a recent magazine article is, "The Age of Smear." Those who engage in such practices, he said, are those who laugh at other people who try to do good. "The slogan of this 'smear age' is 'Oh Yeah.' He cited the past decade and especially the '20's' when the sophisticated thing to do was to debunk civic clubs, the church and fraternal organizations.

"The fourth illusion is that we can get away from fundamentals. Religion is so easy going that by our actions the average persons cannot tell if we have a religion." Dr. Rankin concluded his address See RANKIN Back Page

AROUND Town —With— MACK CLARK

Night Driving

We tried this new night driving regulation the other night—using just parking lights for illumination and not driving over fifteen miles per hour when you are within five miles of the ocean. Well, that fifteen m.p.h. part is kinda superfluous. When you can't see more than six feet in front of your car you run a terrific risk of banging right into the rear of some car parked along the curb. We think we will keep ours off the street after dark. And we will be extra careful when crossing the streets, too.

O. K. Governor

And while we're on the subject of driving, we would like to second Governor Broughton's action in terming the gas-rationing limitation to the eastern seaboard as unjust. We have lived under the impression that in a democracy all people share hardships as well as prosperity. If that is true, then the people inland should be rationed also. In fact we think, personally, that the people inland should be cut more than we are. We on the eastern seaboard have See AROUND TOWN Bck P

TIDE TABLE

Information as to the tide at Beaufort is given in this column. The figures are approximately correct and are based on tables furnished by the U. S. Geodetic Survey. So meallowances must be made for variations in the wind and also with respect to the locality, that is whether near the inlet or at the head of the estuaries.
