OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With—A Chapel Hill Citizen Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Chapel Hill people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Chapel Hill, and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. Eliza Mulholland, W. Chapel Hill, N. C., says: "I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills, for I have used them and they have given me great relief. For years my kidneys troubled me and I suffered intensely from a lame and aching back. I had pains through my kidneys and the kidney secretions bothered me. A few months ago I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they not only relieved the backache, but also restored my kidneys to a normal position."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, New York, sole agents for the United States.

Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

Don't think that piles can't be cured. Thousands of obstinate cases have been cured by Doan's Ointment. 50 cents at any drug store.

Uncle Ezra Says

"It don't take more'll a gill uv effort to git folks into a peck of trouble" and a little neglect of constipation, biliousness, indigestion or other liver derangement will do the same. If failing, take Dr. King's New Life Pills for quick results. Easy, safe, sure, and only 25 cents at Eubanks Drug Co.

When Church Property Becomes Taxable.

The Corporation Commission has given an interesting opinion as to whether property held by churches as an investment is taxable. This question was raised sometime ago in the Eastern North Carolina diocese of the Episcopal church. There were opinions of big lawyers that such property should not be taxed, but the commission decides otherwise. Chairman C. D. Bradham, of the county commissioners of Craven county, asked for the opinion and received the answer that property not used as a church, as a parsonage, or as a religious meeting place, that is to say, property held by churches not actually owned by them for religious purposes, is subject to taxation.

FIVE LOAVES AND TWO FISHES.

Mark vi, 30-44—Sept. 22.
 "Jesus said unto them, I am the Bread of Life."—John vi, 35.

WHEN the twelve Apostles returned to Jesus they explained the instance of their tour and what they had taught; and He called them away to a desert place to rest awhile, because of the crowd and because they had not even time to take nourishment. So they went privately by ship. But the news went also and the crowd went on foot from various cities.

Jesus would have no time to Himself. His entire life was devoted and being rendered up a living sacrifice to the Divine service, in feeding the sheep of Jehovah's flock, and His own sheep also, because all that were the Father's were His. As He looked upon the multitude, He felt a yearning compassion for them: "They were like sheep without a shepherd," and He continued to teach them.

But did they not have synagogues, and regular reading of the Scriptures? Did they not have Scribes, Pharisees, Priests and Levites? How could they be without shepherding? Ah, they had a soul-hunger, which the forms, ceremonies and burdens bound upon them could not satisfy. They really wanted the "Bread of Life," which Jesus had—which Jesus was, for He personified the Truth. Why then did they not receive it? They were bound by superstition, prejudice, the fear of man, traditions of the ancients, and the opposition of the great and learned of their time.

Did they not frequently inquire, "Have any of the Scribes and Pharisees believed on Him?" The common people always refer to the learned. The learned therefore have the greater responsibility. Jesus declared of them, "Ye have taken away the key of knowledge;" you will neither enter into the favor of God yourselves, nor will you permit others to enter in.—Luke xi, 52. And is not this true today? The learned of the colleges and principal pulpits are telling the people that the Bible is not the Divine Message which Jesus and the Apostles declared it to be; that Moses and the Prophets did not write the books accredited to them; and thus indirectly telling that Jesus and the Apostles were deceived when Jesus said, "Moses wrote of Me," and the Prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah said thus and so.

The Sympathy of Jesus. The multitudes in their enthusiasm went a long journey from home without making proper provisions for food. The disciples urged that the people be sent home. Jesus suggested, "Give ye them to eat." But they declared they had nothing wherewith to feed so many, and that if even they should go to purchase it would cost much. Finally they found five loaves and two fishes. By Jesus' direction they seated the multitudes in companies on the grass, and the loaves and fishes, under heavenly blessing, were divided again and again, and all ate to their satisfaction; and the fragments amounted to twelve baskets, while those who had partaken were 5,000.

This wonderful miracle not only attests our Lord's sympathy, but also spoke volumes to the people of the Divine power that was in the Great Teacher; but there is still another lesson which it teaches us. Like all of Jesus' miracles it was merely another foretelling, or illustration, of His future glory and of the coming blessings. This miracle speaks to us of the power that our Lord will then have for providing for the necessities of the whole world. True, we do not expect that during the reign of Christ the world will be miraculously fed, but rather in accordance with the Scriptural promise, "The earth shall yield her increase;" and again, "I will call for the wheat, and will increase it," etc., etc. But specially the feeding of the multitude reminds us of the fact testified in our text that Jesus is "The Bread of Life"—the Divine Provision for the necessities of the whole world.

"I Am the Bread of Life."

As the Church now partake of the merit of Christ's sacrifice, and become members of His Body, the one Loaf, and thus partake of eternal Life through Him, so in God's due time the Bread from Heaven is to feed the multitudes of earth. During the thousand years of His reign, the Bread of Life will be freely distributed amongst all mankind. That Bread of Life is the Truth—particularly the Truth connected with the great redeeming work of Jesus. He is to be the Bread of Life to the world, because He bought the world with the sacrifice of His life.

The Church, however, in this present time, has another privilege which the world in the future will not share, and that is represented in the Lord's "cup." His "cup" to us represents our privilege of suffering with Him and becoming His joint-heirs in the Kingdom.

Did they not have synagogues, and regular reading of the Scriptures? Did they not have Scribes, Pharisees, Priests and Levites? How could they be without shepherding? Ah, they had a soul-hunger, which the forms, ceremonies and burdens bound upon them could not satisfy. They really wanted the "Bread of Life," which Jesus had—which Jesus was, for He personified the Truth. Why then did they not receive it? They were bound by superstition, prejudice, the fear of man, traditions of the ancients, and the opposition of the great and learned of their time.
