Housewives Can Help Make Bombs To Destroy Germany

House furnishings and other equipment owned by the average American housewife contain a total of nearly 1,000 pounds of iron and steel, part of which may have outlived its usefulness in its present form, according to a statement issued yesterday by the local Scrap Salvage Committee.

This total does not include furnaces, plumbing and heating equipment and other iron and steel used in building the home itself.

"We cite these figures," the Committee said, "to show that a large supply of worn-out metal equipment may be in your kitchen, attic, cellar or closets.

"One old metal bed in the attic will account for 40 pounds of steel scrap. A steel spring mattress will add 20 pounds of scrap—enough for several helmets used by soldiers. An old kitchen stove stored in your cellar will provide as much as 250 pounds of iron and steel, enough to make several bombs to be dropped on the enemy.

"Smaller items which may be ready to be scrapped are scissors, 1-3 pound each; electric iron, 6 pounds; umbrella, 1-2 pound; springs from an old upholstered chair, 5 pounds; wastebasket, 2 pounds.

"We urge housewives to make a survey of their equipment to see what part of it is suitable for being scrapped. Every pound thus obtained will help increase the output of steel needed for winning the war."
