MR. BRYAN WOULD RATHER BE RIGHT.

A number of publications are asking if Mr. Bryan has made a mistake which is irretrievable, and if he has openly invited oblivion. We think it quite possible that he has done so. Moreover, we know that Mr. Bryan has fully counted the cost. In some respects that cost has not been so dear as he foresaw. Condemnation of his act in retiring from the cabinet has been severe in certain quarters, but the former secretary assured this paper the other day that Bryan is just neutral and he says he has no trouble at all in being that way. Some one has said, in bitterness, that Pilate was the greatest of all neutrals, but Mr. Bryan cannot help what the people say. He is neutral and he believes this country ought to be neutral, treating all the nations at war alike. That is a will have no part in this abuse of Mr. Bryan. We believe that all of the friends of the President will ultimately come to a realization of the fatuity and futility of this course. At all events, we are certain that Mr. Bryan will consult his individual conscience to the end, whatever that end may be. Mr. Bryan, we happen to know, did not even consult his intimate friends before resigning. On all public questions he did not hesitate to take these friends into his confidence, and to take counsel of them; but he did what his conscience told him to do, when he concluded that he could not sign a note which, he feared, conformed to an old and dangerous form of diplomacy, especially in the unaltered form which in the beginning he was asked to approve. But Mr. Bryan has not set about to draw himself a following for probable use in the future. He has not angled for the support of those in sympathy

OUR NATION'S PRAYER.

Oh God! Thou great and Holy One, Look down from Thy mighty throne, Upon those war stricken nations, and send, Mercy which comes from Thee alone. Drive hatred from the hearts of men, Arouse them from their dream, That they may know Thy mighty power, And Thou alone rules supreme. Give strength to the orphaned ones, Left by this awful strife, Take them under Thy sheltering wing, Give them the bread of life. God be with those homeless ones, Stretch forth Thy loving hand, Teach them to fear Thee alone And not the wrath of man. Look down upon that blood-stained battlefield, And aid men's quick ghastring breath, Teach them to say, "Thy will be done," Before their eye-lids close for death. May the cannon's roar cease its thunder, And each head bow in shame, And lips that shouted the battle cry Sing Praises to Thy name. -JAMES W. ELLIOTT, May 18, 1915.

What with speaking of the speaking he is going to do, and then speaking, and then speaking of the speaking he has done, Mr. Bryan appears to be the busy man all right, all right.

BID TEN CENTS FOR COFFINS.

Market for Burial Supplies Not Lively at This Auction Sale. (St. Louis Star.) Coffins, which the auctioneer facetiously said could be used for flatboats in these high-water times, brought a bid of 10 cents each at a sheriff's sale in Belleville recently when the property of the Britchler-Bucholz Livery and Undertaking company was sold under an execution on an $11,000 judgment held by G. W. Brichler, of East St. Louis. Constable Ben Lantz was the auctioneer. A horse brought a bid of $2 and 100 shrouds a bid of $10. The sale was conducted in two ways. The property was offered piece by piece and then offered as a whole. Under the first plan the total amount bid was $3,389.60. G. W. Brichler then bid in the property as a whole for $8,000.

THE PRINCE HIMSELF.

German Petty King Was the Man Captured. Paris, July 3.—In the fighting front near Arras an officer of a German hussar regiment was captured. His uniform was covered with blood and dust, but he looked every inch a soldier. A French officer asked him to sit down and inquired if he spoke French. "Yes," he replied, and added with a bit of irony, "I had much practice at Lille lately." "Your men are happy to be prisoners. Are you?" "No, it is the most cruel fate for an officer." Then, after a short silence as if arguing with himself, the prisoner went on: "At least I have an excuse. I am wounded and so weary that I can hardly stand. For two days I have been on guard. For forty-eight hours I have not slept." One of the prisoner's eyes was terribly swollen and quite closed from a fragment of shell that had struck him in the cheek bone. One of his ears was lacerated by another fragment. "Is my eye gone?" he asked the attendant surgeon. "No." "My ear is cut in two?" "Not in two, but in three!" "It was in Von K.'s trench that you were captured?" asked the French officer. Von K. is a prince of an ancient German house. The officer started, but this time did not reply. Afterward it was learned that the prisoner was Prince Von K. himself.

RACCOON CURE FOR RHEUMATISM.

Harry Parker, a resident of Alton, has gone to the country for eight weeks and will live on the meat of raccoons, rabbits and other wild animals as a cure for rheumatism. Several years ago, when attacked by the disease, he was removed to the country. He started a diet of wild animal flesh and was cured. He again is suffering and will try the cure that brought him relief before. That Georgia mob dispersed when the saloons were closed up. That's where it is expected to get its courage.

Don't Make Curiosity Telephone Calls

Advertisement for Southern Bell Telephone and Telegraph Co. featuring a bell icon and text: 'IT is beyond the bounds of possibility to answer promptly the mass of curiosity telephone calls that threaten to swamp our exchanges every time there is a large fire. Calls for physicians, the ambulance or the police, held up at such times might result in the loss of human life. For your protection, as well as for the protection of your neighbors, we ask you not to call the telephone operator merely out of curiosity. After all, she has no more information than you have.'

STOMACH TROUBLE FOR FIVE YEARS

Majority of Friends Thought Mr. Hughes Would Die, But One Helped Him to Recovery. Pomeroyton, Ky.—Is interesting advice from this place. Mr. A. J. Hughes writes as follows: "I was down with stomach trouble for five (5) years, and would have sick headache so bad, at times, that I thought surely I would die. I tried different treatments, but they did not seem to do me any good. I got so bad, I could not eat or sleep, and all my friends, except one, thought I would die. He advised me to try Dr. J. H. Hughes' Black-Draught, and quit taking other medicines. I decided to take his advice, although I did not have any confidence in it. I have now been taking Black-Draught for three months, and it has cured me—haven't had those awful sick headaches since I began using it. I am so thankful for what Black-Draught has done for me." Dr. J. H. Hughes' Black-Draught has been found a very valuable medicine for derangements of the stomach and liver. It is composed of pure, vegetable herbs, contains no dangerous ingredients, and acts gently, yet surely. It can be freely used by young and old, and should be kept in every family chest.
