Somebody is going to look like thirty cents before the thing is over.

No matter who wins, the chances are they will wish they hadn't.

The State Chairmanship is not the soft snap that most people think it is.

The man who gets it will want to turn it loose long before his time is out.

The way to keep down factional strife is to read the Dispatch and heed its wholesome advice.

It might be alright to run the steam roller over the other fellow, if you knew you were not going to need him any more.

Are you a subscriber to the Dispatch? If not you are missing some mighty good reading these days.

The campaign is on, if you want to keep posted subscribe for the State Dispatch. We give the news for all factions.

The man who wins the State Chairmanship may be very ambitious, but he will have his arbor cooled before he can turn it loose.

The Dispatch is for all factions. The advice is wholesome, and the reading good. Try it a year and if you don't think so, you can stop the paper.

The Democrats of Caswell county actually nominated an old Confederate soldier for County surveyor at their county convention a few days ago.

Major Steadman got the nomination for Congress, but my how they did try to outfigure the grand old man, as he is familiarly called by his friends.

The old Confederate soldier is all right as long as he stays in the fighting ranks of the Democracy, but when ever he wants a sure enough office he is sent away back to sit down.

Those who are bent upon seeing their favorite for State Chairman win should remember that when this contest is settled, that the real contest will have just begun.

Those who are bent upon seeing their faction win the Chairmanship must bear in mind that it takes all the factions together to win an election, and then some more.

The Democrats of the State find themselves on the run for recruits, they have brow-beat the old Confederate soldier until he is a back number in their ranks. Now they are trying to satisfy this element by nominating one or two for the legislature. They cannot fool anybody by this ruse.

The Republicans of the State have been reading too much Democratic literature, hence the many wrangles in the party councils. Boys you better let it alone it is catching.

Those who were successful in capturing the delegates for their favorite for State Chairman, at the county convention should give the election of the county ticket some attention now.

Are the men who are making the fight of their lives to have their favorite elected State Chairman, doing so because they believe he is the best man, or is there some other motive?

The Republicans down at Raleigh tried to out wrangle the Democrats the other day, but they couldn't do it and had to give it up. It can't be done boys, no use trying.
