Liberty Shows Prove to Be Exceptionally Clean and Meritorious.

Under the auspices of the firemen of Punxsutawney the Big Liberty Shows opened here last night and the crowd that enjoyed the first evening's fun was an unusually large, also an unusually enthusiastic one.

First and foremost the shows are clean from beginning to end. There is no show on the grounds that any lady might not witness with pleasure and the attractions are uniformly good.

There are 12 attractions in all and they vie with each other for popularity although the dog and pony show is the feature. The motordrome, the Athletic show, the circus side show, the midget entertainment, in fact all the attractions are high class.

The merry-go-round and the Ferris wheel furnish plenty of amusement for the children and likewise the grown ups. In addition there are numberless other concessions that will amuse everyone. The crowd of last night appeared to be having the time of its life.

Mat Guy, who furnishes the free attraction by diving from a height of 110 feet into a tank five feet in depth, gives a real thrill. This act is staged every afternoon at 4:30 and every evening at 10:30. It is certainly one big free attraction.

The band with the Liberty Shows is one of the best ever heard here and the concerts are highly enjoyable. Miss Gilpin, who sings, accompanied by the band, has a voice of real charm.

All in all the attractions are apparently of the highest class, clean in every respect, and meritorious throughout.

The above is reproduced from one of the Sanford papers where the Liberty Shows are exhibiting this week. The Liberty Shows are to be here at the Fair. They will arrive here Monday morning and put up immediately and give a show at the Fair ground Monday night.

If you are opposed to cliques, rings, and secret political conspirators, attend the mass meeting October 3rd, Graham, and bring your neighbor with you, you will be welcome, and your help and influence needed.

"Is your client going to plead insanity?"

"I haven't decided yet," replied the lawyer. "He wants to look over the ground and see which is the easiest to escape from—the prison or the asylum."—Birmingham Age-Herald.

See notice of Republican County Convention in this issue then tell your neighbor the time and place.

"But I cannot understand why you say no; your mother has no objection to your marrying me?"

"No; and I have no objection to my mother marrying you, so there you are."—Houston Post.

Entertainment at Elon.

Elon College, Sept. 21.—Miss Urquhart, dean of women, entertained her Sunday school class, 50 in number, bearing the name Fidelis, in the west dormitory tonight.

The hostess and the officers of the Fidelis class received the girls in the spacious parlor where chairs and tables had been arranged for games and contests. Miss Oma Utley was successful in the contest for Bible names by syllables, the prize being a volume of Frances Ridley Havergal's. After a delightful hour there, the girls were ushered to the dining room which had been tastefully decorated for the occasion, using cypress vine, sweet peas, and roses, carrying out the class colors—green and violet.

Refreshments were served, and wit and appropriate toasts made. Miss Janie Pritchard, vice president, acting as toastmistress in the absence of the president, Miss Callie V. Dunlap.

Take a day off to attend your county's business October 3rd, you are a partner in this good old County of Alamance, and the stockholders are going to have a meeting to select a set of men who will manage the county affairs in a successful manner. You cannot send a proxy—come in person. Your advice and presence are needed.

Who is A. A. Whitener?
"Who is A. A. Whitener?" queries the Winston Journal referring to the Republican nominee for the United States Senate to succeed Senator Lee S. Overman.

The "A. A." part is calculated to throw many off their guard, for those who know the man know him only as "Mike," which probably accounts for the Journal's failure to recognize him at first. "Mike" is well known throughout the eighth and ninth congressional districts, especially in the ninth. However, his reputation is not confined solely to those districts, for he is fairly well known throughout the State in legal and political circles. He is not old in years, is younger in spirit, and has a large law practice in Catawba, Lincoln, Burke, Caldwell and other counties in that section of the State. He is a "good sport," too, taking great interest in baseball and other athletics, and many times he has been called upon to umpire a hot game of baseball between rival teams. His love for a good joke, a hearty laugh, and true athletics is well known, and in many respects he is like William G. Brauman of Durham. He is well-informed on all questions.

is a good lawyer and a good mixer. While a Republican of the deep dye, he has as many and more friends who are Democrats. He is a great speaker, having an easy flow of language, and a voice that will carry anywhere. When Mike Whitener speaks the committee on arrangements need not worry about the acoustics of the hall. Mike's voice can't be drowned.

For many years he was law partner of W. A. Self, the silver-tongued orator of the foothill region of North Carolina. Self was just as much a Democrat as Whitener a Republican, but in their business relations they were the closest of friends. When the biennial campaigns would roll around, both would be found on the stump fighting for their political beliefs, and the fur would fly.

But this is digressing. Whitener is a splendid fellow, and as he stands out the slightest show of election, we can afford to say all these good, and at the same time true, things about him. Should he decide to take the stump in the coming campaign it will add greatly to the merriment of the race. In his younger days he followed the style of Romulus Z. Linney, the "Bull of the Brushies," in his campaign speaking, as did Tom Settle and other of the younger politicians. But as this style fell by the wayside, Mike adapted himself to the new, and is today one of the State's most polished speakers.

The farmers are wise in this day and generation. They are holding their cotton for more than ten cents, and they will get it too if they will only hold until the demand increases.

MORTGAGE SALE.

By virtue of a power of sale, contained in a Mortgage Deed, executed to me on the 5th day of February, 1895, by William Coble and wife, Alice Coble, and duly recorded in book No. 24, page 242, 243, 244 in the office of register of deeds of Alamance County, default having been made in the payment of the note secured by said mortgage deed, I will on at 2 o'clock, P. M. at the Court House door in the Town of Graham, County of Alamance, N. C., sell to the highest bidder at public auction for cash, the following piece or parcel of land lying and being in Patterson's Township, Alamance County, North Carolina, and known and designated as follows:

Beginning at a stone at William Coble's corner, running W. ten chains to a stone, thence S. ten chains to a stone, thence E. ten chains to William Coble's corner, thence N. with William Coble's line to the beginning, containing ten acres, or the same more or less.

This the 8th day of September, 1914.

A. L. COBLE, Mortgagor.

J. H. Vernon, Attorney.

J. Fonville farm, containing 135 acres, 90 acres of which lies within the city limits of Burlington. This land is in high state of cultivation and is well adapted to the growth of tobacco, truck, grain and grasses. Ample barns and outbuildings. For further particulars apply to C. C. Fonville

"Give a woman credit," pleads a suffragette, but may it not be that some of them hold, at times at least, to the Omarian philosophy of taking the cash and letting the credit go?

The fact that District Attorney Whitman has been caught in co-sultation with Boss Barnes, has put that gentleman upon the defensive. Such is politics.

When You Buy "HOME MADE" You Are a Real "HOME AID"

Walls, forts, turrets, armor, steel strategy! Defense, protection, safety! These are the words of the hour and the thought of millions today. Yonder, in the thick of the "gholly-windie," men and women tremble lest their defenses fail. Terror grips the stoutest hearted in the great tramp, tramp of the destroying hordes.

Here, we are in the midst of peace. Yet our thought turns, swift as light to our DEFENSES. While we sit and thank our stars, and stripes, that we are not as other nations are, the query flashes: What shall we do to be safe? Our combat is the peaceful one of commerce. Our safety lies in the way of LOYALTY.

When we of America produce our own food stuffs, we are forging our defenses. The more we produce the sturdier we are.

When we MANUFACTURE our own tools, our own clothing, our own supplies, our knaries as well as our needs, we are fortifying against invasion.

But— WHEN WE USE WHAT WE MANUFACTURE, WE ARE ABSOLUTELY CLINCHING THE ARGUMENT.

We've spent millions seeing Europe. We've poured our annual tribute into foreign coffers for foreign stuff. We've squandered uncounted thousands of good American dollars for imported luxuries.

"Hills are green far away," says the proverb. And we've believed it. We've ACTED IT.

We've forgotten that HERE WHERE WE LIVE there are skilled laborers and artisans making the stuff that we need.

We've lost sight of the fact that AT OUR OWN DOORS there are factories and shops turning out goods that we calmly pass by for those bearing the magic label—"Made in goodness knows where."

Are we loyal? Do we mean what we say when we patter about patriotism?

Loans, let's quit all this sort of foolishness and go to work building a big wall for our own defense.

Let's take stock of our resources HERE AT HOME, CLOSE BY, and whirl into the thick of the most patriotic piece of service we've ever tackled.

Let's form the HOME GUARD! If you have a scrap of loyalty and foresight—join the Home Guard. If you care—really CARE—you'll pitch with whole-souled vigor into this HOME AID campaign.

BUY HOME MADE GOODS and you'll be piling up practical ammunition for the defense of the country you love.
